GOLDTHWAITE GENEALOGY.

INTRODUCTION.

---

Fifteen years ago, having then first become interested in the study of genealogy, I began, and have since at every opportunity continued, the collection of the records which are the foundation of this history of the Goldthwaite family. For a considerable part of this period the object of research was always a double one, including both my father's and mother's families, until, in 1890-1891, a series of fortunate discoveries in England regarding the latter family led to the compiling and publishing of its genealogy — Boardman, 1895 — since which time I have been steadily engaged in completing in the same way what has come to seem a similar duty, owed to the family of my father.

The thorough preparation of a family genealogy, with its subsequent publication, is no brief task. The time required for collecting and afterwards compiling material extends through years, to which succeeds the need of providing for expenses of publication, often a cause of long delay, or even, in many cases, of final abandonment of the undertaking; while, last of all, are the months required for the important business of seeing such a work carefully through the press, a process never admitting of haste.

To an earnest student of family history such a work will never seem fully completed. So many are the deficiencies of records, which it is always hoped in some way yet to overcome, and so numerous are the sources, so far unknown or inaccessible, from which further information may still be possible, that the historian can never be sure, even after the most extended research, that new facts of importance to the work may not yet come to light, and against such hesitates to close the record. It has been said that "the most laborious historian is pretty sure to be superseded within thirty years by the mere accumulation of new material." While this is probably to a large degree true in the wider field of general history, it cannot be equally so in the more limited one of the family historian. This is forbidden by the nature of the records on which he must rely. They are, for the most part, those of the town, church, county, or colony, or such as have been kept in individual families, either in writing, or in the recollections of their oldest living members. Such records furnish information, the least of all likely to be found superseded. The genealogist, therefore, who, realizing that his work must sooner or later be brought to an end, endeavors to state as facts only what can thus be proved, well considering, in the light of an exhaustive study of his family, what, in the absence of records, must be to some extent conjecture, giving it as such, with his reasons, may with reasonable confidence present his work to his family, leaving it for those who come after to make such additions as the future may reveal. It is with such considerations that the compiler of this family history now offers the results of her work. While disclaiming all pretensions to its entire freedom from error, it can be said that no effort has been spared to make it as accurate as the circumstances have allowed.

It may not be without interest to the reader unfamiliar with genealogical research, whose family history is here told, to mention some of the sources where information has been sought. First and most important has been the search of original records in places where members of the family have resided. Among such are records of the different New England colonies, those of the various colony or county courts, probate records, records of deeds, volumes of town proceedings, parish tax lists, church and town records of baptisms, births, marriages, and deaths, and graveyard inscriptions.

A second source has been correspondence with living descendants of the family, wherever they can be found. The Goldthwaites, though not a numerous family compared with many others, are yet quite widely scattered. Years ago one family of our name, now extinct, had its home in Cuba, and, as it is especially interesting now to remember, in that old city, once its capital, Santiago (St. Jago), which the war with Spain has lately made so familiar (see No. 273). Other descendants (Nos. 717, 721), sons of a Goldthwaite mother, settled in Buenos Ayres and Montevideo, South America, while my most distant correspondence with those now living includes letters from California, Utah, Colorado, Kansas, North Dakota, Texas, Louisiana, Alabama, Virginia, Maryland, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Michigan, Western New York, Vermont, New Hampshire, Eastern Maine, Canada, and South America, as well as from representatives of two branches living across the ocean, in England.

In addition to correspondence, recourse has been had, where it was possible, to a third source of information, of much interest, and of even greater value in its results. This has consisted of personal interviews with descendants. For this purpose I have visited in New England many of the centers around which some one or more of the different branches of the family are to be found now residing, seeing thus face to face in their homes numbers of Goldthwaites, and learning by question and answer what they have to tell of their family history. The cordial hospitality enjoyed at such times; and the kind assistance always rendered by these more or less distant kindred in furthering the search for information, taking me in many instances in their own conveyances from family to family or from place to place in search of records, have been the foundation of pleasant friendships, and the interest thus aroused has proved in many ways a valuable aid. The same results could not have been obtained by correspondence.

Among such centers of information stands first Salem, with its adjoining towns, Peabody, Lynn, Danvers, and Marblehead. There are to be found, not only the original home and earliest records of the family, but representatives of many of its different branches, some, of ancestry always remaining in the region, others, those who have returned, after the absence of their line for several generations, to make their abode in this home of their remote ancestors, not always known, however, by them to be such. This region has been repeatedly visited for search of its records, for obtaining clearer knowledge of its localities, and for interviews with its various families. What has been said of Salem is almost equally true of Boston, with its suburban towns, where was a branch of our family at an early day, and where many of the name of various lines are now living. Boston is a center also of many important public records. Other places visited for the same purpose were Uxbridge, with Northbridge adjacent, once the home of a numerous branch of whom several families remain, while a very much greater number of them are now found in other and distant parts of the Union; Peru, on the hills of Berkshire county, where came towards the close of the last century one of the Northbridge families, whose descendants are living to-day in various towns in Western Massachusetts and Southern Vermont; South Hadley and Granby in Hampshire county, where are a number of families of still another branch; Biddeford, Maine, the home of a large family, some of whose daughters have come down into Connecticut, and are now living in the vicinity of New London. Interesting shorter visits have been made to Providence, R. I., and vicinity, where are all that remain in that State of a family once settled in Smithfield (formerly part of Providence), the majority of them going up later to Northbridge, Mass.; to Avon, Norfolk county, Mass., formerly part of Stoughton, the home of once numerous Goldthwaites, many of whom have emigrated, while some yet inhabit the neighborhood; and still another to Miller's Falls, Franklin County, Mass. Here are Goldthwaites having an unusually complete and careful family record of some generations, yet lacking the connecting link to show their earlier ancestry. Over this I was for some time not a little puzzled, until their casual mention of two or three facts relating to a more distant ancestor of forgotten name (as that he was a Revolutionary soldier, was sick long after, and had come from Sutton) proved an unmistakable clue to their line of descent (see Nos. 89, 556). For it may be noted that in all these cases, and in fact throughout our whole family, there was, to begin with, but one instance (p. 182) where any branch had knowledge of its whole line from the emigrant, though that knowledge not infrequently extended back through three or even four generations. The same had been equally true of my own branch, for a record in their possession, which would have shown their full descent, had then for many years been lost sight of.

To the sources of information now spoken of may be added numerous printed authorities, such as town histories, family genealogies, historical and genealogical magazines, files of early newspapers, and, in general, everything which, to a close watch, might show any mention of our name. As will hereafter be seen, the search made in this country was, when opportunity offered, prosecuted later in England, on lines and in ways modified by the character of the records in that country.

Of written records preserved in the family, those of most importance are that mentioned above, made out in 1829, and a letter written by Miss Hannah Goldthwaite Gowen in 1861, when she was 87 years old, which relates to the Boston branch only. These will be found often alluded to, the first as the "Old Record," and copies of them are given in the appendix.

Together with authentic records, there will be found in most families more or less of tradition, which, as that alone, cannot be accepted as fact. Yet in tradition there is often a background of truth, shown to be such by evidences that are on record. To sift out whatever of truth there may be in such tradition, is an important part of the work of the genealogist, who may thus gain valuable clues. The descendant, for instance, may be ignorant or far astray as to the name of the ancestor to whom his tradition relates, while some event in the life of that ancestor, which is the important part of that tradition, is corroborated by facts on record, and thus points out his identity. For example, one member of our family knew that an ancestor (his great grandfather and a soldier) was one of the few who escaped from some general massacre by the Indians, yet he was unable to give particulars, or to tell his name. The massacre that succeeded the capitulation of Fort William Henry in 1757, is one of the well-known events of our early history, and it is shown by records of the French and Indian war in the Massachusetts Archives that Jacob Goldthwaite (No. 102) was one of that garrison. In this case I had known from other evidence that this gentleman's ancestor was Jacob, though he did not, but it will be seen how strong a clue to his ancestor's name would have been furnished by tradition and records thus united, had all other means of finding it been lacking. Other examples of similar evidence of lines of descent will be found on page 80, and in what is said regarding the Miller's Falls family elsewhere in this introduction.

It is not only between what is true or false in tradition that the genealogist is called to discriminate, but in regard to statements in written records generally reliable. Several instances are noted in this Genealogy where names had been given incorrectly in church records, and where records of that class are printed there is further danger of error. I was long mystified by a Jacob Goldthwait who appears in the selectmen's records of Boston in the list of those appointed for the walk or visitation of the town in 1739. Being confident that no such Jacob was in existence at that early day, I finally took an opportunity to consult the original manuscript in the city clerk's office, whence it appeared that Jacob should have been John. Another early Goldthwaite not accounted for was a William Goldthwaite, said in the Cogswell Genealogy to have married in 1744 Margaret Cogswell. An examination of Cogswell deeds at Salem showed that he was William Goldsmith. Other instances of a similar nature might be given of which these may suffice as examples.

Regarding the name Goldthwaite, Judge Savage, in his "Genealogical Dictionary of New England," remarks, "none has been worse perverted in spelling," a statement not likely to be disputed by any reader of the succeeding pages. Not only has this variation been made by others, but it is to be seen in the family itself. Setting aside the many different forms found in England, and in the earliest generations of the family in this country, a marked variety exists among those now, or very recently, living. In my correspondence I find the signatures Goolthrite, Goldthrite, Gouldthrite, Goldthait, all used in families of intelligence, and as transmitted to them by a more or less remote ancestor. It should be said of these, however, that in each case that ancestor was one who had removed at an early day and at an early age to the West, far from others of his name, and that the spelling adopted agreed, in most instances, with the pronunciation of the name which he had left behind him in New England, and which was kept up in many places here, especially in country towns, till within comparatively recent years. A more widely-spread difference now existing relates to the use or omission of a final e. Although some of the earliest records at Salem give the name in not a few instances as Goldthwaite, this never became the habit of the family. Possibly the e may be found among them occasionally during the 18th century, but, if so, I cannot remember having seen it. Goldthwait was its universal spelling in New England families for at least 150 years from the time when its form became in some measure settled after the heterogeneous spellings of the earliest days, and such it has remained among the greater part of them to the present time. Why not then still adhere to this form handed down through so many generations, is a question that will here occur to many of us, for I am aware that in making use of a final e in this Genealogy, I encounter a prejudice existing to some extent in the family, though not to such a degree as to have caused any stronger expression of opinion on the subject than is implied in an inquiry as to the reason for so doing. Let it be said here also that in using this form I would not be understood as insisting in the least on its adoption by others. It would be for several reasons undesirable in this book to maintain throughout all lines each family's particular usage; a uniform spelling must therefore be adopted, which naturally has been that which, in the light of the farthest research that has been yet made on the subject, has seemed correct. The prejudice alluded to is one which I respect, having myself had it the greater part of my life, and for what appeared good reasons. Regard for the memory of honored parents and grandparents seemed to demand adherence to their custom in this matter, and, besides, the name being already a rather unusually long one, why should any addition be made to it? I had also something of the feeling alluded to by an intelligent lady among my correspondents, who once wrote, "I was always taught that adding an e was an affectation." This I have now ceased to think, for though, in the case of many names, such an addition may, perhaps, be so considered, having been adopted for no better reason than, for example, to give a name what is thought an improved appearance, or for the sake of helping to remove it from some association it may suggest, I find sanction for Goldthwaite in quite other and weightier considerations. They are, in brief, such as appear from a study of its derivation and of its very earliest usage, a usage kept up from that time till now in the many names of thwaite termination in the country of their origin. This evidence is contained in the facts found stated in the chapter on the Goldthwaite Family in England, from which each of us can decide whether it is better in this matter to continue to follow the example of our New England forefathers, or in adding the e to go still farther back for our authority, to the fountain-head in England. It is, after all, but a trifling matter, this question of adding or dropping a single letter, in comparison with the complete changes from their original form which many names in this country have undergone, and which it is now too late to remedy, however desirable that may be. As one among numerous such instances may be mentioned that which has come within the circle of my investigations concerning the name Boardman. It has been shown that its earliest form in England was Bowreman, which gradually became Boreman, and as such was brought by early settlers to New England, where descendants, after two or three generations, wrote it Bordman, and, after as many more, Boardman, which it must now continue. We of the Goldthwaite family, on the contrary, as will be seen, now have our name essentially as written five centuries and a half ago, thus dating back to the period when surnames began to be generally used, and to be handed down from father to son. This is the more noteworthy from the fact that during a considerable part of this long interval changes were occurring in the name in different places in England, so that, as far as found, its original form is now extinct in other lines there. It has seemed an argument for the superior intelligence of the branch from which our emigrant ancestor sprang, wherever it may have been located, that they were possessed of the correct form of their name.

Concerning the different pronunciations of our name, I have perhaps spoken sufficiently elsewhere; but there are other aspects in which it may be viewed which may be briefly mentioned. It is an unusual name, and in many places so altogether unknown that there are probably few bearing it, who have not had their various difficulties, ending for the most part in its slow distinct spelling, when trying to make it clear to a stranger. To the reader of Hawthorne, himself accustomed to it in his native Salem, it should not be unfamiliar, since one of his "Twice Told Tales" is "Peter Goldthwaite's Treasure," and Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, in her widely read book, "A Summer in Leslie Goldthwaite's Life," has increased its familiarity. It is this uncommonness which is valuable to the genealogist, as it renders the confusion often existing between different families of the same surname impossible in regard to Goldthwaites, who are always of one origin. Again, looked at as regards its apparent derivation, it has given rise to various ideas; some have thought it Dutch, others Danish or German, while different theories have been expressed as to its first syllable, Gold, such as that the first of the name must have been very rich, or have had some superior qualities entitling him to that appellation.

As a matter of taste, ours is a name to admire, or the contrary, according to the point of view taken. I remember once, when in Florence, presenting my card at the post-office window to inquire for letters, when the clerk, after scanning it, threw back his head and laughed aloud. His conduct was certainly uncourteous, but it was impossible to be offended at it when I considered how strikingly in contrast to the liquid syllables of his own musical language, must have seemed to this Italian a name, five of whose seven consonants stood together in its midst, without a vowel to break their close array; it is quite likely that it looked to him something as the vowelless Welsh words look to us, and its pronunciation seemed doubtless quite as impossible. From an Anglo-Saxon standpoint, on the contrary, it may be considered as having its claims for admiration. Its first syllable, used as the synonym for whatever is best and of most real value, brings to the ear its own agreeable associations, while the derivation of the second, making it a symbol of the strength and energy of the race among whom it took its origin, lends it the dignity of such an idea, not inaptly conveyed by its sound. Taken as a whole it commands also respect for its centuries of age. In a country where we are somewhat under reproach for having only what is new, have we ever thought sufficiently how ancient a personal possession each of us has in his name?

After our ancestor's first settlement in Salem (1636) for about sixty-four years all of his name continued to live in that town, after which, about 1700, occurred the first removal of one of them from it, when John Goldthwaite, his grandson, went to Boston, becoming the ancestor of a numerous family there. For more than thirty years after, no other descendant of his name left Salem, until one great grandson, Thomas, in 1733, went to the central part of the state (probably to the region of New Salem), and another, Samuel, to Northern Rhode Island. All of the Goldthwaite name were thus for nearly a century confined either to the original home, or were found in Boston. This original home (now Peabody) though always the same place, will be found called by the different names, Salem, Danvers, South Danvers, Peabody, which unless explained may cause confusion. From their first settlement until June 16, 1757, what is now Danvers and Peabody was part of the town of Salem, the former known as Salem Village, the latter as Salem Middle Precinct. At that date the two were made into the town of Danvers, and so continued till May 18, 1855, when part of Danvers was established as South Danvers. Again, April 13, 1868, in honor of George Peabody, the great London banker and philanthropist, who was a native, and in early life a resident of the town, and who there established and endowed a library and museum called the Peabody Institute, South Danvers had its name by act of legislature changed to Peabody.

The arrangement of the genealogy is that most commonly employed, and is the simplest in use. Descendants have each their single number by which their line may be traced, step by step, in either direction. When that number is followed by +, the person bearing it will be found more fully treated of later, in his proper order as head of a family, under the same number in larger type. Names in italics found in parentheses after the head of a family, give that person's full line of ancestry. As the same names are often borne by many individuals in the family, these ancestors can be identified only by tracing them, with the aid of their numbers, generation by generation, either down from the emigrant, or, in reverse order, back from the descendant. The small figures placed above names, at their right, denote the number of the generation to which the individual belongs, the emigrant ancestor counting as the first.

Assistance received in collecting these records has been for the most part acknowledged in making use of the information given. For hospitality and help extended in the different places to which special visits have been made for this purpose, as already mentioned, I take pleasure in here making acknowledgment also to Mrs. Charles H. Pulsifer of Salem, and her daughter, Mrs. Bigelow; to Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Goldthwaite of Uxbridge, and Miss Annie Goldthwaite, their daughter; to Mr. and Mrs. Jewett H. Geer of Peru; to Mr. John Frederic Goldthwaite of Biddeford, and his daughter, Mrs. Staples; to Mrs. Eunice Gates of Niantic, Conn.; to Mr. James Wesley Goldthwaite of Lynn, and family, and to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Goldthwaite of South Hadley, Mass. I am indebted also to Mr. Charles A. Goldthwaite and family of Nashua, N. H., for an equally cordial invitation to their home, which I was not able to accept. I am under obligations also to my sister, who has not only relieved me from much household care, that I might be free to carry on this work, but has given active assistance in different ways, particularly in looking through files of early newspapers, such as the Salem Gazette and others, in taking upon herself the charge of sending out circulars, and in the labor of indexing, a more arduous part of such an undertaking than most are aware.

For its illustrations the book is indebted to various sources. Its English views are from among several sent by Mr. Oliver C. Goldthwaite of London, while its reproductions of family portraits are from photographs of the originals furnished by their several owners, some only recently taken for this especial purpose, among which are those of Mr. Ezekiel Goldthwaite, of Col. Thomas Goldthwaite, and of Maj. Joseph Goldthwaite. It is to be regretted that the art of the photographer has not yet arrived at such perfection as to reproduce the color and richness of tint of these valuable originals, which suffer also somewhat from the effects of age. Those mentioned, with that of Mrs. Judge Bacon, are all by the distinguished artist, John Singleton Copley.

During this research into the family history, both at home and in England, I had various family correspondents with whom its results were shared, to the extent also of sending them on occasion copies of particular records in which any might for some reason be especially interested, and the event has shown no reason for regretting the confidence thus given. All this is so much a matter of course in an honorable family that it would have passed without mention here except for an opposite experience. I regret to have to say that another — not of our surname — with whom, at his desire, the information collected was later shared, has since made use of it in published articles, largely without acknowledgment, printing also material obtained by me at no small pains abroad, which had the right to make its first appearance in this Genealogy, of whose preparation he was aware.

Since the first issue of circulars regarding our book, about three years ago, subscriptions to a fair amount have been received, but their number, since diminished by the deaths of some subscribers, has not been sufficient to defray the whole expense of publication. In order to make sure of this important result, several members of the family have expressed their willingness, each to be responsible for a certain sum towards making up the deficiency. They are, Mr. Henry Goldthwaite of New York, $100; Mr. Joel Goldthwaite of Boston, $100; Dr. Joel Ernest Goldthwaite of Boston, $50; Mrs. Eliza M. Bowen of Boston, $25; Mrs. Cornelia Goldthwaite Crittenden of Utica, N. Y., $25; Dr. Henry Goldthwaite of Mobile, Ala., $10; Mr. Robert Goldthwaite of Montgomery, Ala., with his sisters, Mrs. Seibels and Mrs. Arrington, $30. Mr. Henry Goldthwaite and Mr. Joel Goldthwaite had already shown their interest by each subscribing for a number of copies, as have also Mr. Oliver C. Goldthwaite of London, James C. Goldthwaite of Columbus, O., and Messrs. Edgar L., William E., Orlando L., and Frank B. Goldthwaite of Marion, Indiana.

THE GOLDTHWAITE FAMILY IN ENGLAND

Every person bearing one of the surnames, comparatively infrequent in America, which end in thwaite, carries in the name itself evidence, not only of the English origin of his family, but of the part of England from which they first came, this termination being confined to a particular region embracing the northwestern counties, Cumberland, Westmoreland, Northern Lancashire, and parts of Yorkshire. Thwaite comes from the Anglo-Saxon verb thweotan, to cut down, and is defined as an open space cleared in a forest, or reclaimed land; land once covered with wood brought into pasture or tillage. Added to its various prefixes it formed to begin with, always a place name, but by being applied to its owner or inhabitant, distinguishing him from others around as "of" such thwaite, it came, when second names began to be used, to be applied without the preposition to his family and was transmitted to his descendants as their family name. Every such surname implies, therefore, a corresponding locality which may be assumed to have been once the home of a remote ancestor. Some of these localities can still be identified; in a much larger number of cases, however, the family name is all that has survived, while in the lapse of centuries the name of the home it once signified has either entirely passed out of existence or become so corrupted in spelling as to be now unrecognizable.<sup>1</sup>

Of the different prefixes to which this termination was added to form the names in question, Mr. Lower, in his Dictionary of English Surnames, remarks, it "seems sometimes to refer to the name of the settler who made the clearing, as Adamthwaite, Simonthwaite, Godderthwaite; sometimes to the trees cleared, as Thorntwaite, Linethwaite, Hathornthwaite, Brackenthwaite, and sometimes to the size and situation of it, as Micklethwaite, Lowthwaite, Crossthwaite, and to other less intelligible causes."

Having in mind these facts regarding this general class of names, we come to consider the particular one in which we as a family are interested — Goldthwaite. We have good right to it as the surname brought from England more than 250 years ago by our emigrant ancestor, and there is, as has been seen, the best reason for believing that there was once a place in that country with a corresponding name in which his family originated. Can it now be found?

During more than a year spent in England in 1890 and 1891, while making researches at the Public Record Office, Somerset Riding of Yorkshire near the course of the River Nidd: — Armathwaite, Bouthwaite, Cophthwaite, Gowthwaite, Hampsthwaite, Micklethwaite, Thorntwaite. Mr. Lower, in his Patronymica Britannica, gives as personal names still found in the region, Adamthwaite, Applethwaite, Brackenthwaite, Brathwaite, Blathwaite, Branthwaite, Brewthwaite, Corntwaite, Copperthwaite, Cowperthwaite, Crossthwaite, Dowthwaite, Godderthwaite, Hathornthwaite, Husthwaite, Huthwaite, Lewthwaite, Linethwaite, Lowthwaite, Micklethwaite, Murthwaite, Orthwaite, Satterthwaite, Simonthwaite, Stanthwaite, Thackthwaite, Thistlethwaite, Thorntwaite, Waberthwaite. I have found Gowthwaite in modern directories and in early Yorkshire records the surnames, Grysthwayt, Hebblethwaite or Hepplethwaite, and Wallerthwayt. Sinningthwaite was the name of an early monastery of Yorkshire. No doubt further search would bring to light still others, both local and family names. Thwaite and Thwaites, without prefix, are common as surnames and place names. An instance of the latter name, of interest here, is that of the well-known historical writer, Mr. Reuben Gold Thwaites of Madison, Wis. Having been struck by the resemblance of his name to our own, I once took the liberty of inquiring of him in regard to it. What he kindly replied I think he would not object to my mentioning here, as I have been questioned by more than one of the family on this subject. Though himself born in America, Mr. Thwaites' ancestors all lived in Yorkshire in England and among them several, though not all, had like him Gold as a middle name. How or when this custom originated, Mr. Thwaites does not know. He thinks they may possibly have been originally Goldthwaites, but being little given to genealogical research, he has never investigated the matter. It is his belief that in old days many wrote such names in two words, as Gold Thwaite, Silver Thwaite, etc., while the majority, like us, made them single words.

House, and the British Museum in London, which resulted in finding the home of my mother's emigrant ancestor, Samuel Boreman, I everywhere made it an object of equal interest to discover also, if possible, something regarding the Goldthwaite family. For some time no name having any probable correspondence with that which I sought appeared, until at length in the Calendars of State Papers at the Record Office, among papers relating to Starchamber cases, was found one dated 14th July, 1614, showing that Sir John Yorke, Dame Julian, his wife, and eighteen others were then prosecuted "for procuring and acting of a play (at his house at Golthwayte) in profanation of religion." Reference to authorities showed that the home of the Yorke family, here said to be "at Golthwayte," was in the West Riding of Yorkshire, in the parish of Kirkby Malzeard in the valley of the River Nidd, or Nidderdale, and that there still stands there the manor house here referred to, called to-day Gowthwaite Hall. A study of county visitations in relation to the Yorkes<sup>2</sup> and other allied families, showed other forms of the same name:—In Flower's visitation, begun 1563, Pyter (Peter) Yorke, third in succession on the estate in Kirkby Malzeard, is called "of Goldford in Netherdale;" in St. George, begun 1612, in a pedigree of Hansby of Beverly, is a marriage with John Yorke "of Goulthwayte," son and heir of Peter; in Dugdale, who sat at Richmond August 21, 1665, the name is given in three instances as Goulthwayte, and in two others as Gothwayte. All these, with Gowthwaite, also found, were thus

1. SIR RICHARD YORKE, Mayor of York, also Mayor of the Staple in Calais, dubbed at York 1487; died Apr. 25, 1498.
2. JOHN YORKE, first of the family at "Gowthwaite"; m. Catherine Patterdale.
3. SIR JOHN YORKE, made a knight 1548; Sheriff of London; d. Jan. 18, 1566-9.
4. PETER YORKE, b. 1541; called "Peter Yorke, Esq., of Goulthwayte" in a marriage into the Ingleby family.
5. SIR JOHN YORKE, knighted at Windsor, 1603; d. 1634, sine prole.

In studying these English families I was indebted for valuable advice and assistance to Mr. Anscombe of London, an accomplished antiquarian and a friend of Mr. Oliver C. Goldthwaite of that city.

forms of one name in the various unsettled spellings of those days.<sup>1</sup>

Pursuing my inquiries further, I sought for names of the early inhabitants of that district, as they might be found in the ancient tax lists, in the records known as Lay Subsidy Rolls, or Records of the Exchequer. The earliest of these extant for the Wapentake of Claro, in which Kirkby Malzeard is comprised, is of the time of Edward III, endorsed as probably of the 20th year of his reign (1347) and numbered in the Record Office 2<sup>96</sup>/<sub>47</sub>. In the list of persons there given as then taxed in this same parish of "Kirkeby Malassard," I found, 12th in a list of 27, the tax

"DE HUGONE DE GOLDTHWATE 1j. s. IIIj. d."<sup>2</sup>

Later subsidy rolls and other early records, especially wills found in the Diocesan Registry at York, showed others of this

<sup>1</sup> As other examples of such variations in spelling may be taken an ancient place on the Nidd which by changes somewhat similar to those that have now settled into Gowthwaite, has become Cowthorpe, but in the oldest deeds and charters was variously written Coletorpe, Coltorp, Colthorpe, Kolphorp. A hamlet in the same region, now called Bouthwaite, was in old records Bourthate and Burthuate. A monastic grange, at the time of the dissolution (1539) called Callfall House, is now two farmsteads called Calval or Covil Houses. Such instances might be multiplied almost indefinitely.

As regards pronunciation, my correspondent, Mr. Bayne of Ripon, informs me that the oldest living inhabitants of the district pronounce the name of the manor-house, Gouthit; the first syllable, now written Gow, in Yorkshire dialect becomes Goo—witness the name of the hill in the region, often alluded to here—Greenhow as now written, but, as will be seen, Greenhoo in some ancient documents. Regarding the pronunciation of the second syllable, thwaite, to each letter of which we now in speaking give its full value, but which in former days in New England was commonly pronounced thrite, I have in Salem heard it exactly as given by Mr. Bayne, thit or thut: Goldthut, the last syllable pronounced very short, is its customary sound in the mouths of some who have evidently so heard it from childhood in this old home of the Goldthwaite family.

<sup>2</sup> The following is the full list of the Kirkby Malzeard taxpayers of 1347. Like all the subsidy rolls, the original is on sheets of parchment,—the ink, in this case, having become much faded during the five and a half centuries and more since it was written, while the style of writing is the ancient court-hand, easily read only by one experienced in such matters. The names are in Latin in the form of the ablative case (after the preposition de) and are often much contracted, the dash over a letter showing that one or more letters succeeding it are left out—thus: Willo, ablative of Willelmus (William); Rīco, abl. of Ricardus (Richard); Johē abl. of Johannes (John); Hugone, abl. of Hugo, etc.; fil signifies filius, son.

name, with its varied spellings, living in the same immediate vicinity. This evidence will be given later, the whole together proving that in this place, the location of which is, most fortunately for us, to-day made recognizable by the manor house, situated in it and named from it, was the home of the Goldthwaite family in the remote time when it took to itself that surname. It is here worthy of note that it was at about the period of Hugh de Goldthwaite (the middle of the 14th century) when, says Mr. Lower, "to speak generally, the surnames of the middle and lower ranks began to descend from father to son."

It is interesting to find that after the almost numberless changes to which our name has been subjected from the early days of Hugo to our own, we of the family in America hold it as found in this record of the earliest known representative of our race. We must believe this the original form, and may congratulate ourselves on having succeeded to it in its purity after so many variations. I have been led to think our form of the name extinct in England; a search through a large number of city and town directories at the British Museum

The assessments in this subsidy were on one-tenth and one-fifteenth of movable goods. The amount of the seemingly small taxes will be better appreciated in view of the fact that the average earnings of the taxpayer at this period were three half-pence a day. It may be noticed that of the twenty-five taxes here given, five were larger than that of Hugo de Goldthwaite, two others equalled his, and seventeen were smaller.

failed to reveal any Goldthwaites, save in the case of the one family of American descent mentioned later. I did, however, find the name Gowthwaite.

Having thus established the original form of our name, we are now led to ask what significance is to be attached to our particular prefix — Gold? <sup>1</sup> With regard to this, as in the case of the greater part of the thwaite prefixes, it is impossible to speak with certainty. "Gold," says Mr. Lower, "was a personal or baptismal name. Golde and Golden occur in Domesday, and Gold in the 'Hundred Rolls' had become a surname. . . . As a man's name, Gold must have been somewhat common in England, as many local names, since become surnames, are compounded with it; e.g., Goldby, Goldham, Goldney, Goldsburg, Goldsby, Goldworthy, Goldthorpe." Accepting this as the meaning of the prefix, Goldthwaite would be included in the class given by Mr. Lower as referring to the settler who made the clearing. Another equally allowable explanation would give to Gold here a figurative meaning, expressing the excellence of the thing named, or some resemblance suggested by its appearance. In like manner we find Copperthwaite and Silverthwaite.

Coming now to "Hugo de Goldthwate," the earliest found of our name, borne by him five hundred and fifty years ago, and quite probably our ancestor, it is interesting to ask what we are warranted in thinking of him — what was his calling and what his station in life? He lived, without doubt, in "Goldthwaite" — was he owner of this place from which his designation was taken? Here, also, we can have no certain means of information, and can judge by probabilities only. These, however, are much stronger in his case than they otherwise would be on account of this very designation. A thwaite, from its meaning, a clearing, or land reclaimed from the forest, must necessarily have been not only rural in character, but also of not wide extent; probably a few hundred acres, at most, would be all we should be justified in assigning to this thwaite from which we take our name. Just here is our best warrant for believing Hugo the proprietor of Goldthwaite. "In numberless instances," says Mr. Lower, "the founder of a surname was merely a resident at the place from which it was borrowed, and not its feudal proprietor. This is especially the case in names derived from considerable towns. . . . It may be observed, as a rule, that the more trivial the locality which has given rise to a surname—a poor hamlet, perhaps, or a farm of small dimensions—the more likely the first assumer of the designation is to have been the owner of such locality." Similar names to that of Hugo de Goldthwaite in the Wapentake of Claro are Johannes and Willelmus de Brathwait, Robertus de Wallerthwayt, Johannes and Thomas de Grysthwayt,<sup>1</sup> who, in a subsidy of 1378-9, are taxed four pence each. All of these and many more, at that day similarly designated by their various places of residence, with de, were, without doubt, of that large and best class of English yeomanry—freeholders, next in order of rank to the gentry, so called—from which, as we shall see hereafter, have been descended, in this part of Yorkshire, some of the most distinguished men of recent times.

<sup>1</sup> Mr. Speight, a more recent writer on this region (see later), accepting this name as Golthwaite, assumes Gol as the prefix, deriving it from Scand. Gol, Slav. Gola, a wood, a conclusion with which I must disagree. Gold, as I had before found was much the earlier prefix. It is worth noting, also, that besides other instances, this is the form given in such an official document as the valuation of the lands of Fountains Abbey, made by order of Sir Thomas Cromwell at the time of the dissolution of the monastery (about 1538), where two individuals of the family, with names differently spelled otherwise, appear as Goldthuate and Goldwathe respectively. Gold is, moreover, common in the formation of names, while Gol does not appear as so used.

Four years after the date of the researches in England, the results of which I have so far recounted, there was published in London a valuable work on the particular region in which our interest centers, entitled "Nidderdale, or the Garden of the Nidd",<sup>1</sup> by Mr. Harry Speight, author of other West Yorkshire local histories. Mr. Speight, from whose history and description of this region I shall now draw largely, thus speaks of Gowthwaite, page 467 :

<sup>1</sup> "To bear the denomination of one's own estate—to write himself 'of that Ilk'—was anciently, as it is still, considered a peculiar honor and a genuine mark of gentility; . . . it must not be inferred that all families bearing local surnames were originally possessors of the localities from which those names were borrowed. In all probability a great number of such names were never used with the De at all. In Germany and Poland they discriminate in this respect by using the word of when possessors of the place, and in when only born or dwelling there. 'The like,' Camden tells us, 'was formerly done in Scotland.'" (M. A. Lower, "English Surnames," Vol. I, p. 47.)

"We are now in the picturesque district of Stonebeck Down, this township extending from Merryfield Beck on the south to How Stean on the north. The first object of note we meet with on leaving Heathfield, described in the last chapter, is Gowthwaite Hall, an interesting Elizabethan manor-house, built by the family of Yorke, who long resided here before Bewerly became their home. The house stands on or near the site of a still older homestead, occupied in the Norman centuries by a family named Golthwaite or Gowthwaite, who probably derived their patronym from this place."

Again, page 417, speaking of Hayshaw, in the same vicinity, of which more will appear hereafter:—

"The old grange at Hayshaw, belonging to the same Abbey (Fountains), was pulled down long ago. At the suppression it was held in moities by the family of Gill and Goldwathe or Goldthwaite, in the township of Stonebeck Down."

An earlier authority, as now appears, to whom Mr. Speight refers for information on this subject, is Mr. John Richard Walbran, F. S. A., now deceased, who, in his Memorials of Fountains Abbey (Vols. 42 and 67, Surtees Soc. Pub.), makes this note (Vol. 42, page 351) on Robert Goldthuate, who, with William Goldwathe, as mentioned above, held in 1538 one-half of Hayshaw Grange, Walter and John Gill holding the other:—<sup>2</sup>

"His family, no doubt, derived their name from Golthwaite or Gowthwaite, in Hyrefield forest, on the west side of Nidderdale, a place which had been

By Harry Speight, Author of "The Craven and Northwest Yorkshire Highlands": "Through Airedale from Goole to Malham," etc. Illustrated. London: Elliot Stock, 62 Paternoster Row, E. C. 1894, pp. 514.

For knowledge of this work as well as for a copy of it, I am indebted to Mr. Oliver C. Goldthwaite of London, who took great interest in the progress of my English investigations. It has been gratifying to find the conclusions here given so entirely corroborating my own of some years before.

<sup>2</sup> The whole Grange contained about 400 acres, besides rights in common pasture on the moors, the yearly rental being £12. The holdings of the two Goldthwaites essarted by the monks of Byland, and where the Yorkes built, about the time of Queen Elizabeth, a picturesque mansion, of which a view may be seen in Vol. II of Dr. Whitaker's Richmondshire. In 1456 William Colqwate or Golthwaite held the onerous office of cook at Fountains Abbey, with 20 s. wages. At the same time, Thomas Golthwat kept the Abbot's sheep at Dacre. In 1480 John Golthwaite was the keeper of the lodge of Eastholme house, and Robert Golthwaite of a part of Newhouse. In 1481 Robert was engaged with Richard Atkynson and John Myrre in the same service at Hayshay, but in the next year he was sole keeper, as he remained in 1496, when his tenure was 'ad voluntatem domini,' and he was bound to keep of the Abbot's store, sixty cows and two bulls, and to return of the profits of the vaccary, yearly, eighty stones of cheese, forty stones of butter, and thirty stirkets; also to keep two hundred sheep from Michaelmas to the third of May, the maintenance of which was estimated to be worth 13 s. 4 d.; the whole return amounting to £11. 6 s. 8 d."<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> The position of "Keeper of the Lodge," often mentioned in early records, was equivalent to that of Steward or Bailiff, as is evident from the terms of agreement here.

An intermarriage of Goldthwaites with the Dernbrooks, a family long established at Bewerley<sup>1</sup> (the present residence of the Yorke family, on the Nidd, opposite Pateley Bridge), appears in the will, given by Mr. Walbran, of Christopher Dernbroke of Ripon, "Wakeman" or Chief Magistrate of that Borough in 1542. It is dated Aug. 28, 1547, and proved May 6, 1548. In it he desires to be buried in the "collegiate church of Sancte Peter and Sancte Wilfride of Rypon, neyghe where Margaret my firste wif lieth," and bequeaths the following legacies:

Little is known of the history of Nidderdale in very early times. Here, as elsewhere in Britain, once lived that warlike Celtic race, allied to the Gauls of the neighboring continent, whom we call the Ancient Britons, and they found, no doubt, in this mountainous and forest-covered region one of their congenial homes. Remoteness of situation did not prevent the conquest of this people by the Romans not many years after their invasion of the island (55 B.C.) as is shown by various remains of their civilization here found, such as Roman coins of early date and pigs of lead, proved by their lettering to have been smelted A.D. 87, doubtless from the lead mines on Greenhow Hill; one of these is now in the British Museum. Evidence found along the whole line seems to prove that a Roman thoroughfare, running from west to east through this region, passed over Greenhow Hill and crossed the Nidd at Pateley Bridge (the Kenaresford of Domesday) joining the great highway called Watling Street, which, in its course towards the north, passed three miles to the east of Ripon. That famous traveler, the Emperor Hadrian (died A.D. 139), during his stay of some years in England, is known, says Mr. Speight, to have visited this part of Yorkshire. After the time of the Romans, whose final departure took place 448 A.D., no positive evidence regarding the region appears until after the Norman invasion (1066), but the intervening period of six centuries must have brought to Nidderdale vicissitudes similar to those of England in general during the fierce conflicts attending the Saxon and Danish invasions and rule, while its northern situation must have caused it to suffer especially from the frequent incursions of the Picts and Scots which succeeded the departure of the Romans.

It is recorded in Domesday Book that the Saxon King, Athelstan (proclaimed A.D. 939-40) had granted to the See of York lands in what is now Bishopside, the township in which Pateley Bridge is situated. This continued to be held by the Archbishops of York long after. Most of this part of the country, however, became after the Conquest the property of the great Norman family of Mowbray. In the time of King Stephen (1135 to 1154) Roger de Mowbray, who was possessed of immense wealth, both in England and Normandy, included in his domains a large share of this part of Yorkshire, extending across this whole region as far as the borders of Westmoreland on the west. He gave large portions of his lands to religious houses, upwards of thirty of which are said to have been thus endowed by him. In Nidderdale it was the monasteries of Fountains and Byland<sup>1</sup> which profited chiefly by his gifts. Generally speaking, according to Mr. Speight, the west side of the Nidd valley from Beverley (opposite Pateley Bridge) north to its headwaters belonged, with a few reservations, to Byland, while Fountains<sup>1</sup> held the lands east of the river in its upper course and those on both sides of it for some distance below Pateley Bridge. To Byland, therefore, belonged, as has already been quoted from Mr. Walbran, the township of Stonebeck Down, in which the Goldthwaite home is situated. As the family spread, however, they removed and took up other residences, becoming some of them tenants of Fountains, and it is of these that we have evidence through the researches of the distinguished investigator of that Abbey's records, Mr. Walbran, as well as from their mention in the tax lists and from the wills found of some of their number.

<sup>1</sup> Byland Abbey is in the North Riding of Yorkshire, about seven miles southwest of Helmsley and not far from Thirsk. It was founded in 1177 by an abbot and monks from Furness Abbey, in Northwestern Lancashire, who, having been disturbed by invasions of the Scots, had fled to this part of the country, where they were well received at Thirsk Castle by Sir Roger de Mowbray, who encouraged their settlement in the vicinity and gave them a liberal endowment in lands. Its buildings are described as magnificent early English structures of which parts still remain. It was surrendered 1540.

The importance during the middle ages of the great monastic institutions, of which Fountains and Byland are examples in England, is too well known to be argued here. Possessed of large wealth gained from various sources, and to a great extent independent of the secular power, since their allegiance was first of all due to the pope, their abbots, many of whom had seats in the House of Lords, held positions of worldly, as well as spiritual, power and dignity, and were regarded as on the same social level as the chief feudal nobles. Part of their revenue came from the lands with which they had been endowed, which were divided into larger or smaller farms, where granges and farm-houses were built by the monks, and the whole leased at a reasonable yearly rent to tenants who regarded themselves as a species of proprietors, handing down the property by will from generation to generation. Some of these granges are still in existence or have their places supplied by those built in later times on the early site. The monks were by far the best landlords of those days, setting an example of agricultural improvement to all others, while their tenants were much more considerately treated than those of the lord of lesser estate, likely to interfere more in his tenants' affairs and to extort his dues to the last farthing. The holders of abbey lands are conceded by all authorities to have been the most enviable members of the agricultural class in the Middle Ages.<sup>1</sup> The peace, too, which usually reigned in the neighborhood of a monastery during periods when war prevailed elsewhere, was another and not a small advantage to those living under its protection.

A great monastery, like Fountains, whose buildings alone at its suppression covered twelve acres, was a city in itself. Filled as it was in the days of its prosperity with monks, both clerical and lay brethren, with large numbers of servants and workmen of every kind needed to carry on, not only the immense operations of building and repairs, but the various occupations required in providing for the innumerable wants of such a community, it was a great center of industry on which the prosperity of the whole surrounding country was dependent. Probably in a region like Nidderdale there was hardly an inhabitant who directly or indirectly was not in some way connected with the Abbot of Fountains and his monastery.

Fountains Abbey was founded in the 12th century by Cistercian<sup>2</sup> monks who went from St. Mary's Abbey at York. "Before the close of that century," says Mr. Walbran, "and within seventy years after the first settlement of the monks, all the buildings of the monastery had been erected."

"The far-famed sanctity of its earliest members had placed such an amount of temporal wealth at their disposal as to have enabled them to determine the original plan and proportions of the house on the grandest scale. . . . At the time of the Reformation it was one of the most magnificent and extensive structures, as well as one of the most powerful and wealthy monastic foundations in the kingdom. The church and the domestic offices had been built at an early period when an accession of princely grants and donations had enabled the abbots to gratify their architectural inclinations on the noblest scale, while the solidity of the Anglo-Norman mode of construction had secured both against hasty reform or dangerous decay. The space that remained covered by them when their utility was at an end, is said to have been about twelve acres."

On the dissolution of the monasteries by Henry VIII, their lands reverted to the king by whom they were distributed to the principal nobility and courtiers. It must have been at this period that the Yorke family became possessed of "Gowthwaite," where not long after, in the time of Elizabeth (1558-1603) they erected the manor-house now standing. In 1546 John Yorke, Esq., of London (son of the first Yorke "of Gowthwaite," and knighted two years later) with Anne, his wife, bought in addition an ancient and extensive manor in that region, in Domesday called Higrefelt (Hyrefield or Highfield), and described as a mile long by a mile broad, of which Heathfield, a hamlet next below Gowthwaite, was once the center. The same family in 1674 acquired the large manor of Bewerley, still lower on the Nidd, so that the whole road, about three miles, from Pateley Bridge to Gowthwaite, is now bordered by their estates. The Goldthwaites, however, so far as we now have evidence, seem before the Dissolution to have left that particular part of Nidderdale, some for other parts of Yorkshire, while those remaining in the vicinity were living still lower on the Nidd where we find some generations of them at Hayshaw Grange, as has been already mentioned. In this region as show by their wills, they became after the dissolution tenants of the Ingilbys of Ripley Castle on the Nidd, who two or three centuries after the Conquest had become some of the most wealthy and powerful chiefs in the Wapentake of Claro and have had from that day to the present their seat at Ripley.

Allusion has been made to distinguished persons of modern times who have been descended, as is shown by Mr. Speight, from the same old stock of Nidderdale yeomen from which the Goldthwaite family takes its origin. Foremost among these stands the celebrated author, William Makepeace Thackeray. In the tax list, 2 Richard II (1378-9), part of which is printed in "Nidderdale," appear in the list for this same "Kirkby Malesart," with its neighboring villages, Johannes de Thackwra, Robertus de Thackwra, and Johannes filius Thackwra. The immediate ancestry of the great novelist is traced to one of the name living at Hampsthwaite on the Nidd in the time of Queen Elizabeth. Thomas Thackeray, born in that town 1693, became head-master of Harrow school, 1746, and later, Archbishop of Surrey. His youngest son, William Makepeace Thackeray, of the India Civil Service, was the grandfather of the great author, who, sometime before his death, took much pleasure in visiting with his daughters this home of his ancestors. Another old Nidderdale family was that of the Bensons, a name found in some of the wills hereafter quoted, and who were, like the Goldthwaites, in instances brought to light, keepers of the granges and lodges of Fountains Abbey. From this family came the lately deceased Dr. Edward White Benson, Archbishop of Canterbury, whose pedigree from Thomas Benson, keeper (1480) of the Fountains Abbey lodge at Banger or Branga in the township of Thornthwaite-cum-Padside, is given in "Nidderdale." From this same region came the Inmans of Liverpool, the great steamship owners, whose family lived early and for many generations at Bouthwaite, their name also being found in the Goldthwaite wills. Of more recent Nidderdale origin is the family of Rudyard Kipling, whose grandfather, Rev. Joseph Kipling, was minister of the old Wesleyan chapel at Pateley Bridge, and who has written a story of this vicinity, "On Greenhow Hill." The late Frederic T. Greenhalge, Governor of Massachusetts, himself born in Lancashire, was descended, through his grandmother, from Daniel Dodson, a schoolmaster at Knaresborough on the Nidd. To these instances of persons of eminence of Nidderdale descent, selected because of the familiarity of their names in America, many other distinguished names, better known, perhaps, in England than here, might be added. Such was Dr. William Craven (1730-1814), Professor of Arabic at Cambridge and master of St. Johns College there, who was a descendant of the Darnbooks of Bewerley and a generous benefactor of Nidderdale schools and charities. William Mountain, F.R.S., Sir John Hawkshaw, the engineer, W. H. Huddleston, F.R.S., President of the Geological Society, and Dr. Stubbs, the historian, now or of late Bishop of Oxford, are others descended from Nidderdale yeomanry, as given by Mr. Speight, who makes honorable mention, also, of the ancient families of the region,—the Hardcastles, the Baynes, the Gills, who, in addition to the Dernbrooks, Inmans, Bensons, already spoken of, have representatives to be found in the early wills hereafter quoted.

Of the scenery about this spot where once stood the home of our ancestors, I quote a description from "Nidderdale":

"Beautiful and retired is the dale about Gowthwaite; the green fields with their browsing cattle, the quiet homesteads each nestling in a grove of trees, the quickset hedgerows and old lichen-covered stone walls, sprinkled with wild flowers and polypody, fix the eye, as we go up and down the long, white road in the valley. A small gill-beck comes down the north side of Gowthwaite Hall, and enters the Nidd a little below the highway. This gill, I am told, is the warmest nook in all the valley. In the spring, primroses and other early wildings usually open their tender blossoms here before a flower can be found elsewhere. All about Gowthwaite are great mounds and spreads of glacial drift, and the road, in places, rises and falls abruptly over them. No doubt the old hall stands at the southwest angle of what, in ages long past, has been an expansive lake, nearly a quarter of a mile wide, deepening northwards towards the Holme Houses, and following the contour of the valley on that side."

"Singularity enough," continues Mr. Speight, "this portion of the valley will shortly assume something of its ancient aspects. It is here that the Bradford corporation is about to construct the extensive compensation reservoir, as part of the project included in the new water supply of that town. When completed, this great lake will form a notable and not unpleasing feature in the dale. It will extend about two miles in the direction of Ramsgill, with a water surface of 327 acres, and following, over a great part, the natural outlines of the valley. It will be bordered by a substantial and level road, commanding, at different points, fine views of the silvery expanse, and which, lying in the lap of green and wooded hills, will remind one not a little of the Manchester city reservoir at Thirlmere, in the Lake District, which was originally of the same extent."

Beautiful as this newly-made lake, formed by damming the Nidd about half a mile below Gowthwaite, may be, it will not compensate us as a family for the demolition of the old Hall which is to attend the progress of this work. Aside from the interest attaching to the antiquity and picturesqueness of the mansion, we owe it a debt of gratitude for so long preserving for us in recognizable form our name and that of our place of origin, which might otherwise have been lost, and we can but wish that its solid walls and foundations, which show yet no signs of decay,<sup>1</sup> might stand for centuries longer — but there seems no help, and it, like so many other relics of the past, must give way to the, so-called, march of improvement.<sup>1</sup> Its name will still be perpetuated in the "Gowthwaite Reservoir."

The old church, now a well-kept ruin, which stands high above Pateley Bridge at a distance of half a mile in the opposite direction from Gowthwaite, is for us the most interesting place in that town, which, though itself ancient, has few remains of antiquity. It was a chapelry of St. Wilfrids, Ripon, and dedicated to the Blessed Virgin, its main portion being of the time of Edward I (1272 to 1307).

<sup>1</sup> I am told that a plan for enclosing the manor-house by a cemented wall, thus preserving it as an island in the new lake, was at one time under consideration, but was given up, perhaps as too expensive, or possibly as impracticable. In some cases it has been made a condition that the Bradford Corporation should re-erect on other sites buildings which would be submerged, but interest in Gowthwaite Hall seems not to have been sufficient to demand a like agreement in regard to it; probably, sentiment aside, its present use as a farmhouse would not warrant the attendant cost. The view of the Hall in the frontispiece was procured for the family book, with his customary generosity, by Mr. Oliver C. Goldthwaite of London. While it is the best obtainable and exactly represents the old mansion, the effect, to those who have never seen the original, may be somewhat misleading. Owing to the nearness of the point from which the photograph was taken, the height of the ground in front and the shrubbery hiding much of the lower story, the building appears lower than it really is, and would perhaps be looked at as more a cottage than a "Hall." It is in fact quite a stately structure, as a survey of all sides, on the spot, would show. The rooms are large and high, with great fire-places, and in some of the windows remains of the fine old glazing are still visible. Several farmers' families find separate and ample accommodation under its wide-spread roof. During the early spring of 1891 my sister and I made an interesting visit to the place in a day's excursion from York, and Mr. Oliver Goldthwaite with some of his family went there about a year later, these, so far as I know, being the only instances in which it has been visited by members of the Goldthwaite family since its connection with them was discovered.

From the graveyard which lies around it is a beautiful and extensive view of the Nidd Valley. This was the churchyard of "Pateley Brigges," where the Gowthwaites of Hayshaw and its neighborhood desired to be buried, and here are still standing some of their gravestones, as will presently be seen.

<sup>1</sup> Aton (spelt here also Huton and Hoton) is probably Ayton in the Liberty of Lanbaugh,  $3\frac{1}{2}$  miles northeast of Stokesley, North Riding. In Little Ayton, a township of Great Ayton, an ancient demesne, was once a chapel (probably the kirk here mentioned) built by Sir William Malbisse, knight, about 1215, which afterwards came to the monks of Whitby. Of this there are now no remains. This demesne came into possession of the Lords Eure of Easby and by this fact the place is identified.

Rolland Thirleway supervisor under my marster Sir Rauf eury.

Witnesses, Marster Eustace Eury, Rolland Thirlway, William Richardson, Bernard Sroy (?) (Vol. IX, p. 325.)

Will of JOHN GOTHWATE of Brayton,<sup>1</sup> Apr. 3, 1543, husbandman. To be buried in the church yard of Brayton. All to Elizabeth my wife. Witnesses, William Thomason, William Clerke, Robert Cooke (?) (Vol. XIII, p. 177.)

Will of GEORGE GOLDTHWATE, Nov. 27, 1552, of Rufholme<sup>2</sup> in the parish of Drax. To be buried in church yard of Drax. To Edward Goldthwait my sonn my purse and my dagger. Wife Margaret. He speaks of his farmhold. I forgive to John Hemsley one half the Dett that he owes me. Daughters Barbara and Isabel. Witnesses, John Rufholme of Rufholme, John Hemsley of Rufholme. (Vol. XIII, p. 955.)

In a Lay Subsidy roll at the Record Office the above George Goldthwate appears as Georgius Gowthwayt of Drax, taxed 1547, £5. 3s. 4d. This is important evidence of the identity of the two names. The will of another of the family in the same town follows. The name of its second witness, John Ingleby, is worthy of note, since the Inglebys' home was Ripley Castle in Nidderdale, a fact helping to show the origin of these Goldthwaites of Drax in the same region.

Will of THOMAS GOWTHAYTE of Rufholme in the parish of Draxe, made 1554, proved 1566.

To be buried before the image of our Lady of Pity in the church of St. Peter and Paul the Apostle at Drax.

To Jhan Nelson, daughter of Nenyman Nelson £3 when said Johan shall be of lawful discretion. John Beland to have custody of the above.

To Margaret lodge<sup>3</sup> 6s. 8d.

<sup>2</sup> Ruff-Holme, parish of Drax, West Riding, Wapentake of Barkston-Ash, three miles from Howden, nine from Selby. Drax is in the angle formed by the meeting of the Aire and Ouse. This branch of the Goldthwaites had either removed from Drax or the name had become extinct there not many years after the date of these wills, since it does not occur in the parish registers beginning in 1597.

<sup>3</sup> Lodge was the name of a place in the upper part of the Nidd valley. The Lodge family of Boston into which the Goldthwaites afterwards married, are believed to have come from Yorkshire.

1. Thomas' Goldthwaite, ancestor of all of this name in America, was born in England, not far from 1610. His place of birth is unknown, but he was without doubt a descendant of some branch of the Kirkby Malzeard family whose original home was in what is now Gowthwaite in that parish, three miles from Pateley Bridge, Yorkshire, West Riding. As he brought to New England that form of his name which was found about that period in the southern part of the county, it seems probable that his family was from that part of Yorkshire, and, for reasons that will be given, that he himself had, before the emigration to America, removed still farther south into the adjoining county of Lincolnshire. His christian name, Thomas, was a very common one in the English family. Out of forty-six persons whom I have found bearing some form of the name Goldthwaite in early records in England, fifteen, or about one-third, were called Thomas, while there were seven each called William and Robert, and six called John. Thomas Goldthwaite came to New England, there is good reason to believe, in the fleet with Governor Winthrop, which reached here in the summer of 1630, but his first appearance in the records was not till a year from that time, when at a Court holden at Boston, June 14, 1631,

"It is ordered that M<sup>r</sup> Pelham shall pay unto Tho: Goilthayt the some of v<sup>l</sup> (whereof 5 nobles* is already pd) w<sup>ch</sup> the court hath awarded him to pay, to make good a covenant betwixte them." (Mass. Col. Rec.)

"Mr. Pelham" could only have been William Pelham, afterwards of Sudbury, who with Gov. Winthrop's son Henry was accidentally left behind at Cowes, Isle of Wight, where they had gone ashore, thus losing their passage in the Arbella, and coming in a later ship of the fleet. William Pelham was in Boston Oct. 19, 1630, when he asked to be made freeman. He was again in England in 1652, was unmarried and died there in 1667. He had a brother, Herbert Pelham, who came over in 1638, and they were sons of Herbert Pelham* of a family which resided mostly in Lincolnshire, where they had an estate at Swineshead, seven miles southwest of Boston. William Pelham was born about 1607, being thus of nearly the same age as Thomas Goldthwaite, and it is this early connection of the two, which may have begun before leaving home, that gives ground for thinking they may have met first in Lincolnshire. Not long after his arrival in New England Thomas went to Roxbury where his name appears as "Thomas Gouldthwaight" in the Rev. John Eliot's list of his church members, Eliot having begun his pastorate there in 1632. May 14, 1634 "Tho: Gaildthaite" was made freeman of Massachusetts. In 1636 he appears in Salem where "the 4th of the 5th month, 1636, Thomas Goldthwaite, being an inhabitant, is granted 10 acres of land." Again on the "20th of 12th mo: 1636, It is ordered that Thomas Goldthwait shall have a tenn acre Lott vpon the neck of the North Syde of the Riuer pvided that if in case y<sup>t</sup> he be not dismissed vnto the church att Salem,† y<sup>t</sup> then hee Leaue it vnto the Towne elce to be his owne || it was granted the 4th of 5th mo: 1636 before now." According to Farmer he was admitted a member of the Salem church June 5, 1637. Among the signers of a church covenant in a record kept by Rev. John Fiske, minister in Salem, beginning 1637, are Tho: Goldwhatye and Eliz. Goldthwayt. In the original record of inhabitants of Salem to whom land was distributed, Dec. 26, 1636, to July 12, 1637, he is set down as "Tho: Gouldthait," and again, "Tho: Goldthwait if an Inhabitant 10 acres." In the division of meadow lands (about 1637) Tho: Goldthwait, with three in his family, is given two quarters, or one half an acre.* On the 15th of 2<sup>d</sup> month 1644, "Tho : Goldthwite desires some land." Thomas Goldthwaite's ten-acre lot granted by the town in 1636 is described, when divided by the heirs in 1715, as in the North Field, bounded easterly on land of Coake (Cook) southerly and westerly on Buxton, northerly on the North River. His first house lot, like those of many of the Salem settlers, is not mentioned in the town grants, but has been located by some of the best antiquarian authority as on the southwest corner of Essex and Flint streets.† Its situation is determined by that of an early possession of Thomas Goldthwaite, long called "Goldthrites Field," but of whose purchase or sale no deed is to be found in Salem records. It is first mentioned in the will of William<sup>1</sup> Flint of Salem, Sept. 15, 1671, in which he bequeaths to his sons, Edward and Thomas, each one-half part of a field, "Sometimes caled Goldthrites field," which in

* In an article on allotments of land in Salem by Herbert B. Adams (Vol. 19, p. 171, Coll. of Essex Institute) it is said: "The house lots were quite small in ancient Salem, considering the amount of available land in the plantation. In 1637 Mr. Conant's house had half an acre of ground. If Roger Conant, the leading man in the plantation, had only half an acre, it is fair to presume his associates had only half acre homesteads—in the early history of Salem, about one acre. When land in addition to the house lot was granted, it was ordered that the least family should have ten acres, but greater families should have more according to the number of persons in the household. A 'ten acre lott and a howse lott' were regarded as a proper allowance for the head of a family—ten acres were enough for good farming in those days as now." Another article by Mr. Adams (Vol. 20, p. 52, Coll. Ess. Inst.) on Salem meadows, woodland, and town neck, says: "The old English system of land community was reproduced in Salem in some of its most striking features. In 1637 all the marsh ground was ordered to be measured. Eight months after, it was agreed that the marsh meadow lands that formerly lay in common should be appropriated to inhabitants of Salem, 'proportioned out unto them according to the heads of their families,' to those that have the greatest number, an acre—to those that have least, not above half an acre, and to those between, three-quarters of an acre."

his inventory, taken Apr. 22, 1673, is called "about 7 ackers of land lyinge in y<sup>e</sup> field called Goldthits field," and valued at £80. The will of the son, Edward Flint, dated May 23, 1711, leaves to his five daughters and three sons "each forty poles of his land in ye field called Goldthrights Field," and Dec. 19, 1721, Joseph Flint, grandson of Edward, sells to Nathaniel Roper for £110, a piece of land, three and a half acres, "commonly known as Goldthwites Field," bounded east on lane or highway, south on William and Benjamin Pickering deceased, west on Brickkiln lane, north on Elizabeth Dean and others the heirs of Edward Flint, which was part of the estate of father, Quartermaster Thomas Flint. The "lane or highway" on the east, doubtless the present Flint street, named from these owners for several generations of land in its vicinity, together with the Pickering estate on the south, the location of which is well known, determines with sufficient certainty Goldthrite's Field, on part of which his house probably for some years stood, as within the triangle bounded by Essex, Warren, and Flint streets.

Thomas Goldthwaite married, probably in Salem, in the summer of 1636, ELIZABETH ———, presumed to have been a sister or daughter of some early Salem settler. She had died at some time before 1671, when there was a second wife, Rachel, whom I find to have been RACHEL LEACH, the daughter of Lawrence and Elizabeth Leach,* and widow of

* Lawrence Leach of Salem, 1629, came in one of the fleet with Higginson, and was made freeman May 18, 1631. He was a mill owner on the Beverly side and a prominent inhabitant of the town, his name appearing very frequently on its records as holder of various offices. He died June, 1662, aged 82 or 85, leaving all his estate to his widow, Elizabeth, who died in 1674. Besides the daughter, Rachel, they had sons, John, Robert, Clement (lived in England), Richard, who died 1647, leaving sons John and Robert. The parentage of Rachel appears from a deed (p. 275, Vol. 6, Essex Deeds) dated Jan. 22, 1670, in which "Elizabeth Leach of Salem, widow, executrix unto y<sup>e</sup> estate of Laurance Leach, deceased, for and in consideration of fourteene pounds secured to be paid unto my daughter Rachell Goldthwright, have bargained and sould unto Richard Leach of ye same town," etc. About twenty years after the death of Lawrence Leach's widow, further administration on his estate was granted to his

John Sibley of Salem, who had died at Manchester in 1661, leaving four sons and five daughters, the youngest being Joseph Sibley, to whom, as will be seen, Thomas Goldthwaite left a bequest in his will. The earliest land transaction of Thomas Goldthwaite which is on record, is his purchase in 1657-8, from Edward Harnet, of a farm of twenty acres, parts of which remained in possession of his descendants within the recollection of those now living.* It was in the center of what is now the town of Peabody, about a mile and a quarter northwest of his former probable home in "Goldthrite's Field." At the time of its purchase there was on the land a house built by Edward Harnet, in which the son, Samuel, afterwards lived, while a second was built later by the father and occupied by himself and his widow after him (Ess. D., Vol. 32, pp. 254, 255). In this farm lay, for a good part of its lower course, the considerable stream which, by grandson, Robert Leach of Manchester, who represented that some of the personal estate of his grandfather, afterwards in possession of the widow, was at the house of John Leach of Salem, where she died, asking that said John be summoned to give account of it; upon which, Dec. 26, 1698, "Mr. John Leach above named personally appeared and made oath that he has not directly or indirectly Imbezled or concealed nor Doth not now conceal any part of y<sup>e</sup> p<sup>r</sup>sonall estate of y<sup>e</sup> above sd Lawrance Leach and that he Knows of noe part of y<sup>e</sup> said estate excepting a bed and Dripping pan w<sup>ch</sup> his Aunt Sibley alias Goldthrite said was Given to her by her mother in hir life time w<sup>ch</sup> accordingly y<sup>e</sup> sd Sibley had them. The "highway towards Mr. Downings farme" was the present Lowell street, part of the Main street of Peabody, and the "farme" that of Emanuel its name of Goldthwaite's Brook,* continues to this day a memorial of its early owner. Ten years after the purchase of the Harnett farm, Thomas received by deed of Apr. 29, 1667, from Edmond Batter of Salem, merchant, "for a valuable consideration to me in hand already paid by Thomas Golthwrite of the same place cooper before the ensealing of these presents," thirty or forty acres of a farm that had been given Mr. Batter by the town of Salem, and lying in the same neighborhood as the earlier purchase from Harnett. It was inventoried at £45 and given, by will, to the son-in-law, John King. About one year before his death, by a deed of May, 1682, "Thomas Golthrite," with his wife, Rachel, gives to son, "Samuel Golthwrite," a piece of meadow, called afterwards the Butt Meadow, which is here described as "many yeares since bought of Edmond Giles, deceased, and was before app'taining to Leift. Davenport, sometime an inhabitant heare in y<sup>e</sup> towne of Salem." It lay on both sides of "the brook" and "hath beene long since caled Golthwrite's med-

*Goldthwaite's Brook rises in Cedar Pond, three miles west of Peabody Center; flowing east two miles, it receives, from the south, the waters of Tapley's Brook, and after a further course of a mile unites, just northeast of the Town Square, with Proctor's Brook, both flowing thence into what is called, at Salem, the North River. During the last part of its course its water is now much discolored by the tanneries on its banks, and it is narrowed by walls on either side, flowing at the end through a covered way under the square. In early days it was, no doubt, a pretty stream, its current, rapid in some parts, furnishing water power which was used by some of Thomas' descendants in turning one or more chocolate mills found in their possession in later records. In early times, after the first purchase of this farm, there seem to have been no conveniences for crossing the brook where it ran through the highway, but, July 5, 1669, at a meeting of the selectmen, it was ordered that a "foote bridge at the brook, neare to Thom Gouldtwright" be made, horses and teams evidently being still obliged to ford it. About eleven years later, Oct. 28, 1680, "it was ordered that there shall be a horse bridge over the brook neere Tho: Golthrites and Mr. Jo: King is chosen overseer of the work."

Thomas Goldthwaite appears in the town records as follows: "At a meeting of y<sup>e</sup> Select men 24: 12: 1656 Chosen for the Clark of ye markett for ye year insuing, Thomas Goolthwait."

"At a meeting of the selectmen the 25th of the first m<sup>o</sup> 57 Whereas Thomas Gouldthwite being a delinquent by felling diuers timber trees vpon the towne Comon Contrarie to an order made at a generall towne meting at Salem the 2<sup>d</sup> of the 3<sup>d</sup> mo: 1642, we doe therefore award the said Thomas Gouldthwite to pay for 40 trees soe felled by him at 18<sup>d</sup> p tree = 3, and in case the said Gouldthwite shall refuse to pay the said s<sup>o</sup>me of 18<sup>d</sup> p tree that then the said Gouldthwite to be further psecuted by order of Law acording to the penaltie exp<sup>t</sup> in the order made in 42 as aforesaid."

Aug. 17, 1661, "Tho: Gouldtwaight" was chosen one of the Grand Jury.

At a meeting of the selectmen, Jan. 2, 1664, it was ordered that "Jo: Suthwick and Tho: Goldthwaite (sic) have libertie with such others concerned in it to set up two gates one neare Tho: Goldthwaites the other neare Micaell Shafins p'vided this libertie is granted this yeare insuing and then the gates to be taken downe if the towne see cause."

* Four other persons were prosecuted at the same time for the same offense, and with "Tho: Gouldthaight" paid the fine imposed, as appears from credit for the sums due being given them in the town accounts of the same year.

Same date, "granted libertie to Tho: Goldthwaite to fell about ten timbr<sup>r</sup> trees for his trade in the Comon."

As appears from the dates of his will and inventory, which here follow, Thomas Goldthwaite died in March, 1683, aged, probably, about 73, his second wife, Rachel, surviving him.

* EZEKIEL CHEEVER, the famous master of the Boston Latin School, was born in London Jan. 25, 1614, the son of William and Margaret Cheever. He was admitted a pupil of Christ's Hospital Apr. 3, 1626, and went thence to the University of Cambridge, where his name has been found enrolled in the Register of Emanuel College, Jan. 12, 1632-3. He came to Boston, in New England, in 1637, and removed, probably the next year, to New Haven, where he was chosen one of the twelve foundation members of the church, June, 1639; was deputy to the Court in 1645 and 1646, occasionally preached, and, throughout his residence there of about twelve years, taught school, first in his own house, and later in a free school established by the town. In New Haven he married, in the autumn of 1638, his wife, MARY, her maiden name unknown, who died there Jan. 20, 1649, having been the mother of six children. From New Haven he removed, about 1650, to Ipswich, Mass., where he became the first master of its grammar school, established about that time. While living there he married, Nov. 18, 1652, his second wife, ELLEN LATHROP, sister of Capt. Thomas Lathrop of Beverly. After about eleven years, spent in Ipswich, he removed to Charlestown, entering upon his duties as schoolmaster there Nov. 26, 1661, and nine years later, going over to Boston, he began, Nov. 6, 1670, his last and longest period as a teacher, continuing there the remaining thirty-eight years of his life, as master of the Boston Latin School, which had been established in 1635. He had thus, at his death, which took place in Boston Aug. 21, 1708, at the age of 94, completed seventy years continuous service as a teacher, having been the schoolmaster of most of the principal men of Boston then upon the stage. Judge Sewall, in his diary, gives the circumstances of the last sickness, death, and funeral of the venerable master. He "was buried from the schoolhouse. The Gov<sup>r</sup>, Councillors, Ministers, Justices, Gentlemen there. Mr. Williams made a handsome Latin Oration in his Honour." Rev. Dr. Cotton Mather, who had been his pupil, preached his funeral sermon, and her father, who died at 94, Elizabeth lived to a good age, but the time of her death is not known. When last found in the records in 1726 she was 81 years old. In a deed given in 1722 by her son, Nathaniel, to his brother, Ezekiel, she is called "our antient mother," Elizabeth Goldthwait.

Samuel Goldthwaite was, like his father, a cooper, and had his home at the west end of the Goldthwaite farm, on what is now Peabody town square, in the original house built by wrote an obituary in verse in his honor, of which Phillips Brooks, in his address* at the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the founding of the Boston Latin School, says: "The muse was never more modish and self-conscious, poetry never labored under such mountain weight of pedantry, . . . and yet it shows how great a man the master was, that the reality of his pupil's tribute to his greatness pierces through his absurd exaggeration and walks grandly, even in these preposterous clothes." Bishop Brooks calls him "the great seventeenth century schoolmaster," and says: "The time will come, perhaps, when some poetic brain will figure to itself, and some hands, alert with historical imagination, . . . will shape out of vital bronze what sort of man the first great master, Ezekiel Cheever, was. . . . Whoever knows the seventeenth century will see start into life its typical man — the man of prayer, the man of faith, the man of duty, the man of God."

Ezekiel Cheever wrote two books, "Scripture Prophecies Explained," and his famous "Accidence" or Latin Grammar, written, it is supposed, in New Haven, and for more than a century in use in the schools of New England, passing through at least twenty editions, the last published in Boston in 1838.

An admirable account of Ezekiel Cheever, the result of most thorough research, has been written by John T. Hassam, A.M., of Boston, and with a genealogy of many descendants, is printed in the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, Vols. 33, p. 164; 38, p. 170; 41, p. 65. It is also published separately in book form, and is the source of the information here given. The honor in which he was held by his descendants is shown by the large number of them who bore the name Ezekiel, found not only in the families of his sons, but with the various surnames of his daughters' descendants, Lewis, Goldthwaite, Price, Russell, etc. The last of the name in the Goldthwaite family, David Ezekiel Goldthwaite of Boston, d. Mar. 7, 1895.

Of the twelve children of Ezekiel Cheever, six, Samuel, Mary, Elizabeth, Ezekiel, Thomas, Susanna, survived him, and are mentioned in his will of Feb.

In witnessing the will of Thomas Gardner, Oct. 7, 1668, Samuel signed his name, "Samuel Goldthrite," which, giving the first syllable its old pronunciation, Goold, represents the name as customarily spoken within the recollection of various living members of the family from widely separated localities. Samuel lived through the exciting time of Salem witchcraft (beginning 1692), having then a family of young children. The name Goldthwaite is not found in connection with any of the trials of that period, though his near neighbors must, some of them, have been involved. If the tradition which has come down regarding the Goldthwaite of that day, and which can relate only to him, is true, it is an indication of his decided character, as well as of his good sense. The story, as preserved among his descendants in Salem, relates that one of his children, it is inferred a daughter, infected by the prevailing epidemic, began to "cry out" against some person as bewitching her, when her father took her to the barn, administered wholesome punishment, and thus ended all further trouble of that kind in his family. He gave portions of land to his sons, Samuel and Ezekiel, during his life, providing further for them and for his other children by his will, which, by its being proved Dec. 31, 1718, gives, as nearly as it has been found, the time of his death. For many years during his lifetime and that of his immedi-

4. Elizabeth<sup>1</sup> Goldthwaite (Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in Salem, Nov. 20, 1642, married, Sept. 1660, JOHN KING of the same town, born there Nov. 11, 1638, son of William and Dorothy King*. Their homestead was next west of that of Thomas<sup>1</sup> Goldthwaite, on land he gave to them, and remained in their family till it was sold by their grandson, Samuel King, Jr., in 1733 to David Goldthwaite. John King was a cooper, as was also his oldest son John, as well as others of his family. He had died before Jan. 20, 1715, and his wife before Dec. 31, 1718, but both were living Sept. 9, 1714, when they witnessed the will of Samuel Goldthwaite. Children :

15 JOHN<sup>2</sup>, b. Oct., 1662; m. Annis Hoar, dau. of William and Dorcas (Galley) Hoar. Administration on his estate was granted to his widow, Mch., 1717, 8; children : Samuel "Jr.", Mary, Elizabeth, Joseph, Hannah, Annis.

6. Samuel<sup>3</sup> Goldthwaite (Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>) of Salem, part now Peabody, born there March 5, 1668, 9, baptized May 13, 1669, married Dec. 2, 1697 (by Rev. Nicholas Noyes) MARY THOMAS, who on that day exactly completed her twenty-sixth year, having been born Dec. 3, 1671, the daughter of George and Mary (Graves) Thomas* of Salem. She was baptized "at age," 1st church, March 9, 1700. Samuel Goldthwaite is called in the records both husbandman and innkeeper. He was appointed a taverner in 1712 and in 1714. A meeting called on the 13th of Sept., 1713, of those who had cottages or dwelling places in Salem before 1661 is spoken of as being "at the house of Mr. Samuel Goldthwait, innkeeper." The inn was his homestead, built on part of his father's farm, and standing on the west corner of what is now Main and Foster streets, Peabody, Goldthwaite's Brook dividing his land on the west from that of his brother Ezekiel. The house must have been of good size, since it was

* GEORGE THOMAS of Salem, gunsmith, owned house and land there with shop adjoining, bought of Henry Kemble of Boston, blacksmith, which he sold in Sept., 1669. He was living in 1710. He married Dec. 28, 1667, MARY GRAVES, who was probably the daughter, born Apr. 16, 1648, of Richard Graves who, according to Savage, came from London in the Abigail, in 1635, aged 23, and had baptized at Salem, Joseph, Benjamin, Elizabeth, Mary, Richard, Hannah, Deliverance. The children of George and Mary (Graves) Thomas in Salem records are :

1. Richard, b. Dec. 6, 1668.
2. George, b. Apr. 14, 1670.
3. Mary, b. Dec. 3, 1671 ; m. Samuel Goldthwaite.
4. Elizabeth, b. Jan. 4, 1672.
5. Hana, b. June 6, 1674.
6. Ruth, b. Feb. 8, 1675.

afterwards divided, Samuel himself keeping the south part, opening on Foster st., while his son-in-law, Gideon Foster, took the front or Main st. end. He gave his property mostly by deed to his children, last appearing in the land records May 18, 1745, when he deeds to his five daughters, Mary Rea, Ruth Newman, Mehitable Needham, Lydia Foster, and Rebecca Goldthwait, 15 acres of pasture. He is last found in the parish tax list in 1748, and must have died about that time, being then in his 80th year. Judging by her disappearance from deeds given by her husband, his wife Mary died between 1735 and 1737.

Children, youngest bapt. at So. Danvers, the others at Salem 1st church :

- 23 + MARY<sup>4</sup>, bapt. May 21, 1699; m. Evan Evans, Joshua Rea, and Nathan Taylor.
- 24 RUTH, bapt. Apr. 13, 1701; m. Jan. 6, 1726, Henry Newman of Lynn, carpenter.
- 25 + SAMUEL, bapt. May 30, 1702; m. Mary Pulsifer and Abigail Proctor.
- 26 MEHITABEL, bapt. Aug. 4, 1706; m. Thomas Needham of Danvers, yeoman, whose will, proved May 11, 1752, left whole income, etc., of estate to beloved wife Mehitabel and after her death to other relatives, no children being mentioned.
- 27 + THOMAS, bapt. Aug., 1708; m. Eunice Flint and Mary ———.
- 28 + LYDIA, bapt. May 14, 1710; m. Gideon Foster.
- 29 REBECCA, bapt. July 31, 1715; m. Nathaniel Goldthwaite (see No. 51).

8. Ezekiel<sup>3</sup> Goldthwaite (Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Salem, part now Peabody, was born there Aug. 3, 1674 (bapt. June, 1675), being the first of several Goldthwaites of that name, called after his grandfather, Ezekiel Cheever of Boston, master of the Latin School. He married March 20, 1695, 6, ESTHER BOYCE.* Soon after his marriage he received by

His will of Nov. 4, 1684, proved Feb. 18, 1694, 5, mentions wife Ellinor, son Joseph, daughters Mary Southick, Hester Southick, and Elizabeth Hanson, and grandsons, Joseph, Benjamin, and Jonathan Boyce, sons of son Joseph. His son, deed from his father, Jan. 21, 1697, a dwelling house and land, the house being one built by his grandfather, Thomas' Goldthwaite, before 1661.* In 1709 and 1711 he received other land from his father, and a considerable number of later land transactions in which he was concerned are found in the records. He owned rights also in New Salem, Mass., which was largely settled from old Salem. In the seating of the meeting house, 1713, "in y<sup>e</sup> West Body of Seats are seated in y<sup>e</sup> first Jn<sup>o</sup> Waters: Benj: Very, Sam<sup>ll</sup> King, Ezek: Goldthrit." JOSEPH<sup>2</sup> BOYCE married, June 12, 1667, Sarah, daughter of Jeremiah Meachum. She was living June 30, 1696, when her father's estate was divided. Besides his sons, Joseph, Benjamin, and Jonathan mentioned, as above, in his father's will, he had David, born later, to whom he made a deed of gift Feb. 28, 1707, 8, calling himself Joseph Boyce, Sen., and mentioning also the son Jonathan. Esther Boyce, wife of Ezekiel Goldthwaite, who must have been born as early at least as 1680, was probably a daughter in this family. It is noticeable that she gives her children their family names, Joseph and David, new among Goldthwaites. She was not baptized till May 23, 1722, "at adult age."

of Salem, is in possession of his descendants. He was by trade a mason. He made provision for his children by deeds given in his lifetime, leaving no will. To his two daughters, Hannah Goldthwait and Hester Case he gave March 1, 1759, a year before his death, his dwelling-house and barn with land adjoining, and in this they lived till their death, when it passed to the family of their brother David. The homestead was situated in what is now the center of Peabody, on the south side of the town square. Ezekiel's brother Nathaniel lived on the west, and his brother Samuel on the east, Goldthwaite's Brook separating his land from that of Samuel. He lived to be past 87 years of age, and died in 1761, administration on his estate being granted to his son, David, Dec. 21st of that year. The following testimony given by Ezekiel near the close of his life is of interest:

July 26, 1760, "Ezekiel Goldthwait about 86 years of age declares that he for more than 70 years hath well known and been used to the old road which now leadeth through part of Salem by Samuel Aborn's house and the pound near it into the country road (now mostly used) and leading from Danvers to Lynn; that said old road ever since he knew it till about 30 years past, was used and by him understood to be a highway, and further when said Ezekiel was a boy and to the best of his remembrance when he was six or seven years old he went to school to a schoolmistress at a house on said old road, and then it was used as a public road as he understood."

9. Capt. John<sup>3</sup> Goldthwaite (Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>) of Boston was born in Salem in 1677.* He was, by trade, a mason, like his brother Ezekiel, and settled early in Boston, where he married, March 13, 1701, SARAH HOPKINS, daughter of Charles and Margaret (Henchman) Hopkins of Boston.†

* His age, as given in the notice of his death, makes his birth Dec. 25, 1677, but he was probably that child of Samuel Goldthwaite, name not found, baptized in July, 1677. He had, by the will of his father, land in Salem which he and his wife, Jane, sold in 1723 to his brother Ezekiel.

† The parentage of Sarah Hopkins appears from a deed of gift of Thomas Henchman, gent., of Chelmsford, dated Sept. 15, 1693, "in consideration of the great love and affection which I do bear unto my beloved kinswomen, Elizabeth Hopkins, Mary Hopkins, Sarah Hopkins, and Hannah Hopkins, the daughters of my brother and sister, Charles and Margaret Hopkins, late of Boston in New England deceased and for other good causes and considerations me hereunto moving" (Suffolk Deeds, Vol. 16, p. 194). This was Major Thomas Henchman, well known as an officer in the Indian wars. He had bought this property July 30, 1674, of Capt. Daniel Henchman of Boston, who has been supposed his relative, perhaps a brother. Major Henchman seems to have left no children; "dear kinswoman, Ruth Warren, wife of Joseph Warren of Chelmsford," is a legatee under the wills of both himself and widow, Elizabeth, in 1702 and 1704. The latter mentions also, as sister of Major Henchman, Bridget Chandler, widow of William Chandler of Andover. The will of Charles Hoare, 1638, sheriff of the city of Gloucester, England, whose widow, Joanna, came to New England with six children in 1639 or 1640, and who was the ancestress of many persons of distinction in America, speaks of Thomas Hinksman as one of his wife's brothers, of whom the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register (Vol. 45, pp. 286, 289) says he was, in all probability, Major Thomas Henchman of the Indian wars. A sister of Capt. Daniel Henchman, and perhaps also of Major Thomas, was Hannah Hinksman, b. 1638, who m. Capt. James Hill of Boston, an officer of the Artillery Co. and deacon, Old South church. The latter was, as I have had occasion to prove (contrary to the supposition in the Hist. of Art. Co.), a son of "Mr. William Hill" of Fairfield, Conn.

Charles Hopkins is found taxed as an inhabitant of Boston in 1674, 1687 (on "2 Housing and wharf"), 1688. Charles and Margaret Hopkins had children:

1. John, b. July 5, 1663. He was a shipwright, buying, in 1686, an estate on Charter street, opposite that given to his sisters, but died before 1693, without issue.

2. Joseph, b. Aug. 1, 1666; d. y.

They were married by Rev. Cotton Mather, of whose church (the 2d, or Old North) they were members, John being admitted Feb 3, 1705-6. After the death of Dr. Mather, he was one of the three who took his inventory, July 22, 1728.

John Goldthwaite's home in Boston until 1725, and the birthplace of all his children, was on the north side of Charter street near Copps Hill burying-ground, on the property given to his wife and her sisters, as already mentioned, by their uncle, Major Thomas Henchman, he having bought out the sisters' rights in 1706. This place he sold May 17, 1725, and removed to another which he had shortly before purchased, situated on the southeast side of the Mill Pond on the "highway from the Mill Bridge to Charlestown Ferry." Here he passed the rest of his life, the estate then going, by a previous deed of 1757, to his son, Ezekiel, who sold it, after his father's death, to his brother-in-law, Thomas Sherburn. Sarah Hopkins, the wife, died in 1715 and was buried at Copps Hill. Her gravestone, for some time lost, was within a few years discovered; it bears the following inscription:

Sarah, the oldest child, who died in infancy, has a gravestone there also.

The year after his wife's death, Capt. John married (intention published March 21, 1715-16) MRS. JANE HALSEY of Boston, widow of John Halsey, and youngest of three children of Thomas and Mary Tawley of Boston, where she was born March 2, 1682.* A daughter, Mary Halsey, by her first husband, and born Dec. 29, 1704, was living in 1719.

8. Hannah, unm. Feb., 1705-6.

From 1708 to 1758, John Goldthwaite is often mentioned in the town and selectmen's records of Boston. He was appointed to appraise buildings, to inspect chimneys, to oversee the cleaning of streets, as viewer of shingles, and measurer of boards and timber; was twice chosen constable, and is frequently in the lists of those appointed to visit or walk the town. From 1739 to 1746 he was collector of taxes, and from 1746 to 1758, when he was past eighty years of age, assessor. His subscription to the building of a workhouse, May, 1735, was £15 in mason's work. He is one of the seventeen named as founders of the New North church in 1714, appears at the head of a petition, Nov. 18, 1741, of inhabitants at the North End, that Mr. Samuel Mather might be allowed to preach on the Lord's day at the North Writing-

* Mrs. Jane Goldthwaite had a brother, John Tawley of Marblehead, cooper, and a sister, Hannah, who m. David Buckley and Mr. Waldo. After the death of their father, their mother, the widow Mary Tawley, married John Indicott of Boston, cooper, and died a widow in 1718-19. John Indicott was a warden of King's Chapel. He died Dec. 7, 1711, æ. 70. His children dying without issue, his wife's children by Mr. Tawley received a portion of his property. They also had legacies from an aunt, the Widow Jane Haberfield, formerly widow of Benjamin Bagsworth, mariner, of Boston; she left, in her will of Dec. 19, 1719, £100 and several articles of silver plate to Mrs. Jane Goldthwaite's daughter, Mary Halsey, and a small bequest to her son, Thomas Goldthwaite, then an infant. A house and land with part of a wharf near Fort Hill, formerly the property of Benjamin Bagsworth, who had no children, also came from her to the Tawley family.

John Halsey and Jane Taly were married Dec. 10, 1700, by Rev. Cotton Mather. Besides the daughter Mary, they had Jane, John, and perhaps others who died in childhood. The will of John Halsey of Boston, mariner, made Jan. 7, 1700, proved Jan. 1, 1714, gave all to beloved wife, Jane. His inventory, consisting of personal property only, amounted to £79; among the items are 34½ ounces of silver plate, and a negro woman valued at £25. He seems to have had a brother, Joseph Halsey.

School, and is one of the two named as petitioning, with others, the succeeding Feb. 22d, for the erection of a new meeting-house at the head of Bennet street.* The history of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company shows him on its rolls in 1711 and 1720, as ensign in 1730, and lieutenant in 1732. He appears first in the town records with the title of Captain, Nov. 18, 1741, and continues so to be mentioned till his death.

It is a tradition of the family that in his old age he had a barbecue for his descendants on North Square; it was held under a tent because they were too numerous to assemble in a house. His name is found to-day among descendants of but three of his fourteen children, having become extinct in many of their lines also. He died June 25, 1766, as appears from the Boston Gazette of Monday, June 30th: "On Wednesday last departed this life Capt. John Goldthwait of this town, having that day attained to the age of 88 years, 6 months, and on Friday was decently interred." As no gravestone is found for him, he was probably buried in the tomb of his son Ezekiel on Copps Hill.

Children (births from town records, baptisms, 2d church),
by 1st wife :

36 SARAH<sup>4</sup>, b. Dec. 18 (bapt. Dec. 21), 1701; d. Oct. 7, 1702.

37 + JOHN, b. May 24 (bapt. May 30), 1703; m. Mercy Thomas and Widow Susanna (Nichols) Wright.

38 + BENJAMIN, b. Nov. 25 (bapt. Nov. 26), 1704; m. Charity Edwards.

39 + JOSEPH, b. Nov. 11 (bapt. Oct. (?) 13), 1706; m. Martha Lewis.

* John Goldthwaite, though named among the founders of the New North, evidently did not remove from the Old North, the baptisms of his children appearing throughout until 1724 in the records of the latter. Drake, in his History of Boston, speaks of Dr. Cotton Mather's unwillingness to part with his members as preventing their leaving him for this purpose. The new church of 1741-2, corner of North Bennet and Hanover streets, was known as Mr. Samuel Mather's church. Mr. Mather, after being minister for nine years at the Old North, asked dismissal in 1741, then going with thirty men and twice as many women to found this church. After his death in 1785, the building was sold and became the First Universalist.

- 40 + SARAH, b. Sept. 12 (bapt. 19), 1708 ; m. Caleb Pratt.
 41 + EZEKIEL, b. July 9 (bapt. July 23), 1710 ; m. Elizabeth Lewis.
 42 MARGARET, bapt. Dec. 16, 1711 ; d. y.
 43 + MARGARET, bapt. May 9, 1714 ; m. Thomas Sherburn.
 44 + ELIZABETH, b. Oct. 31 (bapt. Nov. 6), 1715 ; m. John West.

By 2d wife :

- 45 + THOMAS, b. Jan 15 (bapt. Jan. 19), 1717-18 ; m. Esther Sargeant and Katherine Barnes.
 46 HANNAH, bapt. Dec. 27, 1719 ; d. y.
 47 JANE, bapt. Nov. 20, 1720 ; d. y., probably.
 48 + HANNAH, bapt. Aug. 5, 1722 ; m. Richard Furbur.
 49 + MARY, bapt. Apr. 12, 1724 ; m. Rev. James Bridgham.

By the will of his father (1718) Nathaniel received his house and orchard and home field, six acres in all ; also five acres in the North Field. So far as appears, he had no other occupation than that of husbandman. He died, probably in 1732, the year of his last appearance in the parish tax-list, the "estate of Nathaniel Goldthwaite" taking the place of his name in 1733. His two sons, Nathaniel and Ebenezer, held their father's property in common* till about the time of the latter's marriage, when, Dec. 27, 1753, administration on his estate was granted to the widow, Elizabeth, and son, Nathaniel. The amount of his inventory was £72, 10s. 4d. Nothing is known of the widow after the latter date. She is probably "Elizabeth Goldthright" seated in the meeting-house in 1737 in the fourth of the women's seats below, and in 1742 "Wid<sup>o</sup> Goldthwayt" in the "fore seat" below. The birth of but one of Nathaniel's children is recorded, and the baptisms of none of them appear in the church records. His family has been a small one ; but one male descendant bearing the Goldthwaite name now remains.

Children : *

- 50 ELIZABETH<sup>4</sup>, b. Feb. 1, 1705-6 ; probably unm. ; it is a family tradition that when her brother Nathaniel brought home his second wife, a maiden sister, who had been his housekeeper, was a member of the family ; this might also have been Abigail, below.
- 51 + NATHANIEL, b. 1707 ; m. Rebecca Goldthwaite and Mrs. Sarah Girdler.
- 52 ABIGAIL, bapt. at adult age, Feb. 23, 1734-5.
- 53 MARY, b. ——— ; m. Nov. 23, 1738, John Proctor, 4th. He d. in the Cape Breton expedition, 1745, and seems, from his will, to have left no children. Mary was perhaps the Widow Mary Proctor who m. (int. pub. July 2, 1748) Daniel Marble of Salem.
- 54 + SARAH, b. ——— ; m. Apr. 27, 1740, John Langford.
- 55 + EBENEZER, b. about 1717 ; m. Sarah Newman.

11. Mary<sup>3</sup> Goldthwaite (Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>) born in Salem (date not found), married Dec. 20, 1710, as 2d wife, JOHN NICHOLS† of Topsfield, born there Jan. 14, 1667, son of John and Lydia Nichols. The name of his first wife was Constant ———, by whom he had one son, Edward, who afterwards married his stepmother's sister, Hannah Goldthwaite. John Nichols was a carpenter and built, in 1696, a house yet standing on the edge of Topsfield, where most of his children were born. Its present owner has restored its antique features

* There is only negative evidence for placing Abigail, Mary, and Sarah, who appear in Salem records, among the children of Nathaniel, but such evidence is here so strong as to be almost conclusive. There were but two other Goldthwaites in the town who had children born at the same period, viz. : Samuel (m. Mary Thomas) and Ezekiel (m. Esther Boyce) ; there is no reason to doubt that the names of all the children of these have been preserved in the full records of baptism of their families, as well as in certain deeds of gift, of the nature of wills. As Nathaniel's children, on the contrary, were recorded but in one instance, the ten-years interval between his sons Nathaniel and Ebenezer, seems the only correct place for inserting the above three.

† The ancestor of this family was William Nichols, grandfather of Mary's husband. He was born in England about 1599, had grants of land in Brooksby (now Peabody) in 1638. By his deposition in 1652 he was then living on a farm of some hundreds of acres situated between Ipswich River and Salem line ; of this, the land mentioned above was a part. He had one son, John, b. 1640, who m. Lydia and died in 1700.

and named it Ferncroft Inn, and it is now a famous resort in the summer time for people from the neighboring towns, who make it the favorite object of their drives. It stands on a hill (Nichols Hill in early deeds) and Nichols brook runs near. The children of John and Mary were :

- 56 JOHN<sup>4</sup>, b. June 10, 1713 ; m. Oct. 2, 1739, Elizabeth, dau. of Timothy and Huldah Prince, b. in Salem Oct. 12, 1705 ; he d. Dec. 11, 1792. He was a cooper, and removed from Middleton (formerly part of Topsfield) to Danvers in 1750.
- 57 SAMUEL, b. Feb. 25, 1714-15 ; m. Nov. 17, 1742, Abigail Elliot, who d. May 27, 1759 ; m. 2d, Anna White. This Samuel was the father of Dea. John and Major Andrew Nichols, who were both grandparents of Dr. Andrew Nichols, a physician of Danvers. A genealogy of the Nichols family, written by Mr. Andrew Nichols, son of Dr. Andrew (Essex Inst. Coll., Vol. III, p. 29), has furnished part of the data of this account.

12. Elizabeth<sup>3</sup> Goldthwaite (Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in Salem (part now Peabody) at a date not found, was married in Boston, Aug. 3, 1713, by Mr. Thomas Bridge, to THOMAS PRICE. Elizabeth was before this time living in Boston, where she was admitted to the 1st church Apr. 8, 1713, residing then, very probably, with her brother John on Charter street. Thomas Price was a saddler, and bought, May 6, 1724, a part of "John Staniford's pasture in the western part of Boston," where he built a house, the lot being described as bounded north on Green Lane, and located, therefore, not far from the corner of the present Green and Staniford streets. Thomas and Elizabeth Price have the following children in the records of the 1st church and Boston town records :

- 58 ANN<sup>4</sup>, bapt. Aug. 1, 1714 ; d. y.
- 59 ELIZABETH, bapt. Aug. 21, 1715.
- 60 ANN, bapt. Aug. 4, 1717.
- 61 CHARLES, bapt. July 19, 1719.
- 62 EZEKIEL,* b. Sept. 9, 1727 ; m. Apr. 18, 1765 (by Rev. Dr. Mayhew), Ruth Avery, dau. of John Avery, Esq., of Boston ; her brother, John

*The following, concerning Mr. Price, has been gathered from different sources : A brief notice of Ezekiel Price, Esq., is found in Vol. VIII, p. 85,

Avery, Jr., was for many years Secretary of the Commonwealth of Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Price had these children, of whom only the two eldest seem to have survived childhood :

1 Ezekiel<sup>5</sup>, b. May 20, 1766.

2 Mary Deming, b. June 9, 1767 ; m. Apr., 1787, Thomas Greenleaf of Boston, by whom she had Thomas<sup>6</sup> and Ezekiel Price Greenleaf.

Coll. of Mass. Hist. Society, of which he was elected a member Apr. 30, 1793, and became a "liberal benefactor." He was, when a young man, confidential secretary to the governors of the province, Shirley, Pownall, and Sir Francis Bernard, and was afterwards for many years clerk of the courts of Common Pleas and Sessions for the county of Suffolk, and for a long time also chairman of the board of selectmen for the town of Boston. During the siege of Boston, he, with his wife and daughter, Polly, resided in Stoughton. The diary which he kept at that period (May 23, 1775, to Aug. 18, 1776) is in possession of the Mass. Hist. Soc., and is printed in their Proceedings for 1863-4, pp. 185-262. It gives an interesting account of the events of that time, as they came under his own observation, not only at Stoughton, but in places nearer Boston which he often visited. Such family information as is there contained is comprised in frequent mention of "son Zek," as coming to spend the day (he was then nine, and perhaps at school); of his hearing from the town, Jan. 2, that "our family now live at the North End," on which he remarks, "I believe they are at the house Uncle Goldthwait formerly lived in"; and of visiting his sister in Boston the day after the evacuation, she having, during the siege, "been forced from my house." In 1774 he republished the sermon, preached by Dr. Cotton Mather sixty-six years before, at the funeral of his great-grandfather, Ezekiel Cheever. It was printed by Ezekiel Russell (another great-grandson) "next the Cornfield, Union Street," and has on the title page, "The following Sermon on the death of that faithful Servant of God, the late Venerable Mr. Ezekiel Cheever, Is now republished to perpetuate the Memory of that Good Man, by his Great-Grand-Son, Ezekiel Price, Boston, Jan. 1, 1774" (Vol. 33; p. 183, Gen. Reg.). Mr. Price died July 15, 1802, aged 74. His will, made March 1, 1798, proved July 26, 1802, speaks of his being aged and infirm; gives to wife, Ruth, the use of his dwelling-house on Tremont street, half his silver plate, etc.; to his son-in-law, Thomas Greenleaf, his gold watch, and his "small library" to two grandsons, Thomas Greenleaf and Ezekiel Price Greenleaf; provides for the support of son, Ezekiel, and gives all the remainder to Dr. John Warren and Mr. Samuel Clapp of Boston, they to pay rents, etc., to his daughter, Mary Deming Greenleaf. Dr. John Warren to be sole executor. He lived on Winter and State streets and in Williams Court. His home for the last years of his life on Tremont street was on the site of the Boston Museum (Vol. XIX, p. 329, Gen. Reg.).

- 3 Elizabeth, b. Oct. 15, 1768.
- 4 John Avery, b. June 2, 1771.
- 5 Betsey, b. May 12, 1773.

13. Hannah<sup>3</sup> Goldthwaite (Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in Salem and baptized there (1st church) March, 1687, married (int. pub. Dec. 31, 1715) EDWARD NICHOLS of Topsfield, born June 26, 1692, the son by a former wife, Constant, of John Nichols, who had married, as 2d wife, five years before, Hannah's sister Mary, the two sisters thus becoming (step) mother-in-law and daughter-in-law. The children of Edward and Hannah, all born in Topsfield, were (Vol. III, p. 29, Coll. Essex Inst.) :

- 63 STEPHEN<sup>4</sup>, b. Feb. 10, 1716; m. Apr. 7, 1752, Elizabeth Hutchinson.
- 64 JOSEPH, b. Apr. 14, 1720.
- 65 BENJAMIN, b. Apr. 14, 1720; m. June 7, 1744, Jerusha Elliot, b. Apr. 9, 1723, dau. of Francis and Jerusha Elliot of Middleton.
- 66 HANNAH, b. Aug., 1724; m. Jan. 8, 1752, Amos Curtis.

FOURTH GENERATION.

23. Mary<sup>4</sup> Goldthwaite (Samuel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in Salem, and baptized (Rec. of 1st church), May 21, 1699, m. Oct. 13, 1718, EVAN EVANS. He was a tailor, lived in the parish of South Danvers, and died in 1739. His will of Oct. 20, 1739, proved Dec. 28, 1739, leaves to "Dear and Loving wife Mary" his whole estate, "not doubting that she will Do for my Children, Mary Green and Elizabeth Farrington, as far as her ability will allow, and their dutiful behaviour will induce, which (Besides what I have already done for them) is the whole of the portion I leave to them my said Children." Mary married 2d (int. pub. July 30, 1742) JOSHUA REA of Salem, husbandman, whose will, proved Mar. 24, 1745, mentions wife Mary, sons, Joshua and James, and daughter, Mercy Blashfield, children evidently by a former wife, Mercy Taylor of Beverly, whom he married, 1716. Before May 22, 1749, Mary was the wife of NATHAN TAYLOR of Salem, weaver, when she and her sisters sell land given them by their father. It is not known that Mary had other children than these two by Mr. Evans:

67 MARY<sup>5</sup>, bapt. Sept. 25, 1720; m. Mch. 13, 1738, 9, Thomas Green of Boston. They had Mary, who m. Apr. 26, 1768, Joshua Trask of Salem, and Thomas, b. Sept. 19, 1743, in Danvers, who m. Apr. 28, 1769, Lydia Kilbourn of Rowley. Thomas, Jr., was a soldier in the French War, and removed, after the Revolution, to Waterford, Me. Among descendants of Mary Goldthwaite in this line is Col. Jacob L. Greene, president of Conn. Mutual Life Ins. Co. of Hartford.

68 ELIZABETH, bapt. Jan. 1, 1720; m. Feb. 2, 1738, Jeremiah Farrington of Lynn.

1st (int. pub. Oct. 24, 1730), MARY PULSIFER* of Gloucester. After her death he married, Aug. 22, 1738, ABIGAIL PROCTOR of Salem, daughter of John Proctor.† The home of Samuel was the south end of the house his father had kept as an inn and fronting on the present Foster street, then called "a way leading from the meeting-house to Boston road." This he sold Dec. 18, 1752, to his brother-in-law, Gideon Foster, who lived in the north end of the house, and about that time he bought out the other heirs of his wife's father, John Proctor, and removed to the latter's homestead, which is described as 50 acres with mansion house, barn, etc., bounded east on the Ipswich road, south by the Reading road, etc. Proctor's Brook, still so called, helps to mark its location. Samuel last appears in the parish tax-list in 1771, dying, therefore, probably in 1772, when 70 years of age. His wife was living in 1762. The old Goldthwaite record of 1829 says of Samuel that he "left no male heirs." He must have had, however, the two following sons, who died without issue, leaving the name extinct in his line not many years after his death. If he had daughters, they have not come to light. Children, by 1st wife :

- 69 SAMUEL<sup>5</sup>, b. ——— ; it is only known of him that he was in the company of Capt. John Tapley (enlisted at Salem, Beverly, etc.), which was in the capitulation of Fort William Henry, Aug. 9, 1757, and that he is marked "dead" on the roll, perhaps having perished in the massacre by the Indians which followed the surrender of the fort. He * Babson, in his history of Gloucester, mentions John Pulcifer, or Pulsever, who, according to tradition, settled about 1680 on the old road leading to Coffin's Beach, and in 1688 had a piece of land given to the house where he then lived. He was the son of Benedict Pulsifer of Ipswich, and married, Dec. 31, 1684, Joanna, dau. of Thomas Kent. They had, among other children, as I am told by Mr. W. H. Dolliver of Gloucester, a Mary, baptized, 1st ch., Aug. 17, 1707, who may very probably have been the wife of Samuel Goldthwaite.

† Abigail Proctor had sisters : Hannah, wife of John Balcum of Mansfield, Conn.; Mary, wife of Abraham Pierce of Salem; Rachel, who m. 1st, Jonathan Mackmallin, and 2d, Nath'l Massey; Elizabeth, unmarried, 1750; and a brother, John Proctor, 3d, who m. Mary Collier of Marblehead, and died in 1747 without issue.

is credited with service of 23 weeks, 4 days, having entered March 9. His home is given as Danvers, and he must have been past 21, since no parent or guardian is mentioned against his name, as is the case with those under age (Mass. Archives, Vol. 95, p. 51).

By 2d wife :

- 70 JONATHAN, b. 1738 ; m. July 2, 1770, Rebecca Trask. He enlisted at the age of 18 in Capt. Andrew Fuller's company, Col. Ichabod Plais-ted's regiment, serving at Fort Edward from Mar. 30 to Dec. 1, 1756. The roll shows his age, his birth at Danvers, and that he was then apprenticed to Thorndike Proctor (blacksmith). He again enlisted Apr. 2, 1759, in one of Gen. Amherst's regiments. He served also in the Revolution, in Capt. Benjamin Ward's company, stationed at Salem for the defense of the sea-coast, from Jan. 22 to Nov. 18, 1776. He died in 1778, in which year, July 15th, administration of estate of Jonathan Goldthwait, late of Danvers, mariner, was granted to his widow, Rebecca.

27. Thomas<sup>4</sup> Goldthwaite (Samuel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>3</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Salem, Mass., was born there in 1708 and baptized in August of that year (Rec. of 1st church). He was a saddler, and must have learned the trade and passed his early life in Boston, since he is on record as admitted to the First church there Feb. 25, 1727, 8, when less than twenty years of age. He was probably apprenticed to his uncle, Thomas Price (husband of his aunt, Elizabeth Goldthwaite), who was then in that business in Boston, having his home on Green street, where Thomas perhaps lived in his family. Another relative in the city was his uncle, John Goldthwaite, who lived at the North End, on Charter street, having a large family of sons and daughters, one of whom, afterwards Major Benjamin Goldthwaite, three and a half years Thomas' senior, had the same trade, probably learned with the same uncle. Boston had been the home also of his great-grandfather, Ezekiel Cheever, who had died there the year Thomas was born. Soon after coming of age he returned to South Danvers, where he appears in the parish tax-list in 1730, then being twenty-two years old. In that year he married (int. pub.

July 4, 1730) EUNICE FLINT* of Salem, and continues to be found in the tax-list for two years longer, disappearing after 1732 and not found there again till 1745. This absence from Salem of thirteen years, during which some of his children were born, is in part explained by the birth of his son Thomas (1738) given in his company roll of 1756 in the French and Indian War as in "Volinstown," or Voluntown, a former name of Petersham, Mass. The records of this town, however, show no trace of this family, rendering it probable that their stay there was only temporary, and that their settlement was in some other place in that part of the State.† Much trouble was experienced by the early settlers of this region during that period from the combined depredations of the French and Indians, who were especially hostile in 1744, and this, with perhaps the death of his wife, Eunice, which seems to have taken place during his absence from Salem, is a very probable cause of the return of Thomas Goldthwaite in that year, either before, or soon after which, he had married a second wife, MARY —, as appears from a deed, dated Apr. 8, 1746, by which "Thomas Goldthawyt of Salem, saddler, and Mary, his wife," sell certain land in South Danvers. He continued to live in that town till his death in 1756, at the age of 48, by which his widow was left with several small children, the youngest an infant of about one year. He had been chosen sexton of the meeting-house in 1752 and continued to hold the place till he died, after which, Mar. 9, 1757, it was voted that "Jo<sup>s</sup> Stacey be Saxton and the Wid<sup>o</sup> Mary Goldthwait to sweep the meeting house this year." For the next five years it continued to be voted that she should "ring the bell and sweep the meeting house this year," after which, in March, 1763, Joseph Stacey was again appointed sexton. Whether the widow had then died, or removed with the son, Thomas, who went to Springfield in 1762, does not appear. The names of Thomas Goldthwaite's children, as here given, are from the old record of 1829, made out with the assistance of Mr. Erastus Goldthwaite, son of Thomas, Jr. Which, if any, of these children are by Eunice Flint, is not known. Children :

* Eunice Flint was the youngest child, born about 1707, 8, of Joseph<sup>2</sup> (Thomas<sup>1</sup>) and Abigail (Howard) Flint of Salem. Her father died when she was quite young, administration on his estate being granted Feb. 5, 1710 (11). His inventory, taken June 26, 1711, amounted to £249, 10s, and contained a house and farm of fifty-six acres. Mr. John Walcott of Salem was appointed guardian of Eunice, then under fourteen, July 16, 1719. She is enumerated among the eleven children of Joseph Flint (births of all but herself on Salem records) in the division of his estate May 25, 1719.

† A search of Voluntown, Conn., records does not show the family there.

- 71 + THOMAS<sup>s</sup>, b. —, 1738 ; m. Lucy Flint and Lois Stebbins.
- 72 EUNICE, b. —, — ; m. Isaac Buffum.*
- 73 + WILLIAM, b. —, 1743 (?) ; m. Abigail King.
- 74 + JAMES, b. —, 1746 ; m. Hannah Whittemore.
- 75 ELIJAH, b. probably 1749 ; "prest into British navy" is the account of him in the old record. The tradition regarding him, handed down among the descendants of his brother William in Peabody, is that he was eating dinner with the family in their house, which stood on the corner of the present Main and Holton streets in that town, when a press gang entered and carried him off, never to be again seen or heard from by his friends. He must have been then a youth, under age, since he never appeared in the parish tax-lists. Each of his three brothers, who had sons, named one of them after him, showing the deep impression his fate made on his family.
- 76 + BENJAMIN, b. —, 1752 ; m. Sarah Gowing.
- 77 AARON, b. —, 1755 ; "died at sea." He was baptized† at South Danvers, Aug. 5, 1759. "Guardianship of Aaron Goldthwait, a minor aged sixteen years, and son of Thomas Goldthwait, late of Danvers, deceased, was granted to Nath'l Felton, who gave bond with John Proctor Jun<sup>r</sup> and Joseph Ross as sureties for his faithful discharge of that trust. This twelfth day of Aug<sup>t</sup> A. D. 1771. (Signed) Nath'l Roper." (Prob. Rec., Salem.)

* Isaac Buffum and Eunice Goldthwait married 12th month, 25th, 1766. This is from a collection of Quaker marriage certificates presented to the Lynn Hist. Soc. by Mr. Charles Buffum. There were a number of Quaker families in South Danvers, and seven out of these 27 certificates relate to Buffums. Eunice, named probably from her father's first wife, cannot well belong to any other family.

† He is erroneously recorded as "son to Elizabeth Goldthwait, widow."

He was a mason and lived in a house on the town square, Peabody, on the west corner of what is now Foster street, having bought it of Samuel Goldthwaite, his father-in-law, whose homestead it was. He died suddenly, Oct., 1772, his widow surviving him. The amount of his inventory was £888 10s. 1d., and contains a pew in Mr. Holt's meeting-house, one-half a pew in St. Peter's church in Salem, two carriages (set off to the widow, Lydia, as a "chaise and riding chair"), an eight-day clock, chocolate and scythe mills, etc. The widow's portion contained half the house mentioned above and two acres adjoining, with other land. An old house still standing on the other corner of Foster street was that of their son, Maj.-Gen. Gideon Foster. Children:

*Major-General Gideon Foster was one of the most active and influential citizens of Danvers, as appears from the history of that town. He was four years town clerk, long an active magistrate of the county, and for nine years a member of the state legislature. He was commander of one of the companies of minute-men from Danvers at the battle of Lexington, was actively engaged at the battle of Bunker Hill, and commanded a company in Col. Mansfield's regiment in the army encamped around Boston, "a brave officer and a good soldier." He rendered good service in the militia of the commonwealth; was made colonel in 1792, brigadier-general in 1796, and in 1801 was elected major-general by the legislature. He died Nov. 1, 1845, aged nearly 97 years, and was buried with military honors, being one of the last surviving officers of the Revolution.

They resided in the parish of South Danvers till about 1735, when they removed to Smithfield, R. I., which had been incorporated in 1730, 1, having been before part of Providence. Here he had bought, Dec. 6, 1733, the homestead of Isaac Richardson, 110 acres, bounded north by the Colony line. His name is in a list of inhabitants in 1748, of District No. 1, which contained the roads west and northwest of the Branch River. Dec. 1, 1759, Samuel, with his son Stephen, sold his Smithfield homestead of 120 acres and bought of Micah Allen, Dec. 4, 1759, a tract of land lying partly in Uxbridge and partly in Sutton, Mass., to which he soon after removed † Rev. Benjamin Foster, D.D., was a graduate of Yale, 1774, and became an eminent minister of the Baptist denomination, having been led, it is said, to embrace their views, from being appointed in college to defend infant baptism by sprinkling. He studied divinity under Dr. Stillman, a well-known Baptist divine of Boston, and became pastor, first, of the Baptist church in Leicester, Mass., removing afterwards to Newport, R. I., and thence in 1788 to the 1st Baptist church in New York city, where he died Aug. 26, 1798, of yellow fever, then prevailing there. He received the degree of D.D. from Brown University in 1792, and at the time of his death had achieved a high reputation for learning and ability. He is said to have been well acquainted with Greek, Hebrew, and Chaldaic, and to have published some theological works. His death, by which he was cut down in the midst of his usefulness and growing reputation, was a heroic one. While others fled at the approach of the pestilence, "he stood undismayed at his post, and fell a martyr to a devotion in his ministrations to the dying and the dead." His wife, Elizabeth Green, who had been the wife of Daniel Hovey, was the daughter of Dr. Thomas Green, a noted physician of Leicester, who, having embraced Baptist views, had acted as preacher of the church before the coming of Dr. Foster. After her death he married Martha, dau. of James Bingham of New York, who died one month before him.

with most of his family. At various times, beginning in 1763, he gave deeds of portions of this farm to his sons, Joseph, Stephen, Ezekiel, Jacob, and Jonathan. I have it on the authority of Mr. Zadock Goldthwaite of Northbridge, now (1896) in his 92d year, that the house he now lives in was the one built by Samuel, who was his great-grandfather, but that this was not his first dwelling in the town, an earlier house, long since torn down, which contained two rooms and had an oven built out of doors, having once stood not far off. The present house has a gambrel roof coming down to the top of the first story, under which are good-sized chambers, one of which was pointed out to me during my visit there as having been the study of Dr. John Crane, first minister of Northbridge, who boarded in the family for a time after his coming, and married one of Samuel's granddaughters. The lower rooms are numerous and commodious, and the whole is in good preservation and most interesting as an old family homestead. The farm, though mostly in Sutton, was remote from the center of that town, and this was the cause of so much inconvenience to Mr. Goldthwaite and his immediate neighbors, that they repeatedly petitioned the General Court that they might be set off to Uxbridge; in this they were for a long time unsuccessful, until in 1780 they were at length joined to Northbridge, which, in the meantime, had been in 1772 formed from Uxbridge. They all attended the Uxbridge church, which Mrs. Goldthwaite* joined by a letter from the church in Salem, Sept. 7, 1760.

Two large, handsome, and well-preserved slabs of slate mark the graves of Samuel and Sarah Goldthwait in the midst of those of their descendants, in the Northbridge burying-ground. They have these inscriptions:

Mr. Samuel Goldthwait died May 8, 1789, in the 87th year of his age.

33. Ezekiel<sup>4</sup> Goldthwaite (Ezekiel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Smithfield, R. I., and Sutton, Mass., born at Salem about 1706, baptized (1st church) July 4, 1707, married (int. pub. Jan. 23, 1730, 1), EUNICE CUTLER of Salem, probably the daughter,* born Nov. 30, 1705, of Dea. Samuel and Sarah (Satle) Cutler. They settled early in Smithfield, R. I., where "Ezekiel Goldthwait of Salem, mariner," bought of Joseph Cook, Dec. 11, 1733, 85 acres lying along the Branch River. This he with his wife Eunice sold five years later, about the same time buying another homestead adjoining that of his brother Samuel. He sold out in Smithfield, June 12, 1741, and appears in Salem again in 1745 and 1746, next probably settling in Sutton. The old Goldthwaite record locates him there, and says that he had no male heirs. The following marriage in Uxbridge town records may be that of Ezekiel's widow, or more probably of their daughter, named for her.

"Thomas Legg and Eunice Gouldthwait married Feb. 4, 1768, by John Harwood Justi Pacies."

* I can find no authority for the statement in the Cutler Genealogy that Eunice was unmarried in 1733; she was Eunice Cutler in her father's will, made Jan. 4, 1730, but that was before her marriage intention was published.

34. Joseph<sup>4</sup> Goldthwaite (Ezekiel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Salem, born there about 1709, married Oct. 30, 1741, MARY BATTERS, bapt. Aug. 5, 1705, daughter of Edmund and Martha (Pickman) Batters* of Salem. He died in 1759 at the age of 50. In his will made Feb. 8, 1759, proved Mch. 19, 1759, he mentions his wife Mary, brother David and wife Sarah, and daughters, Esther and Hannah. He leaves to his servant, Henry Trask, Jr., a certain 100-acre lot in New Salem, in case he faithfully serves out his time. He had had other rights in New Salem which he had before disposed of; three, of fifty acres each, to his brother Samuel of Smithfield, R. I., May 27, 1757, and one of eighty acres to his nephew Joseph of the same town, Oct. 28, 1758. Many deeds in Salem record his purchases and sales of property. Two hundred and twenty-three acres of land in twelve different pieces, with nineteen common rights, are enumerated in his inventory, which amounts to £1,735-8-4. The distribution covers three and a half pages in the register. The widow Mary was still living in 1778. Children, both bapt. June 24, 1744:

a man of much business enterprise, a merchant, and owner of vessels engaged in fishing and other trade.* He first appears in the South Danvers parish tax list in 1733, when he must have been 21 years old, continuing to be found there till 1753, after which there is an interval of four or five years' absence, and he again appears in 1757, continuing till 1779, when "heirs of David Goldthwaite" takes the place of his name, showing that he died in 1778. His absence, 1753 to 1757, is explained in a deed of March 26, 1754, where he calls himself "of Point Sherly in the county of Suffolk, trader or shoreman." It was in 1753 that his cousins, Ezekiel, Esq., of Boston, and Thomas (afterwards of Fort Pownal, but then living in Chelsea) with six others, having purchased, as they say, land at Pullin Point, Chelsea (Point Shirley), for carrying on a fishery, petitioned the town of Boston for the lease of Deer Island, lying near, which was granted them for * Some few of David Goldthwaite's papers, now in possession of his great-great-granddaughter, Mrs. Pulsifer of Salem, serve to give an idea of the nature and extent of his business. Many similar records for other years have been lost.

Oct. 9, 1747, he obtained insurance of £200, old tenor, on the Schooner Adventure, for a voyage to the fishing banks and back to Salem, the insurers being Edw. Swan, Ezekiel Goldthwait (of Boston, his cousin), Capt Wm. Tapley.

Nov. 18, 1749, Joseph Grant, Jr., insured for him for £1,000, old tenor, the Sloop Endeavor, Edward Tucker, master, on a voyage from Maryland to Salem.

Oct. 5, 1749, he insured for £1,200, old tenor, the Schooner Endeavor from Jamaica to Salem, Andrew Tucker, master; insured by John Gooch, Joseph Dowse, Will Boyden, Joshua Winslow. The following entries by him in an almanac of 1755, record fishing voyages in which he was interested, this being one of the years of his residence at Point Shirley:

"S. Hynes sailed 17th the month (March). Robt. Slyme entered into service the 13th do."

"Capt. Punchard in the Pearl Sch., sailed April 17th, 1755, first fare."

"Sam<sup>l</sup> Hanes sailed May the 13th for the Second Fair."

"Francis Haines sailed the 28th of April for the first fare."

David Goldthwait's name appears as one of the partners in the Land Bank, 1740. (See Gen. Reg., April, 1896).

seven years. David was in some way associated with them at that time.

David had many land transactions. In 1734, when 22 years of age, he was the owner of 100 acres in Lambstown (now Hardwick), Mass., which he then sold, and many later deeds record his purchases and sales of property in Danvers. He was active in the affairs of the parish, was for some years parish clerk, and was also assessor, and on the church and seating committees. Children :

(2d church) May 30, 1703, was married Nov. 30, 1732, by Rev. Joshua Gee, to MERCY THOMAS. He married 2d, Oct. 7, 1742 (by Rev. Joseph Sewall, D.D.), SUSANNA WRIGHT, who was widow of James (?) Wright, and daughter of John Nichols of Boston, who owned an estate on Middle, now Hanover st., part of which came into possession of John and Susanna Goldthwaite. John is called "gent," in a deed of Oct. 10, 1765, by which he and his wife sell this property to his brother, Ezekiel Goldthwaite. John was then in his 63d year. Nothing has been found of him later. No children of his appear in the records.

Charity, his wife, sell to the widow, Elizabeth, their right in his estate. Charity was a member of the First Church, admitted Sept. 24, 1727. Benjamin Goldthwaite passed a large part of his life as a soldier. In 1740, he joined the Artillery Company, and in 1745, went out as captain in the Louisburg expedition. His commission, dated Feb. 9, 1744 (5), as captain of the 4th company, 2d Mass. reg't, Hon. Samuel Waldo, Colonel, is found at the British War Office in a registry of commissions of date June 28, 1745. At the battle of Minas, Jan. 31, 1747, Col. Noble, the commanding officer, was killed, and Capt. Goldthwaite succeeded to the command. The terms of capitulation, dated Grand Pre, Feb. 12, 1747, were signed by Coulon le Villier, commandant of the French, and Benjamin Goldthwait, commandant of the English, with thirteen others.* In the campaign of 1755, he was again in service; a list of men, sent 1755-6, "by the Province of Massachusetts Bay, under command of Col. Benjamin Goldthwaite," to reinforce troops at Lake George, is in the Massachusetts archives. In Col. John Winslow's journal† of his Acadian expedition, 1755, Benjamin Goldthwait appears as major in the 1st battalion, acting at the same time as captain of a company. His name is found there also, accompanied by that of his brother, "Ezekiel Goldthwaite, Esq.," as bondsman, in a list of officers to whom money had been advanced for recruiting purposes.

He was major, also, in the second Louisburg expedition, 1758, and probably in other service not found recorded.

His home was, through life, in Boston, though in August, 1730, he had a child baptized in Salem, and himself died in Medford. His residence was on Ship street,‡ as shown by

He was chosen constable in 1735 and 1736, and in 1742 and 1743, clerk of the market. His death in Medford is found in the records of that town as having taken place May 10, 1761. The inventory of the estate of Maj. Benjamin Goldthwait of Medford (called also in the same connection, colonel) was ordered made June 8, 1761, the widow, Charity, being appointed executrix. The estate was declared insolvent, and the proceeds were divided among the creditors. Among the latter was Joseph Collins, who afterwards married the widow, their intention being published Sept. 28, 1762, when both are called of Boston. Children:*

* No records of birth or baptism of Mary, Jacob, Benjamin, as well as Aaron, children of Major Benjamin, as here given, have been found. Mary, being "of Boston" at her marriage, I find this her only probable parentage. The birth of Jacob is taken from his own statement of his age when enlisting as a soldier; that of Benjamin, from the family record of his age at death. That Jacob was a son appears, first, from his being, according to his own testimony, born in Boston, where families of the name were then very few, and the rest of them fully recorded; and second, from the tradition among his descendants that his father was prominent in the French and Indian wars, a statement especially applicable to Major Benjamin. During the century and a quarter and more, however, since the latter's death, his name has become changed to Ebenezer in the present version of the family tradition given by one of his great-grandchildren, a kind of error repeatedly found in cases like this where written records are wanting, and of which I had another example in this same family, when still another of the same present generation made a similar mistake in telling of his more recent ancestor, Captain Jacob. Knowledge of the latter's war service remained, but the name had become entirely changed in his recollection. It is certain that there was no Ebenezer who could have been Jacob's father. As will be seen, Jacob called his youngest son Benjamin.

For Benjamin's place in this family I have the evidence of his name, taken from that of his father, as well as those of his children, repeating names in the Boston family, together with the strong negative evidence that, like Jacob, he can belong nowhere else. That Major Benjamin had other children than those in extant church records, is shown by the evidence in regard to Aaron; such were probably baptized in connection with some church whose records are lacking.

* Jonathan Hender and Martha Burrell were married by Rev. Cotton Mather, June 5, 1701; Philip Lewis and Martha Hender, married by the same, Apr. 15, 1703. The Burrell (in old records Borel) family were descendants of George<sup>1</sup> Burrell, a first settler of Lynn, whose grandson Samuel<sup>3</sup> (George<sup>2</sup>), b. Jan. 10, 1656, settled in Boston. He was a sailmaker, and, by wife, Martha, had a large family, of whom twelve are in the town records, and among baptisms in the 2d church. His will of Oct. 1, 1740, makes provision for his wife and three daughters, Martha Lewis, Deborah Prince, and Katharine Barton; "Grandson, Ezekiel Goldthwait," to be sole executor. The will of Mrs. Martha (Burrell) Lewis, Aug. 14, 1744, proved Mch. 2, 1748-9, gives bequests to son Samuel, to Lydia, widow of son Philip, and to each of Philip's children; the remainder "to my children, Joseph Goldthwait and Martha, his wife, and Ezekiel Goldthwait and Elizabeth, his wife."

Joseph Goldthwaite joined the artillery company in 1730, and was First Sergeant in 1738. In 1745 he joined the Colonial army for the siege of Louisburg, according to records in the British War Office, being commissioned adjutant in the 1st Mass. regiment, Hon. William Pepperell, Esq., colonel, Mch. 12, 1744(5), and captain (brevet) Mch. 20, 1744(5). The following petition was presented by him after his return :

Petition of Joseph Goldthwait, late a captain in his Maj' service at Cape Breton, to Gov. Phips Humbly sheweth that his Lieut. Bazil Dixwell in 1745 proceeded with your petitioner and his company to Louisburg in the service where he was taken sick and died—that your petitioner was at the charge of his sickness and funeral, and for nurses, medicines &c expended £100 old tenor, of his own money. That the said Bazil Dixwell left no estate to reimburse your petitioner save the wages due him from the Province, etc. (asks for reimbursement from wages due, which was granted by the House of Rep. Jan. 19, 1749).

After his return from war he became again a private citizen, and is seldom or never spoken of in the records by his military title, being rather called esquire, or gentleman. He appears as a goldsmith in 1728, and was later a merchant, — licensed as a retailer at his store on Marlboro street (part of Washington street) in 1737, and again in 1742. He was appointed scavenger, 1743; sealer of wood 1757 and 1762, and in 1734 and 1735 was constable. His home, in 1744, was on Fish (now North) street, and in 1767 he is called an innholder on Back (now Salem) street. In 1773 he and his family retired to a farm, bought by him in Weston, Mass., July 20, 1773,* — ten acres, with mansion house and barn, — formerly that of Capt. James Jones. Here he died March 1, 1780, aged 72. His widow died Oct. 26, 1783, aged 75. A double stone in Weston marks their graves. He is called Joseph Goldthwait, Esq., and at the foot of the stone are the lines:

“ The sweet remembrance of the just Shall flourish when they sleep in dust.”

* Capt. Joseph seems to have held the office of sealer of wood, without annual reappointment, from 1762 till his removal to Weston, in 1773, for, in the selectmen's minutes, it appears that, Aug. 11, 1773, Thomas Crafts, Sen., was appointed to that position “in place of Mr. Goldthwait, removed out of town.”

His will, made Feb. 9, 1780, is recorded in East Cambridge, and also in connection with that of his son, Maj. Joseph, at Somerset House, London (folio 518, Collins). In it he gives land, house, and furniture, and £500 to wife Martha; gr. dau. Elizabeth (dau. of son John) £100, and the same to gr. dau. Frances Montrasure Anne Langdon Goldthwait; £1,000, to dau. Sarah Williams; the remainder to children, Philip, Samuel, Benjamin, Martha. This will was proved in London, and administration granted to Samuel Goldthwait, Nov. 9, 1780, an administration of the goods of the deceased as dying intestate, granted the previous month to "Philip Goldthwait, Esq., son of the deceased," being first revoked.

The widow, Mrs. Martha Goldthwait, in her will, made bequests to the children of her son, Benjamin; to gr. dau. Elizabeth Goldthwait, whom she has brought up, and to sons Philip and Samuel, and daughters Sarah Williams and Martha Gowen. Family papers, as well as tradition in several lines of his descendants, show that Joseph Goldthwaite* received, Mch. 25, 1775, for his military service, from King George III, a grant of a tract of land of about 2,000 acres, called the "Goldthwaite Patent," situated in Warren county, N. Y., near Lake George. The title was good, but heavy charges for taxes and quit rents, almost or quite equaling its value, so encumbered it, that, about 1830, the heirs finally allowed it to pass out of their hands. 41. Ezekiel<sup>4</sup> Goldthwaite (John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Boston, born there July 9 (bapt. July 23), 1710, married Nov. 2, 1732, ELIZABETH LEWIS of Boston, sister of the wife of his brother Joseph. She was baptized Sept. 20, 1713, in the 2d church, and was married by Mr. Welsted of the New Brick church. Their children were baptized in the New North church. For the greater part of his life Mr. Goldthwaite was registrar of deeds for the county of Suffolk, and town clerk of Boston. He was first elected to the latter office May 22, 1741, but his first signature as registrar was Nov. 6, 1740. These offices were important ones in his day, and he became, on that and other accounts, a prominent citizen of the town. In 1742 he is spoken of as "invited to wait upon His Excellency the Governor to the Eastward"; also as appointed to wait upon Peter Faneuil, Esq., on business for the town. He is the "Mr. Goldthwait" who, in June, 1769, asked John Adams "to a genteel dinner of fish, bacon, peas, and incomparable Madeira under the shady trees (at Flax Pond) with half a dozen as clever fellows as ever were born."* With seven other men, one of them his brother, Col. Thomas, he was purchaser of a tract of land at Point Shirley before May, 1753, for the purpose of carrying on a fishery there, they at that time obtaining from the town, for a term of years, the lease of Deer Island, lying near, by which to extend their business. He was still owner of land at Point Shirley at his death, about thirty years later. He accumulated a handsome fortune for those days, appraised, at his death, at about £4,000, which does not probably equal, however, what it had been before the time of the Revolution, when Mr. Goldthwaite, like others, must have experienced losses. That he was a man of literary tastes appears from his being found in the list of subscribers (begun 1728) for Prince's Chronology, a list considered by the best authorities as showing who were the most cultured men of that day in the town. While the ordinary subscription was for a single copy, Mr. Goldthwaite's was for six. His inventory contains a large number of books, 136 magazines, and 250 pamphlets. Some of its other items are a gold watch, 10 guineas; chaise, £11; Mansion House,*

* The following quotation from an article in the Boston Evening Transcript, written at the time this house was taken down, gives some description of it. It is entitled "DEMOLITION OF AN ANCIENT MANSION":

"The further widening of Hanover street will cause the removal of another of the ancient landmarks of our city — the Blackstone House — situated between Blackstone and Cross streets. The Philistines have already laid violent hands upon the venerable structure, and in a few days it will be numbered with the things that were. There is no particular interest associated with this building save its antiquity and its former grandeur. From the records it appears to have been built about the year 1714 by Gilbert Bant, who is described in the deeds as "mariner and merchant" of Boston. . . . The house was an elegant and spacious edifice for those days, built of brick and three stories high, and was elaborately ornamented in front with pilasters, balconies, etc., and in the interior was finished in the highest style of elegance and magnificence, and was undoubtedly a first-class mansion. Mr. Bant died in 1732. In his will this estate was bequeathed to his son, William Bant, who was also a merchant. He was a bachelor who was fond of high life and extravagant living, in which he freely indulged, maintaining a splendid establishment of horses and carriages and a large retinue of servants. He died in 1754. After his death the estate passed into the hands of his friend and executor, Ezekiel Goldthwaite, Esq.

£1,200; house next south of Mansion House, £300; house in State street, £700; house on Ann street, £800. There were 435 ounces of plate, valued at £152 5s.

Another residence of Mr. Goldthwaite is mentioned in the History of Roxbury (p. 392) as follows: "On the south side of Parker Hill, not far from the corner of Parker and Heath streets, was the mansion and estate of six acres belonging to Ezekiel Goldthwait." This was probably a summer home. The diary of John Rowe (Mass. Hist. Soc. Proc., 1895, p. 33) mentions his dining there Aug., 1766. Of Ezekiel Goldthwaite as a loyalist, Sabine says that, though an Addresser of Hutchinson in 1774, and a protester against the Whigs the same year, "he was one of the 58 Boston memorialists who, in 1760, arrayed themselves against the Crown officers and set the ball of the Revolution in motion." During the siege of Boston, 1775-6, Mr. Goldthwaite and his family are said to have resided in Weston, where his brother Joseph, who had married the sister of his wife, then lived. His last signature as registrar is said to have been written Jan. 17, 1776. As he was blind at the time of his death, seven years later, it is probable that his sight had already at this time failed, unfitting him for the further duties of his office. Fine life-size portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Goldthwaite, painted by Copley in 1771, and considered as among the best productions of that artist, are in possession of their descendants in Boston. Mr. Goldthwaite died Dec. 4, 1782, in his 73d year. His widow

. . . He had, for several years previous to the death of Mr. Bant, occupied the mansion and maintained the same style of luxurious living; he was considered to be a man of wealth, and for many years his family held high rank among the most aristocratic and fashionable circles of the town. . . . The estate measured upwards of one hundred feet on Hanover street, and included the land and brick building on the north side. . . . Part of this building was originally the stable attached to the Bant or Goldthwait mansion, and was used as such and for the accommodation of the numerous servants belonging to the establishment; there was also a large garden in the rear of the Mansion House, extending more than one hundred and fifty feet from Hanover street, which was always kept in a high state of cultivation."

died Feb. 6, 1794, aged 80. They were buried, without doubt, in the family tomb at Copps Hill which now stands in the name of their son-in-law, Mr. Williams. Of their thirteen children five daughters only lived to grow up, and descendants of but three of these are known to be now living.

Mr. Goldthwaite's name is found among subscribers for the chimes of Christ's church. He was made executor of the wills of some of the prominent Boston citizens of his day, and appears many times in the land records as charged with the settlement of valuable estates. Mrs. Lydia (Henchman) Hancock, daughter of Daniel Henchman and wife of Thomas Hancock, whose nephew and heir was John Hancock, President of the Continental Congress, made Mr. Goldthwaite executor of her will and left him a legacy of £20. She was probably a relative. Children :

* From a search of various records I have collected the following as to Katharine Barnes' family, about whom nothing has been heretofore known. She was daughter of John Barnes, a merchant of Boston, and Elizabeth Perrie, his wife, both born probably in England, where Mrs. Barnes had a brother, Jonathan Perrie, a merchant in London, and sisters, Alice, wife of Joseph Hayden, and Mary, wife of John Wood, all of Wapping, Middlesex. John Barnes was in business partnership in Boston with John Arbuthnot. He was a warden of King's Chapel 1724, 1728, often vestryman 1715 to 1729, and is the first mentioned of the trustees concerned in the purchase of land for Christ Church, and afterwards of those who in 1730 bought of Leonard Vassal, Esq., his estate on Summer St., for the building of Trinity Church. His home in Boston was on the north side of Beacon St., not far east of the site of the present State House. He purchased this land, 137 ft. on Beacon St., by about 500 ft. deep, and at that time part of a pasture, in 1721, and the same year erected on it a wooden mansion. The estate passed from his family in 1746, and a few years after became the property of Governor James Bowdoin, who built on it the brick mansion which was, in his day, one of the best-known centers of hospitality for Boston aristocracy. John Barnes died early in 1739 at Clement's Bay, St. Mary's Co., Maryland, where he had then been for a time residing. His wife died in Dec., 1742, in Boston. She and her children received bequests about 1735 from Mrs. Elizabeth Nesbitt, widow, "of the Island of Antegoa," consisting in part of several articles of plate "with the Perries coat of arms," given as an heirloom. The children of John Barnes were :

- 1 William, of Clements Bay, Md.; probably son by a former wife.
- 2 John, bapt. Dec. 25, 1714; d. y.
- 3 Katharine, b. 1715; m. Col. Thomas Goldthwaite.
- 4 Edward, bapt. June 1, 1720; seems to have died between 1735 and 1742.
- 5 John, bapt. Apr. 18, 1722; m. July 19, 1741, Elizabeth Vose (?) lived for a time in Boston, where he had children baptized.
- 6 Henry, bapt. Nov. 20, 1723, a merchant in Marlboro, Mass., and later a loyalist refugee, dying in England. His wife's name was Christian; they had a dau. Christian, bapt. Oct. 20, 1751, who died Oct. 22, ae. 2 days.
7. Elizabeth, above 14 in Nov., 1743; she married Nathaniel Coffin, and had several children, among whom were the distinguished loyalists, Gen. John Coffin and Sir Isaac Coffin, admiral in the British Navy. One of their sons, bapt. Feb. 2, 1762, was named Jonathan Perry Coffin.

himself Jan. 17, 1746 (one month before his second marriage) when he bought the garden of Dr. William Douglas on Atkinson St. He sold this a year later, and in 1750 had removed to Chelsea, where he with his brother Ezekiel and six others purchased a tract of land at Point Shirley for carrying on a fishery, to extend which they in May, 1753, obtained from the town for a term of years the lease of the neighboring Deer Island. Boston records show that he was still holding the lease in 1761 and 1762, in which years he rebuilt the house on the island, and was directed to build there a seawall. He became an influential citizen of Chelsea, acting as selectman, moderator of town meetings, and from May, 1757, till his removal from the town, seven years in succession, was its deputy to the House of Representatives, where he was active in introducing important legislation. As appears from the General Court records (1759-61, p. 724) he "made a table to the Province Laws," and later was one of a committee to examine and report what laws of the Province had expired, or were near expiring. In 1763 he was appointed commissioner to take charge of the repairs of the Castle (William, in Boston Harbor). The period of his residence in Chelsea was that of several succeeding campaigns of the French and Indian War, during which, early in 1759, he is on record (Vol. 97, p. 106, Mass. Archives) as captain of an independent company (part of the roll of which is given), "to be put under the immediate command of Jeffry Amherst, Esq., General and Commander-in-chief of his Majesty's forces in North America, for the invasion of Canada." This company was probably afterwards united with some other, since Thomas Goldthwaite's continuance on the roll of deputies during 1759 shows him to have remained at home. The succeeding year, in accordance with an order of the Court, June 20, 1760, that money for paying the soldiers should be issued by the Lieut.-Governor (Hutchinson) and "put into the hands of the colonel of each regiment, or such other person as to His Honour may seem meet," Thomas

Goldthwaite was proposed by the Lieut.-Gov. for the business, and he was appointed by the Council June 27, 1760, "to supply the forces at the Westward," £2,000 being advanced to him at that time for this purpose. He went to Crown Point on this business, and was afterwards, during three years or more, engaged in the work of settling the soldiers' claims. As appears from his memorials to the Court, he had accounts with more than 4,000 soldiers, and had charge, not only of their wages, but of paying the expenses of their transportation. No title is mentioned in his appointment by the Council; he speaks of himself as paymaster, and later, when in 1762 and 1763 he was assisting Gov. Bernard in the care of the Provincial troops, as "Secretary at War."*

In 1763, Thomas Goldthwaite was appointed to the command of Fort Pownal, Me., where, early in 1764, he succeeded Brig.-Gen. Preble, removing his family thither from Chelsea. This was an important frontier post, commanding the entrance to the Penobscot River, and offered the advantages, also, of a rich trade with the Indians, then numerous in those parts. With the exception of the year 1770, when he was superseded, but the next year restored by Governor Hutchinson, this position was held by Col. Goldthwaite during the eleven years from his appointment to the outbreak of the Revolutionary War. Not long after succeeding to this command, in company with Francis Bernard, he purchased of Gen. Preble a large tract of land, 2,700 acres, in the neighborhood of the Fort, on which improvements were then begun for the purpose of attracting settlers. He was the first resident of that region to receive commission as a Justice of his Majesty's Court of Common Pleas, and, as such, was often called to solemnize marriages. July 27, 1769, he was made colonel of the 2d Lincoln County regiment. Nearly the whole period of Thomas Goldthwaite's command of Fort Pownal was that of the growing discontent of the colonists with their treatment by the British government, culminating, in 1774, in preparations throughout the country for war. As one of the first steps in that direction, each side endeavored to get control of all the arms and ammunition possible, and to take into its possession, or render defenseless, such posts as could be held by the enemy. With such an object in view, in April, 1775, vessels of the British fleet, under the command of Capt. Mowatt, who afterwards burned Portland, but acting under orders from General Gage, then commander-in-chief of the British forces in North America and Governor of Massachusetts, anchored before Fort Pownal, and, a letter containing the governor's orders to that effect having been delivered to Col. Goldthwaite, carried away the cannon belonging to the Fort. The attitude taken by its commander in allowing the Fort to be thus disarmed by the British was never forgiven by the patriots, and he lay ever after under suspicion as a loyalist. His own explanation of his conduct on that occasion is in existence, and may be allowed to speak for him. It should be added in support of what he says regarding the impossibility of resisting the governor's order, that the garrison then numbered but fifteen, all told, whom the needs of the colony for extending and strengthening its defenses elsewhere had left scantily supplied with arms and ammunition, while the opposing force was well armed and equipped to enforce its demands. This explanation is found in a letter* written by Col. Goldthwaite, for a purpose there appearing, to the selectmen of St. George's, a town on the Maine coast just west of the entrance to Penobscot Bay, and some forty or fifty miles southwest of Fort Pownal.

FORT POWNAL, May 8, 1775.

To the Selectmen of St. George's.

GENT'N :

On the 27th of last month about 20 armed men arrived here from St. George's, who came in the name and as a committee from the people of St. George's and others, who they said had assembled there to the amount of 250; and this party in their name demanded of me the reasons of my delivering the cannon &c belonging to this Fort to the King's forces. I told them that I tho't their request reasonable and that I would give them all the satisfaction they desired in this matter and immediately left them. I went into the Fort and got the Governor's letter to me and it was read to them. I then informed them that this was the King's fort and built at his expense; that the Governor was commander-in-chief of it, that I could not refuse obeying his orders, that I was ready to make oath that I had no intimation of this matter until Mr. Graves who commanded this expedition shewed me the Governor's order within ten minutes after his vessels came to anchor here; and that in case it had been in my power to have resisted this order I should not have tho't it expedient to have done it, as the inevitable consequence of such resistance would have been the Total Ruin of the River, seeing that a small naval force at the mouth of it could entirely stop the provision vessels and coasters, and must have soon broken up the River. Upon my representing these facts and reasoning in this manner Capt. Gragg and his party appeared to be satisfied. He then told me that they had intelligence that the Canadians and Indians were coming down upon us; that the armed vessels that went from here had killed the people's cattle at Townsend and they expected to meet the same fate at St. George's and that among all the people assembled there they hadn't ten charges of ammunition and were very scant of arms, and that one part of their orders was to desire and demand of me a part of ours. I informed them of the true condition of the Fort and the scarcity of ammunition upon this river; still they persisted in their request. I sometime after told the serjant he must see what there was and let them have what could be spared upon such an emergency; and he accordingly let them have 7 muskets, 10 lbs of Powder, and 24 lbs of ball, for which Messrs. Samuel Gragg, Rob. McIntyre and Benj. Burton gave receipt as a committee from St. George's.

Now Gent'n as it appears that this alarm was premature and that these people came as they declared with authority from your town, I hope you'll interfere in it and see that the arms and ammunition are returned to the Fort and especially too as it is now declared and known to be true that this river is barer of arms and ammunition than you are at St. George's. I shall enclose a copy of the Governor's letter to me for your satisfaction. I beg the favor of you to communicate this letter together with the votes passed upon this river (which will be delivered you by a committee sent on purpose) to your town that they may have opportunity to act in it as they judge expedient.

I am &c

Judge Williamson of Belfast sends me word that the earth-works of Fort Pownal are still discernible, and that its site is now the property of the U. S. government, and is under the control of the Lighthouse Board, which, at his suggestion, has, within a few years, built a fence around it, for the purpose of preserving its historical memories and associations.

While living in Boston, Col. Goldthwaite was one of the subscribers to "Prince's Chronology," the list of whom is considered to include Boston's most intelligent citizens at that day. Brief memoirs of some of these subscribers have been printed in various numbers of the New England Historical and Genealogical Register.

Little is known of Col. Goldthwaite between the surrender of Fort Pownal, in the spring of 1775, and his arrival in England early in 1780. When the fort was burnt, on the night of July 20, 1775, by Col. Cargill of the Eastern Lincoln Co. Regiment, the latter, in his report, mentions his previously assisting Col. Goldthwaite to carry his effects into the chapel; and when, October 23d of the same year, he, with the other officers and soldiers of the garrison, petitions the General Court for payment for services rendered, before being disbanded, he was presumably in the same vicinity. The following, from the New London Gazette, dated Boston, July 8, 1779, shows him as then still in that region, rendering it extremely probable that he had not left it :

"By three persons who arrived at Newburyport yesterday sennight from Penobscot and that run from the Le Blanc Frigate we are informed of the enemy's force there. The Le Blanc frigate of 32 guns full manned A. Barclay Commodore. Those men left the above named frigate the 16th ult. The land forces were all landed, no artillery landed then, nor any fortifications erected. The talk was that they should begin the next day. Col. Goldthwait and Dr.

Calfe were on board the frigate before they came to anchor ; were much caressed by the Commodore and General ; were generally on board with them."*

The authority for the time of Col. Goldthwaite's arrival in England is Gov. Hutchinson's diary. He says: "T. Goldthwait arrived at Portsmouth Feb. 15, 1780." In an entry of the previous December 4th, the Governor mentions a call from "young Goldthwait, son of T. Goldthwait, now at New York." The wife of Col. Goldthwaite had a cousin in England, the wife of "Rev. Humphrey Primatt, Doctor of Divinity, of Higham, co. of Suffolk," in 1774, but, in 1775, of Kingston-on-Thames, Surrey, where he died, early, probably, in 1777. Mrs. Primatt was, before marriage, Sarah, daughter of Mr. John Wood, her relationship to Mrs. Goldthwaite being "on the part of her late mother," as shown by the will † of Dr. Primatt, who, in case of his wife's death before him, leaves £10,000 to her three cousins, "Henry Barnes, Esq., of Boston in New England, Catherine Goldthwait, wife of Thomas Goldthwait, Esq., Governor of Penobscot in America, and Elizabeth Coffin, wife of Nathaniel Coffin," and this, for the reason, as he intimates, that the property had come to him by his wife. After the death of her husband in 1777, Mrs. Primatt, having no children, adopted, either wholly or partially, Jane, the youngest daughter of her cousin, Mrs. Goldthwaite, and she went to England about that time, being then twenty-two years of age. In what succession the other members of her family may have followed is not fully known. The brother, Thomas, went, in 1779; the father, accompanied, probably, by the mother and daughter, Elizabeth, in 1780; while Henry, the youngest, was still in America some years later.

† This will, which I found at Somerset House, London, not only furnishes reliable authority for family names and relationships, but shows the correct version of a number of traditions among one branch of Col. Goldthwaite's descendants, which in the course of a hundred years had become curiously at variance with truth. For further explanation of relationships, see note on the family of Mrs. Katherine (Barnes) Goldthwaite.

It must have been quite soon after his arrival that Colonel Goldthwaite settled at Walthamstow, Essex, a few miles north of London. Samuel Curwen, another American refugee, speaks in his journal of dining with him there July 29, 1782. His son Thomas had married the widow, Mrs. Primatt, before alluded to, in the summer of 1780, and lived also in the town. The houses of both father and son there are well identified. That of the former, which I saw in 1890, is still in excellent preservation, and is not, probably, greatly changed since the time of the Colonel's residence. It is of stone or brick, covered with stucco, the main portion three stories high, with four windows in front in each of the two upper stories, and an entrance with Ionic pillars on the ground floor, this central part being flanked by wings of two stories on either side. The grounds are ample, handsomely laid out, with well-kept walks, and planted with trees and shrubbery, the whole surrounded by a high wall, with gates, shutting the house completely from view to outsiders.

In Walthamstow lived also the sea-captain with whom the colonel crossed the Atlantic on his voyage to England. I saw there the house in which he lived, where, they say, the colonel was very fond of going to smoke and talk with the captain. His name was Stephenson, and he lies buried in Walthamstow churchyard, with this inscription: "George Stephenson, Master Mariner, Died July 1813, aged 64." In his family is a fine water-color painting of his ship, "The Cornwallis," which, on this particular voyage, is said to have encountered storms of uncommon severity.

By far the most interesting discovery at that time in Walthamstow, however, was that of descendants of Colonel Goldthwaite bearing the family name, a grandson and great-grandson of Lieut. Henry Goldthwaite, the youngest son of the colonel, who, with their families, are, so far as known, the only representatives, at least in name, of that branch of the family in England. Though well acquainted with their own descent from Col. Goldthwaite, they had lost all knowledge of their more remote kindred in America, as these had equally done of them, and it has been one of the pleasantest results of these researches to be able thus to bring to each other's acquaintance these not very distantly related descendants of a common ancestor. It was through these two descendants, Mr. Charles Henry Goldthwaite, and his son, Mr. Oliver C. Goldthwaite, that I came to see and know such relics and traditions of his family as remained in the town.

After a life of nearly twenty years passed in retirement in England, Col. Goldthwaite* died, it is said, rather suddenly, Aug. 31, 1799, in his 82d year. Mrs. Catharine, his wife, had died about two and a half years before, Dec. 16, 1796, aged 81. They lie buried in Walthamstow churchyard with their daughters, Jane and Elizabeth, and Mr. Richard Bright, their son-in-law, husband of Elizabeth. Their tombstone bears the following inscriptions :

* A portrait of Col. Goldthwaite, taken in earlier life, and painted by Copley, is in possession of Dr. Bowen of Boston, a descendant of his brother Ezekiel. Among his effects in England there is known to have been a later portrait, as well as other pictures of value, some of them by Canaletto and other Italian artists, but all have been long ago dispersed and lost sight of, with the exception of the portrait of the daughter Jane, now owned by Mr. Oliver C. Goldthwaite.

Children (by 1st wife):

- 144 THOMAS<sup>5</sup>, b. Apr. 27, 1743; d. Mch. 25, 1749, aged 5 y. 11 m.
- 145 + CATHARINE, b. Jan. 5, 1744; m. Dr. Sylvester Gardner and William Powell.
- 146 + ESTHER, b. Jan. 11, 1745; m. Capt. Timothy Rogers and Capt. Peter Dolliver.

By 2d wife :

- 147 JOHN, b. July 9, 1748; d. Sept. 15, 1748, ae. 2 mo. 6 d.
- 148 + THOMAS, b. June 4, 1750; m. Mrs. Sarah Primatt and Anne Wilson.
- 149 ELIZABETH, b. Aug. 23, 1751; d. Feb. 12, 1840; m. Richard Bright, Esq., of Walthamstow, Eng., where she and her husband are buried; no children. Their house is still to be seen in Walthamstow.
- 150 + MARY, b. March 1, 1753; m. Francis Archibald, Jr.
- 151 JANE, bapt. (Trinity Church, Boston), Feb. 16, 1755; d. unm., at Walthamstow, England, Feb. 13, 1804, aged 49. A very beautiful portrait of her, taken in young womanhood, as is thought, by Copley, is in possession of her great-great nephew, Oliver C. Goldthwaite, Esq., of London. Letters still in existence, written by herself and by her sisters, testify to the strength and beauty of her character.
- 152 + HENRY, b. Mch. 29, 1759; m. Sarah Winch.

48. Hannah<sup>4</sup> Goldthwaite (John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in Boston, and baptized (2d church) Dec. 27, 1719, married Apr. 22, 1752, RICHARD FURBUR. He was a blacksmith in Boston and owned an estate near that of his father-in-law, John Goldthwaite, at the North End, which his widow, in 1754, sold to her brother, Ezekiel. Richard Furbur was a soldier in the first Louisburg expedition, in Capt. Fellows' company. He died early in 1753. His will, made Jan. 5, 1753, proved Feb. 23, 1753, mentions wife, Hannah, and children, William, Elizabeth, and Abigail, and directs that his son be apprenticed to a good trade. His inventory amounted to £198 7s. 2½d., containing a "Negro boy, Prince, £46 13. 4." Children (some, if not all, probably by a former wife):

- 153 WILLIAM<sup>5</sup>.
- 154 ELIZABETH.
- 155 ABIGAIL.

49. Mary<sup>4</sup> Goldthwaite (John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in Boston, where she was baptized Apr. 12, 1724, married Sept. 22, 1763, REV. JAMES BRIDGHAM of Brimfield, Mass., as 2d wife. Mr. Bridgham was born in Boston Mch. 21, 1707, graduated at Harvard 1726, was called to be pastor of the Brimfield church Jan. 29, 1736, and died there Sept. 19, 1776, aged 69, having been minister of the town 40 years. He is spoken of in the History of Brimfield, from which these facts are taken, as remembered with affectionate esteem. By his first wife, Martha, he had James, born June 20, 1741, and seven others, several of whom did not live to maturity. The son James was probably James Bridgham, merchant of Boston, who married Martha, daughter of Ezekiel Goldthwaite.

By Mary Goldthwaite, Mr. Bridgham had a son :

- 156 THOMAS<sup>5</sup>, b. Sept. 14, 1764.

51. Nathaniel<sup>4</sup> Goldthwaite (Nathaniel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>) of South Danvers, Mass., born there about 1707, married Feb. 18, 1736, REBECCA GOLDTHWAITE, his cousin, born in 1715, daughter of Samuel<sup>3</sup> and Mary (Thomas) Goldthwaite. After her death he married (intention published May 27, 1749) MRS. SARAH (CAVENDISH) GIRDLER of Marblehead. She was the widow of Richard Girdler, of an old Marblehead family, most of whom were mariners. Mr. Girdler died in 1746, his inventory being taken Dec. 8th of that year. By him she had had six children,* four of whom were living when she married Mr. Goldthwaite, whose children also came to number six in all. The tradition of there having been this equal number in the two families was handed down, though without full particulars, to the present day, and research now proves it correct. Nathaniel's death is found in the Salem Gazette of Dec. 9, 1794: "Died in Danvers, Mr. Nathaniel Goldthwait, aged 87." That of his widow is in the Gazette of Feb. 7, 1806: "Died at Danvers, Widow Sarah Goldthwait, aged 89." Nathaniel, the father, was baptized July 4, 1762, at South Danvers, then probably joining the church. The following Sept. 12th were baptized his children, Nathaniel, Ebenezer, George, and the youngest, Rebecca, Apr. 24, 1763. Children, by first wife:

158 + ELIZABETH, b. Apr. 19, 1743; m. Nathan Upton.

By 2d wife:

159 + NATHANIEL, b. July 9, 1752; m. Abihail Sprague Eustis.

- 1 Sarah, b. about 1733; m. Capt. Silas Smith, who died Nov. 5, 1806, æ. 76 (Gr. st., So. Danvers). He was successfully engaged in privateering early in the Revolution, but was afterwards taken by the British, and, with four of his sons, confined in Mill prison, England. One of these sons was Capt. Richard Smith (m. Sarah Goldthwaite); another was Capt. George Girdler Smith, master mariner, who served in the Rev. army during most of the war, and d. in Salem Nov. 20, 1810. A son of his was George Girdler Smith, Esq., of Boston, an artist and engraver, a sketch of whose life is given in Vol. 33, p. 256, N. E. Hist. and Gen. Reg.
- 2 Mary, b. 1735; m. (int. pub. Feb. 21, 1756) Ebenezer Upton of Reading; d. Dec. 5, 1827, æ. 92.
- 3 George, d. y.
- 4 George; was above 14, Oct. 10, 1757, when Andrew Tucker of Marblehead was appointed his guardian; died at sea, when young.

163 MARY<sup>5</sup>, bapt. Oct. 24, 1742.

164 SARAH, bapt. Mch. 6, 1742, 3.

165 ELIZABETH, bapt. Sept. 1, 1745.

166 JOHN, bapt. Mch. 11, 1749, 50.

167 HANNAH, bapt. Mch. 20, 1753.

55. Ebenezer<sup>4</sup> Goldthwaite (Nathaniel<sup>3</sup>, Sam'l<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of South Danvers, born there, probably in 1717,† married Jan. 16, 1751, SARAH NEWMAN of Lynn. He was at least 34 years of age when married, and lived only about two years after, dying probably in 1753, since his "estate" takes the place of his name in the tax-list of 1754. Administration on the estate of Ebenezer Goldthwait, late of Danvers, was granted Nov. 12, 1753, to Sarah, his widow. His inventory amounted to £52 9s. 6d. Children:

* Ebenezer is erroneously called Eli, p. 1327, Vol. IV, Force's Archives, evidently from a mistaken reading of Eb., a common abbreviation of the name.

† The date of Ebenezer's birth is assumed from the time he first appears in the parish tax-list, 1738, when he was probably 21 years old.

Thomas<sup>5</sup> Goldthwaite (Thomas<sup>4</sup>, Sam'l<sup>3</sup>, Sam'l<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of South Danvers and Springfield, Mass., born in 1738, at Petersham, Mass., married, July 15, 1759, LUCY FLINT* of Danvers. They had two children baptized in So. Danvers, and removed, in 1762, to Springfield, where Thomas Goldthwait and Lucy, his wife, "recommended to us by the 2d Church in Danvers," were received to the First Church, Aug. 29, 1762. Another child, Thomas, was born to Thomas and Lucy in Springfield early in 1764, not long after which the mother died. Thomas married 2d, Sept. 5, 1765, LOIS STEBBINS, born Feb. 3, 1731-2, daughter of John and Sarah (Warriner) Stebbins† of Springfield; she had a twin brother, Asaph Stebbins, who settled in South Hadley.

* Lucy Flint was, without doubt, the daughter, bapt. in Middleton, Mass., 1740, of Samuel and Mary Flint of that town. Eunice Flint, sister of Samuel and aunt of Lucy, had married, as his 1st wife, the father of Thomas Goldthwaite, so that, if the latter was a child of this marriage, Thomas and Lucy would be own cousins. Samuel Flint, father of Lucy, was born in Salem, Jan. 1, 1694-5, son of Joseph<sup>2</sup>, (Thomas<sup>1</sup>), and Abigail (Howard) Flint. Lucy had older brothers and sisters, baptized the same date, Elizabeth, Eunice, Jonathan, also Timothy, bapt. 1741. These were probably all by a 2d marriage of Samuel, since other children of his had been old enough to join the church in 1737 and 1740. A Samuel Flint, then of Lynn, and Elizabeth Stearns of that town had their mar. int. published Feb. 14, 1716-17.

I am indebted to Mrs. M. J. Averill of Middleton for valuable help in finding the baptism of Lucy Flint.

† ROWLAND<sup>1</sup> STEBBINS was the ancestor of the Springfield family of that name. He came first to Roxbury, removed thence to Springfield, and afterwards went to Northampton, where he died, Dec. 14, 1671. Sarah, his wife, died Oct. 4, 1649. They had sons, Thomas, who settled in Springfield, and John, who removed to Northampton, where he died, Mch. 7, 1678. The son,

Mrs. Lois Goldthwaite was the mother of four children, and died Dec. 17, 1775, "aged above 40" (Rec. of 1st Church, Springfield), her youngest child, Lucy, being then only a year and a half old. She and her older brother, Elijah, seem to have been taken to their mother's relatives in South Hadley, homes for the other boys being found elsewhere, for the father, thus for the second time bereaved of a wife, appears

LIEUT. THOMAS<sup>2</sup> STEBBINS of Springfield, married, Nov., 1645, Hannah Wright, who died Oct. 16, 1660, and he married, Dec. 14, 1676, Abigail Mun. He died Sept. 5, 1683. His son,

EDWARD<sup>3</sup> STEBBINS of Springfield, born Apr. 14, 1656, married, Apr., 1679, Sarah Graves, b. in Wethersfield abt. 1659, dau. of John Graves and Mary, his wife, dau. of Lieut. Samuel and Elizabeth Smith, all of Hadley. She died June 12, 1700, and he married, Oct. 18, 1701, Mrs. Mary (Cooper) Colton, widow of Isaac Colton. He died Oct. 31, 1712. His widow died at her son's, George Colton's, in Longmeadow, Aug. 29, 1742 (Springfield Rec.), aged 91. The Longmeadow record says: "Edward Stebbins, early in the spring of 1676, was taken by the Indians at Longmeadow, while he was with Samuel Bliss, his brother-in-law, was carried to the falls above Deerfield, and, with a youth named Gilbert, made his escape from the Indians, and gave information of their place of residence, whereupon the English went and destroyed three hundred or more of them." A tradition of a similar experience of one of their ancestors, still preserved among the descendants of Mrs. Lois (Stebbins) Goldthwaite in Granby, Mass., may have had its origin here, though it has come to be believed to relate to one of the Goldthwaite family. The story, as given by my informant, tells how the Indians were so charmed by the boy's singing that they spared his life. "When asked what direction he came from, he would point in an opposite direction to deceive them. At last he got away and travelled nights, hiding in the daytime. One day he crawled into a hollow log, and the Indians came and sat on the log, and planned what they would do with him if they caught him, but he got safely away." The writer adds, "I have often heard my mother tell this story as she had it from her father." One of the sons of Edward and Sarah (Graves) Stebbins was

JOHN<sup>4</sup> STEBBINS of Springfield, called in the records "John Stebbins 2d." He was born Jan. 10, 1692, and married, Dec. 22, 1715, Sarah Warriner. He died, probably, early in 1743. Administration of his estate was granted Mch. 28, 1743, to Thomas Stebbins and James Warriner, "brethren of said deceased, Sarah and Lydia Stebbins, the children of the deceased that were of age, declining the office." The inventory of "Mr. John Stebbins ye Second, late of Springfield," taken Apr. 4, 1743, amounted to £664 15s. 9d. It included a homestead on the west side of the (Main) street, with buildings, valued at £225, to have found no one to assist him in keeping his young family together. Having thus made the best arrangements possible under the circumstances for his children, Thomas Goldthwaite, in little more than a year after his wife's death, enlisted in the Revolutionary army, continuing in it till the close of the war. This was not his first service as a soldier, for and considerable other land; a number of devotional books, farm implements, two horses, yoke of oxen, cows, bull, etc. The estate was distributed among the seven children, John, the eldest son, to have a double share, each of the others £73 1s. 4d. They were:

Lydia, b. ——— —; m. Moses Merrick and Samuel Brooks.

Amy, b. Aug. 6, 1724; m. Lieut. Jacob White, and d. Oct. 7, 1760, in 37th year. He d. Jan. 3, 1762. They had Amy (m. Dr. Chauncey Brewer, graduate of Yale, 1762, Deacon 1st Ch., Springfield, and Deputy to Mass. Prov. Congress), Jacob, Luther, Paul, etc.

John, b. ——— —; cordwainer.

Edward, b. ——— —; cordwainer.

Asaph, b. Feb. 3, 1731-2, husbandman, South Hadley, part now Granby.

He served in the French War, 1755, from Granby. His name heads a petition to the General Court regarding a site for the South Hadley meeting-house, 1760-61.

Lois, b. Feb. 3, 1731-2; m. Thomas Goldthwaite.

The ancestry of Sarah Warriner, wife of John Stebbins, was as follows: WILLIAM<sup>1</sup> WARRINER of Springfield, made freeman May 2, 1638, married, July 31, 1639, Joanna Searl. She d. Feb. 7, 1661, and he m. 2d, Oct. 2, 1661, Elizabeth, widow of Luke Hitchcock of Wethersfield. He died June 2, 1676. Children:

2 Hannah, b. Aug. 17, 1643; m. Thomas Noble.

3 Joseph, b. Feb. 6, 1645; m. Mary Montague; rem. to Hadley.

JAMES<sup>2</sup> WARRINER of Springfield, born Jan. 21, 1641; m. Mch. 31, 1664, Elizabeth Baldwin, dau. of Joseph Baldwin of Milford. She d. JAMES<sup>3</sup> WARRINER, Jr., b. July 19, 1668; m. Jan. 20, 1691, Sarah, dau. of Rowland Thomas and Sarah Chapin, his wife. He died in his 68th year, in March, 1736 (Gr. St. in Springfield). His daughter, Sarah, b. Apr. 1, 1694, m. John Stebbins, as above.

when seventeen years old, he had joined the troops enlisted for the French and Indian war, his name being on the roll of men in Col. Ichabod Plaisted's Essex County regiment reported as fit for service, under date, Marblehead, Oct. 2, 1755. He served in the campaign of the next year, from March 29th to December 1st, and was in Capt. Andrew Fuller's Company of the same regiment in the expedition against Crown Point, on a roll dated Fort Edward, July 26, 1756, his cousin, Jonathan Goldthwaite, with him. (See Vol. 94, p. 359, Mass. Arch.) It is from this roll that we learn his birthplace, "Volinstown" or Petersham, Mass. (see account of his father). He enlisted in the Revolutionary army at Springfield, Jan. 1, 1777, in Capt. Luke Day's Co., Col. Ichabod Alden's regiment, and after three years was transferred to Capt. McFarland's Invalid Corps at Boston, in which he continued in service. His autograph signature is found on a pay abstract of that Corps, dated July 16, 1781 (Vol. 71, p. 123, Mass. Arch.). Nothing is known of him later; it is supposed, however, that he did not long survive the close of the war.

The business of Thomas was that of a potter, and he learned it of Joseph Southwick, to whom he was apprenticed. His brother William was of the same calling, as were very many others, not only in this family, but generally in the town of South Danvers.* After his removal to Springfield, he bought land there, Jan. 5, 1763, on the west side of the "Town Street," on which, when sold, there were potters' works standing. His name appears several times in the land records of Springfield, when he and his wife Lois make sale of property belonging to the latter.

* An elderly lady in Peabody told me, in 1895, that she had been told by her father, also a potter, that he remembered the time when he could count 33 potters (meaning potters' works) in the town. The pottery made there was called Danvers ware or "Danvers China," and was a common article of export. The occupation was one which could not be carried on in winter, and at that season many of the potters had some other kind of business. At the present time there is but one pottery in the town.

174 LUCY, b. July 19, 1774 ; m. (int. pub. Nov. 10, 1801) Jeremiah Chapin Warner, born Sept. 17, 1767, son of Eleazer and Mary (Chapin) Warner of Granby, of a family originally from Ipswich, Mass. They had one dau., Lucy<sup>7</sup>, b. May 25, 1802, who m. Josiah Ward, and lived to an advanced age ; no children. Lucy, the mother, died June 9, 1802. Mr. Warner married again and had other children.

* Mehitabel (also Hittabell and Hitte) was a common name in the early Goldthwaite family, and was taken from Mehitabel, daughter of the emigrant, who died when a young woman, unmarried.

† This would make his birth 1737 ; there are so many reasons, however, for believing him to have been born later, that I am inclined to consider this newspaper statement of his age erroneous. Thomas, b. 1738, is set down in the old record by those who should have known, as the eldest brother ; moreover, William, who was a potter, and therefore presumably learned his trade and lived on in Danvers, marrying his wife there, appears first in the tax-list in 1765, very good evidence that he had then lately come of age.

James<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Thomas<sup>4</sup>, Samuel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Salem, born in South Danvers, probably in 1746, married Jan. 19, 1769, HANNAH WHITTEMORE of the same town. He was a soldier in the Revolution, first in the Lexington Alarm, and afterwards for a year in Captain Moses Brown's company, Col. John Glover's regiment, enlisting Feb. 7, 1776. He applied for a pension June 10, 1818, stating that he was then living in Salem, and was 70 years old (an error, since he was taxed in 1768). He died Jan. 31, 1824, "aged 77." Administration on the estate of James Goldthwait of Salem, cordwainer, was granted Feb. 17, 1824, to Mehitabel Goldthwait, spinster, Hannah Goldthwait, widow, and Mary Goldthwait, singlewoman, being sureties. Children :

- 185 MEHITABLE<sup>6</sup>; unnm.
- 186 MARY, or POLLY, b. 1779; d. Sept., 1827, aged 48. (Salem Gazette.) She joined the North church, Salem, in 1827.

76. Benjamin<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Thomas<sup>4</sup>, Samuel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of South Danvers, born there about 1752, married Oct. 22, 1772, at Lynn (by Mr. Adams), SARAH GOWING of Lynn. He died July 21, 1807. According to tradition among his grandchildren, he was a sea captain and had also been a soldier. He is called of Beverly in his marriage record. He does not appear in South Danvers parish records after 1789. The family are found later in Newburyport. Children :

- 187 + SALLY<sup>6</sup>, b. Oct. 11, 1780; m. Samuel Bragdon.
 188 + BENJAMIN, b. May 17, 1782; m. Lucy Peabody.
 189 ELIJAH, b. Feb. 3, 1785; d. Feb. 17, 1803, æ. 19 (Lynnfield Ch. Rec.).
 190 + PRISCILLA, b. Jan. 31, 1787; m. Joseph Lovett and William Stickney.
 191 LUCY, b. Sept. 23, 1788; m., as 2d wife, Feb. 2, 1815, Capt. Joseph Noble, b. 1775, master mariner, and Inspector of Salem Custom House; no children.
 192 + JONATHAN, b. Nov. 14, 1795; m. Jane Winthrop Abbott.

85. John<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Sam'l<sup>4</sup>, Ezekiel<sup>3</sup>, Sam'l<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Smithfield, Rhode Island, born in Salem, where he was baptized May, 1731 (1st church rec.), married (probably in Smithfield) HANNAH ———. When four or five years of age he removed with his father's family to Smithfield, and when most of the latter again removed, about 1760, to Sutton, Mass., John and his older sister, Sarah, remained in Rhode Island. Sarah had then been for eight years the wife of Joseph Buxton, and John, at that time nearly thirty, was probably also married and had children. According to the census of Rhode Island for 1774, his family seems to have then contained, besides himself and wife, one son and two daughters above sixteen, and a son and two daughters below that age. The number and sex of these children exactly corresponding with the persons mentioned in the following deeds found at Worcester, we have reason for assuming these as their names:

Sept. 6, 1803, Pelatiah Goldthwait, Joseph Kelley, Jr., and wife, Hannah, and Micah Holbrook as guardian to Elizabeth Darling, all of Smithfield, R. I., and John Thompson and wife, Lydia, of Swansey, N. H., for $60 paid by John Goldthwait of Smithfield, quitclaim 4 acres in Mendon, bounded north on the heirs of John Goldthwait, late of Smithfield, deceased. Charity Goldthwait (wife of Pelatiah) also signs the deed.

Another deed of 10 acres in Mendon, given at the same time to John Goldthwait, is signed by the same persons and by Richard and Mary Buffum.

John Goldthwaite received from his father, Samuel, Aug. 29, 1755, a deed of 50 acres of land with buildings in Smithfield; Feb. 7, 1767, he bought for £2,000, old tenor, the homestead and farm of Anthony Harris. He died about 1800. An important part of his estate was what seems to have been an extensive nursery.

Perhaps the marriage, Apr. 7, 1801, in Gloucester (R. I.) records, of Hannah Goldthwaite and Ephraim Thayer, may be that of his widow. Children (order of birth unknown):

- 193 + JOHN<sup>6</sup>, b. ———, 1766; m. Mehitable ———.
- 194 HANNAH, b. ———; m. Joseph Kelley, Jr., of Smithfield.
- 195 A DAUGHTER, b. ———; m. (Newton?) Darling (of Mendon?); d. early, leaving dau., Elizabeth.
- 196 LYDIA, b. ———; m. John Thompson of Swansey, N. H.
- 197 MARY, b. ———; m. Richard Buffum.
- 198 + PELATIAH, b. Oct. 15, 1775; m. Charity Buxton and Sally Rounds.

86. Stephen<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Ezekiel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Northbridge, Mass., born in South Danvers, where he was baptized Apr. 7, 1734, removed in infancy with his father's family to Smithfield, R. I.; he was made freeman there in May, 1760. He removed, not long after, to that part of Sutton, Mass., which was set off to Northbridge Apr. 10, 1780, where his father and most of his brothers also settled. Here he received from his father a deed of land, Oct. 30, 1765. He married PATIENCE VERY, born Jan. 16, 1736, dau. of Joseph and Ruth (Foster) Very of Salem, who, in 1736, removed to Mendon, Mass. Patience, wife of Stephen, was admitted, on confession of her faith, to the church in Uxbridge (of which Northbridge was then part) Nov. 8, 1761. The house in which they lived is standing in good preservation, owned and occupied by Mr. Zadock Goldthwaite, their grandson, now (1895) in his 92d year. The gravestones of Stephen and Patience, his wife, in the burying-ground at Northbridge Center, bear the following inscriptions:

"Erected in memory of Mr. Stephen Goldthwait, who died June 19, 1812, aged 79 years.

"Farewell, my spouse and children dear,
I've left this world of pain,
May virtue be your practice here
Till we do meet again."

"Sacred to the memory of Patience Goldthwait, widow of Stephen Goldthwait: died Feb. 9, 1826, in the 90th year of her age.

"Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, for they rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

Children (from family Bible in possession of Josiah Goldthwaite):

- 199 RUTH<sup>6</sup>, b. Feb. 15, 1758; d., aged 14.
- 200 + SAMUEL, b. Apr. 14, 1760; m. Lydia Fletcher.

87. Joseph<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Ezekiel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Northbridge and Peru, Mass., was born in 1735, probably in Danvers, about the time of the family's removal to Smithfield, R. I. At the age of twenty-three he is found again in Danvers, paying, as "Joseph Goldthwait Jr.," his tax there in 1758 and 1759. It was in the former year that his uncle Joseph, from whom he was probably named, died, and his presence then in Danvers may have been connected with that event, since his uncle had no sons, and from his conveying to this nephew, shortly before his death, eighty acres in New Salem, may be supposed to have taken special interest in him. In Danvers he married, Jan. 7, 1759, MARY GOLDTHWAITE of that town, who was his second cousin, the daughter of Nathaniel and Rebecca (Goldthwaite) Goldthwaite. In 1761 he is found in Sutton, Mass. (in the part now Northbridge), to which town his father and most of his family had removed from Smithfield a year or two before. He received land there by deed from his father May 29, 1763, and continued to live there till about 1793, in which year, having sold his home in Northbridge to Rev. John Crane, first minister of that town and husband of his niece, he bought, Apr. 20th, of Daniel and Luna Emmons, 150 acres in Partridgefield (now Peru), Berkshire county, and removed there with most of his family, many of them at that time grown up. Joseph and Mary had joined the church in Uxbridge on confession of their faith, Apr. 6, 1766, afterwards probably becoming members of the Northbridge church on its formation in 1782. They were received into the church in Peru, by letter, May 31, 1795.

Joseph was a farmer, with his homestead about half a mile east of the church, on the south side of the main highway passing through Peru. When the Revolutionary war broke out, he was living in Northbridge, forty years old, with a family of eight young children. He joined Capt. Josiah Wood's company from Northbridge in the Lexington Alarm, and was then five days in service. Afterwards he was in Capt. Samuel Reed's company, which marched Dec., 1776, and served 3 months 13 days (list dated Uxbridge). At the Rhode Island alarm he again enlisted, July 28, 1780, in Capt. David Batcheller's company, Col. Tyler's regiment, then serving fifteen days. According to the inscriptions on their gravestones in Peru, Joseph Goldthwait died Dec. 29, 1811, aged 76, and Mary, his wife, March 15, 1811, aged 73. The town records give Mr. Joseph Goldthwait died Dec. 29, 1812, and Mrs. Goldthwait, his wife, Jan. 13, 1812. The latter records must be more nearly correct, as the signature of Joseph is found to a deed recorded in Pittsfield, given Jan. 27, 1812. The baptisms of eight of their children are in the records of the old church at Uxbridge, the four eldest being baptized together, Aug. 10, 1766. The rest were probably baptized at Northbridge, the early church records of which are lacking.

I., married about 1756, JAPHET TAFT of Mendon, son of Daniel Taft, and grandson of Robert, the emigrant. Hannah died after giving birth to four children, and Mr. Taft married 2d, Sarah, by whom he had Judah, b. Jan. 3, 1764; Mary, b. Jan. 16, 1765; Sarah, b. Aug. 19, 1766. The children† of Hannah were:

* "John Allen of Uxbridge and Abigail Goldthwaight of Northbridge were married Nov. 8, 1778" (Uxbridge town rec.). This may be a former marriage of Abigail.

† There is an evident error in the date of birth of either Ebenezer or Benjamin, both from family records. As the former is well known by his daughter, still living, to have been named from his uncle killed April 19, 1775, at the battle of Lexington, the mistake would seem to lie in the birth of Benjamin.

‡ The record as to Hannah's husband and family was given me by Mr. Henry W. Taft of Pittsfield, and the facts regarding the daughter Rachel and Dr. Crane are from an appendix to the sermon preached by Rev. Lewis Clark at the 25th anniversary of the church at Whitinsville, an offshoot from that at Northbridge.

53 years. Rachel's mother having died, she was living, at the time of her marriage, with her Goldthwaite relatives in Northbridge. Dr. Crane was born in Norton, Mass., March 26, 1756, the son of John and Rachel (Terry) Crane, who were Friends. On first coming to the town, he boarded in the family of his wife's uncle, Ezekiel Goldthwaite, and the room that was his study is still pointed out in the old house. He afterwards bought the homestead of Joseph Goldthwaite, another uncle, who removed to Peru, and there he was engaged for more than thirty years, in addition to his pastoral duties, in preparing young men for college. More than one hundred in all pursued their studies with him, among whom were Dr. Spring of New York, his brother, Rev. Samuel Spring of East Hartford, Dr. Joel Hawes of Hartford, and others who afterwards became eminent. According to their gravestones in Northbridge, Dr. Crane died Sept. 1, 1836, aged 81, and Rachel, his wife, Nov. 16, 1832. They had three daughters :

- 1 Rachel<sup>1</sup>, b. Jan. 7, 1785 ; m. Dec. 20, 1809, Rev. Ezekiel Rich.
- 2 Susanna, b. Apr. 6, 1786 ; m. Apr. 3, 1808, Abiel Jaques, Esq., of Worcester.
- 3 Hannah, b. Jan. 14, 1788 ; m. May 30, 1816, Rev. John Taylor.

224 ABIGAIL, b. Mch. 17, 1760.

225 MARCELLUS, b. ——— ; d. July 11, 1761.

89. Jonathan<sup>5</sup> Goldthwaite (Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Ezekiel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Sutton and New Salem, Mass., b. Jan. 14, 1742, in Smithfield, R. I., removed with his father and most of his brothers, when about eighteen, to what is now Northbridge, Mass. He married, about 1764, LYDIA CHASE, born May 14, 1741, daughter of Ambrose and Thankful (Robbins) Chase, the former a descendant (through Isaac<sup>3</sup>, Daniel<sup>2</sup>) of Aquila<sup>1</sup> Chase of Newbury. Jonathan was a soldier in the Revolution, enlisting for three years Jan. 11, 1781, in Capt. Chase's company, Col. Davis' regiment. He is described in the muster-roll as of Sutton, 39 years old, 5 ft. 10 in. high, of dark hair and complexion, and a farmer ; birthplace, Smithfield, R. I. He was reported as on duty in camp, Bald Hill, Sept., 1781, and at Peekskill Aug., 1781 ; as sick in general hospital Oct. and Dec., 1781, Jan. and Feb., 1782, and as "transferred to Invalids" June 21, 1782. He signs a receipt for clothing delivered Mch. 16, 1784. In 1783 he was of New Salem, where he bought, June 10th of that year, a lot of 50 acres, described as No. 167, in the fourth division; this was sold, with the same description, by his son Robert, May 24, 1806. It was in the north part of New Salem, afterwards Orange. Jonathan's health, which became affected while in the army, seems never to have been recovered. This family is spoken of as gifted with remarkable powers of memory. Children* (order not fully known):

- 226 + THANKFUL<sup>6</sup>, b. Jan. 2, 1765; m. Thaddeus Elliot.
- 227     DAVID, soldier in Revolution, name found on pay-roll dated Sept. 27, 1783, in the company of Capt. Joseph Elliot of Sutton.

90. Jacob<sup>5</sup> Goldthwaite (Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Ezekiel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Northbridge, born in Smithfield, R. I., in 1744, removed, when about 16 years old, with his father's family to what is now Northbridge, Mass., where he received a deed of land from his father, March 20, 1775, having then lately come of age. He married, Apr. 14, 1785, RACHEL AXTELL, and died, according to his gravestone, March 28, 1804, in the 61st year of his age. His widow afterwards married Major David Batcheller, and died Apr. 8, 1827, aged 73 years (gravestone). Jacob Goldthwaite was a private in Captain Abram Batcheller's company, Col. Jonathan Holman's regiment, in the Rhode Island Alarm, Dec., 1776, marching to Providence

house of South Danvers, where Mr. Holt preaches, and now occupied by one Joseph Flint." Mr. Goldthwaite recorded some of his experiences, in making this change of residence, in the following note found in his account book :

"At Salem, Feb. 4, 1784, I, Ezekiel Goldthwait of Northbridge in the county of Worcester bought a farm in Danvers called Derby's farm and determined to move directly to it, but through disappointment of selling my farm in Northbridge as I expected, I let it to Amos Flint who was on the farm when I bought it, which proved an injury to me. May 3, 1784 I set out with my family except my second son in his ninth year I left with his grandfather Adams, and I arrived in Danvers May 5th with my family, well through the goodness of God which I hope forever to remember. May 3, 1785 I brought my son Joel from his grandfather's and I saw a snowbank of considerable length in the town of Lyn."

All Mr. Goldthwaite's eleven children except the youngest were born in Northbridge. He died June 18, 1800, very suddenly, of a disease much resembling Asiatic cholera. His widow married, Nov. 6, 1803, Captain Caleb Moulton of Sudbury, who died Sept. 19, 1821, aged 76. Mrs. Anna Moulton lived to the age of 91 y. 7 mos. 22 d., and died of lung fever, Dec. 31, 1843. Children :

238 + EZEZIEL<sup>6</sup>, b. Jan. 1, 1774; m. Polly Fuller.

239 JOEL, b. Jan. 9, 1776; d. Jan. 1, 1853, aged 77. He was never married, and carried on for years his business as a baker in Salem, his shop being situated in the west part of Essex street, near where is now Grace church.

- 249 JOSEPH<sup>6</sup>, bapt. Nov. 16, 1760.
- 250 ABIGAIL, bapt. Jan. 1, 1764.
- 251 MARY, bapt. Sept. 15, 1765.
- 252 HANNAH, bapt. July 12, 1767.
- 253 SARAH, bapt. June 4, 1769.
- 254 THANKFUL, bapt. Mar. 8, 1772.

93. Hannah<sup>s</sup> Goldthwaite (Joseph<sup>a</sup>, Ezekiel<sup>a</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in Salem about 1744, married Oct. 16, 1762, AMOS TRASK. Administration on the estate of Amos Trask, yeoman, of Danvers, was granted to Mrs. Mehitabel Trask, July 15, 1778. On the same day Wm. Shillaber was appointed guardian of Joseph Trask, aged 9, and Josiah Southwick, of Hannah, aged 12, and Abigail, aged 6, all children of Amos Trask. It would seem that the mother was then dead, and that Mrs. Mehitabel Trask was sister of Amos, for, in the division of the estate of "Mehitabel Trask, singlewoman," to nephews and nieces in 1814, are mentioned children of Joseph Trask, a nephew, and Hannah Osborn. The inventory of Amos Trask amounted to £2,688 8s. Children :

- 255 HANNAH<sup>6</sup>, b. 1766; m. Caleb Osborn.
- 256 JOSEPH, b. 1769.
- 257 ABIGAIL, b. 1772; m., probably, Benjamin Bullock of Danvers, mariner. (See Vol. 157, p. 290, Essex Deeds.)

be nearly 95 years old, dying in 1838. She is well remembered by her great grandchildren still living. Children :

258 + DANIEL<sup>6</sup>, b. Aug. 1, 1769; m. Polly Burns.

259 + JOHN, b. Nov. 27, 1771; m. Eunice Thomas.

102. Capt. Jacob<sup>5</sup> Goldthwaite (Benjamin<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Stoughton, Mass., born in Boston in 1739, married, Jan. 1, 1761, ELIZABETH NIGHTINGALE of Braintree, daughter of William Nightingale. He had the trade of a rope-maker, which he probably learned in Braintree, as he was of that town when he enlisted, Apr. 10, 1756, at the age of 17, in Capt. Nathaniel Blake's company, for the Crown Point Expedition, rank given as "centinel," and service ending Nov. 14th. He served the next year also, when he appears as a private, "of Milton," in a roll of part of the company of Capt. William Arbuthnot, in the capitulation of Fort William Henry, Aug. 9, 1757. The tradition of his being one of the few survivors of the massacre that followed, still remains in his family. He served also in the campaigns of 1758, 1759, and 1760.

At the breaking out of the Revolutionary War, Jacob Goldthwait went from Stoughton as sergeant in the Lexington Alarm. Jacob "Guildthwrit" of Stoughton is found as sergeant in Capt. Briggs' Co., Col. Read's Reg., serving eight months during the siege of Boston; return dated Roxbury, Sept. 26, 1775. He was afterwards an officer in Col. John Crane's regiment of artillery, and his accounts for service, first as lieutenant, and afterwards as captain, — covering the four years Jan. 1, 1777, to Jan. 1, 1781, — are found in the Massachusetts Archives. The services of Jacob's father, Benjamin, as captain, major, and colonel, in the French War, have already been given, and those of Jacob's oldest son, Timothy, in the Revolution, hereafter appear. Such an unusual record of the protracted war services of three successive generations of their ancestry could hardly fail to have been kept in memory by their descendants, and we accordingly find it given as tradition among Timothy's descendants.*

* See note, page 80.

The residence of Capt. Goldthwaite, as he continued to be called, was in what was East Stoughton, now Avon, where one of his grandchildren, Mrs. Marietta Tucker, still (1896) lives, the last survivor, so far as is known, of her generation of the Stoughton family. Capt. Goldthwaite appears in the records as "Jacob Goldthwait, gentleman," his sons as "yeomen." He died Apr. 7, 1817; his widow, Elizabeth, Dec. 14, 1825, aged 90. 104. Benjamin<sup>5</sup> Goldthwaite (Benjamin<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Malden and Boston, born (probably in Boston) in 1743, married May 3, 1767, LOIS BOARDMAN, born in Lynn Aug. 13, 1747, daughter of John and Eunice (Cheever) Boardman, and a descendant of William<sup>1</sup> Bordman, of Cambridge, Mass. Lois died Oct. 12, 1812, and Mr. Goldthwaite married 2d, ELIZABETH WADSWORTH BARRETT, born 1772, daughter of Joseph Wadsworth and Ruth (Smallidge) Barrett of Boston. "Benjamin Goldthwait died in Malden July 26, 1835, aged 91 years;" Mrs. "Betsy W. Goldthwait Died in Boston Dec. 9, 1845, Aged 73 years." (Family Rec.)

The people of Lynn and neighboring towns were, at that early day, engaged largely in the manufacture of shoes, and, in the division of that labor, Benjamin followed the business of making heels. He is called "of Malden, Heelmaker," May 28, 1770, when he bought there a farm of 15 acres, with buildings. This he sold in 1778, and about that time removed to Boston, where he for some years kept a tavern on Back street. His name appears as living in Margaret street, in the directory of 1796. His property there is thus described in 1798 (Vol. 25, Boston City Documents):

"Benjamin Goldthwait, owner, Benjamin Goldthwait and John Edes occupiers; fronting south on Samuel Ruggles, north west on Margarett Lane, east on Mrs. Hust and Matthew Pedley. Land 962 sq. ft.; house 662 sq. ft. 2 stories, 16 windows — 1 shop, 300 sq. ft.; 2 stories of wood; value $1200."

Benjamin Goldthwait was one of the volunteers from Lynn in the Lexington Alarm; he is allowed in the list for forty miles' travel. Tradition says that he was working in the field when the alarm was given, when he threw down his hoe and ran to help repel the British. Children* (all by 1st wife, order of birth unknown):

name of the 3d husband, and one of them married Mr. Cox.
Eunice is spoken of as a very handsome woman.

Boardman, late of Saugus." It is only known of him that he was at one time a wealthy planter in Cuba, but afterwards lost his property in some of the troubles there; that he had one daughter, Sarah Ann, who came to the United States and joined the Roman Catholic church in Baltimore.

MAJOR JOSEPH GOLDTHWAITE.

105. Major Joseph<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Joseph<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Boston, born there Oct. 5, 1730, married HANNAH BRIDGHAM, said to have been of Barre, Mass. She had a brother, Joseph Bridgham, of Rehoboth.* They had no children; she died during the Revolution, at some time before the date of her husband's will of Feb. 11, 1778.

Joseph Goldthwaite entered the Boston Latin School in 1738, but nothing further as to his earlier life has been found recorded. He probably began the military career, which he afterwards followed, near the commencement of the French and Indian War, when he was about twenty-five years old. He appears as Major in 1759, in the regiment from Boston, under command of Col. John Phillips, and as Major, Jan. 1, 1760, to Jan. 10, 1761, on the roll of field and staff officers in Col. Bagley's regiment, in service at Louisburg, in which he acted also as paymaster, for, Feb. 28, 1760, £1,242 were ordered sent to Maj. Joseph Goldthwait at Louisburg to pay the wages of those soldiers in Col. Bagley's regiment who had continued there during the winter (Council Rec., p. 196). He served during the campaign of 1762 as Lieut.-Colonel of the regiment commanded by Col. Richard Saltonstall, roll dated Boston, Feb. 19, 1763, in which he is called "of Roxbury." This was the highest rank he attained in the Provincial army, and he was addressed at that period as Colonel. When, in 1768, on account of the resistance of the inhabitants to the customs duties imposed by the Crown, British troops began to be quartered in Boston, "Joseph Goldthwait, Jun<sup>r</sup>, Esq.," was, on nomination of Gov. Bernard, appointed by the Council, Oct. 5, 1768, their Commissary. From that time he had the title of Major, by which he is now generally known. In the lists of loyalists of a later day, he is set down as a "Crown Officer."†

In the Mass. Hist. Society's Collections, Vol. X, p. 121, is printed a list of the different nations of Indians that met Sir William Johnson at Niagara, July, 1764, to make peace in behalf of their tribes, which was "inclosed in a letter from Col. Joseph Goldthwait of Boston to Dr. Stiles*, A. D. 1766":

"Enclosed," writes Col. Goldthwait, "is a pair of Indian moccasins, made by a squaw of the Fox tribe, also a pair of Garters. I also send you a French bowl of a pipe which was presented to the Huron tribe by a French priest. The decorations are lost, but it may serve to hang up in your study, as it is made of some ore spewed out of a rock near Lake St. Clair. Also the cover is a deer skin I saw drest by an Indian girl of the Oneida tribe of 11 years old."

Of the several Goldthwaite loyalists, Major Joseph was one of the most uncompromising in his devotion to his king. At the outbreak of the Revolution, he was, as has been said, Commissary and Barrack master of the royal troops in Boston, where he passed the winter of the siege, and at its evacuation, March 17, 1776, he went with the British army to Halifax, and thence to Quebec, finally reaching New York, where he died, Oct. 3, 1779. Nine days before his departure from Boston, he wrote the following letter to his uncle, Ezekiel Goldthwait, Esq., of Boston:

JOS. GOLDTHWAIT

To Ezekiel Goldthwait Esq.

Some of the experiences of Maj. Joseph's wife, Mrs. Hannah, while her husband was shut up in Boston with the British army, appear in the Journal of the Massachusetts House of Representatives.* Late in the afternoon of Friday, Aug. 4, 1775, she, with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Benjamin Goldthwait, and a Mrs. Chamberlain, left Boston, then closely besieged, with a horse and chaise, and crossed Winnissimmet Ferry to Chelsea, a step which must have required considerable courage, "no such instance having happened before," as appears from the report of the commanding officer, Lieut.-Col. Loammi Baldwin, who had them arrested and brought under guard to the General Court, then sitting at Watertown. A committee was appointed to examine into their case, who said in their report of Aug. 7th, that Mrs. Benjamin Goldthwait and Mrs. Chamberlain, "having given such an open and full account of matters, and appear so friendly to the Country, your committee think they may, without danger thereto, be freed from confinement," but they recommended that Mrs. Goldthwait, wife of Major Joseph Goldthwait, might be permitted to go to Stafford (Stafford Springs, Conn.) "to endeavor the recovery of her health by use of the waters there, and to be under the care of the Selectmen of said Stafford, during her stay in that place, and afterwards to remove to Rehoboth, to reside with her brother, Mr. Joseph Brigham (Bridgham), there to be under the care of the Committee of Correspondence of said town (without any expense to the publick) until the further order of this Court." More than two weeks later she was still at Watertown, when, August 23d, she petitioned the Court to give her leave to use the waters at Newton, instead of those of Stafford, till she should be better enabled to proceed to Rehoboth, the petition being accompanied by a certificate of her physician, Marshall Spring, that she was "too much indisposed by a paralytick disorder to undértake so distant a journey as the Town of Stafford." Her prayer was granted, and it is probable she remained through the siege at Newton, where the family of Mr. Benjamin Goldthwait had also taken refuge (their youngest child, Esther, being born there Oct. 9th), and that after the evacuation she returned to Boston, where, according to the statement of Miss Hannah Goldthwait Gowen, her husband's niece, she died at her own house in that city, having, probably, never again been able to see her husband. Miss Gowen, who wrote in 1861, at the age of 87, speaks of Maj. Joseph's house as that "where Dr. White now lives," meaning, as she explains, an old house on that spot. A portrait of Major Joseph was painted by Copley not long before the latter left America for England, in 1774. It is now in possession of the grandchildren of his niece, Mrs. Dr. Adams.

Major Joseph was proscribed and banished as a loyalist in 1778. Jan. 9, 1778, Joseph Henderson was appointed agent on the estate of Joseph Goldthwait of Boston, "Absentee," Edward Green, merchant, and Ebenezer Bachedor, bondsman. It was soon after this time that he drew up the following will, or memorandum for a will, which I found recorded at Somerset House, London, in 1890. It is headed:

"Memorandum of Joseph Goldthwait the younger concerning the disposal of his estate, which memorandum was found in his desk after his death, which happened about Oct. 3, 1779, in the outward of the City of New York, about three miles distant from the town, at the house of Mrs. Love Oliver, wife of Dr. Peter Oliver, who delivered the keys of this box or desk to Richard and Sarah Williams about one hour after his decease. Richard and Sarah Williams, together with Wm. Taylor, Francis Greene, Fred. Wm. Geyer, all merchants of New York, testify to the handwriting being that of the deceased.

"Memorandum of disposal of my estate, Feb. 11, 1778. To Joseph Goldthwait, my nephew, son of my brother Philip, my farm at Woolwich, in Sheeps-cot River, Province of Mass. Bay, on which his father lives, which I bought of Samuel Stimson, he to take possession of it at 21, unless his father chooses to remain on it, then his father to pay him £100 sterling and keep the farm for himself and heirs. But if my nephew has been a Rebel, and borne arms against his King, then this to be void and the estate to go to his father to do as he pleases. I give a piece of land at Biddeford, in the mouth of the Samo (Saco) River, in the Province of Mass. Bay and County of York, to my brother Philip to give to his daughter Hannah.

"My farm at Weston, in Essex, Province of Mass. Bay, whereon my honored parents now live, I leave for them to enjoy as long as it shall please God to let them live. Also my executors to pay them £150 for their support and comfort, and whichsoever survive the other then only pay as much as he or she may require, as this sum may be sufficient, with the produce of the farm, to support them. It is hoped that some of my brothers who are living will see the money properly laid out, so that they enjoy all the comfort this world can [give] them while they remain alive, and after their decease the house, farm, and appurtenances to revert to Joseph, the son of my sister Martha, married to Dr. Gowen (if he be living), if not then to be given among the rest of her children, unless she chooses to keep it, then for her to live on it, and after to be divided among her children.

"The one half the Still-House, Store-House, and wharf in Auchmoody's Lane, which I bought in company with my late friend, Joshua Winslow, of Joshua Henshaw, to be sold. My estate in Boston, called Hubbard's wharf, and Hubbard's pasture, on the southeast side of Fort Hill, if after this present Rebellion I should not be able to live in Boston, and should not otherwise dispose of it before my decease, to my brother Samuel, to enjoy till his son Joseph comes of age, who is to take possession of it and improve and enjoy it as long as he lives, and after his decease to be entailed on the male heir of his body if he calls him Joseph, as my intention is that this estate shall always be a family estate, and belong to one of my own name, with this proviso, that none of them are Rebels and have borne arms against their King, otherwise to go to the next eldest son of the same family who is loyal and true to his King and country, to be entailed upon his next heir, and his next heir, and so on forever.

"I do farther order that if my brother Philip should not keep possession of the farm at Woolwich, then he to receive the sum of £500 to purchase a farm where he pleases, to enable him to live comfortably and bring up his children, this farm to be divided, after his decease, among his children (except Joseph, who is already above provided for), they taking care to provide for the widow of my said brother if she be living.

"I give to my brother, Benjamin Goldthwait, £100, and to each of his children living at my decease, £50, except Sarah, who is married to John Appadail of New Castle on Tine*, in England, to be £100. To sister Sarah Williams, wife of Richard Williams, £200, and if she leaves any children, to each of them £50.

"To good friend, Mrs. Hannah Winslow, widow of Joshua Winslow, £300, if she be a widow at my decease. If married, only £50, to provide her suitable mourning for her old acquaintance. To her daughters, Elizabeth, Nancy, Sucky, Katty, and Hannah, £50 each, and to her daughter, Polly Loring Winslow, only £10, as she is named for her grandmother, and will probably share her fortune. (Mention is made, also, of Joshua Loring Winslow, whom he has sent to London to be educated.) To Mrs. Love Oliver, wife of Dr. Peter Oliver, the use of £1,000, as a token of my very great regard.

"To Mr. John Andrews, my clerk, £100."

(Recorded Folio 518, Collins.)

Nov. 18, 1780, administration on this will was granted in London to Samuel Goldthwait, "one of the executors of Joseph Goldthwait, father of above testator."

Miss Gowen, his niece, says of John, in her account of the family, that "he commanded a man-of-war in the Revolution, and was kept a prisoner in England until peace was declared, when he returned home to die." He was unquestionably a master mariner, and, at the beginning of the Revolution, seems to have been commander of a merchant vessel, which was brought into Norwich, Conn., in 1775, and its contents confiscated. From the record † of this transaction he would appear to have been living in May, 1777. He is not, however, mentioned in the will of his brother, Maj. Joseph, of Feb., 1778, nor in that of his father* in 1780, and seems therefore to have been then deceased. Since his daughter was brought up by her grandmother, the mother probably died early. The baptisms of two children of John and Mehitabel are found, the first in the records of Christ Church, the second in those of King's Chapel.

- 276 JOHN<sup>6</sup>, bapt. Aug. 6, 1755, "privet." His baptism at home shows he was a delicate child, and he may not have lived to grow up. No further mention of him has been found.
- 277 ELIZABETH, bapt. Sept. 30, 1770. The will of her grandmother, Mrs. Martha Goldthwait, leaves to granddaughter, Elizabeth Goldthwait, "whom I have hitherto maintained and brought up," £400, and all her (my) clothes and wearing apparel. January 9, 1807, she was Elizabeth Lovewell, and she married twice afterwards, her last husband being a Smith. She is called "daughter of John Goldthwait of Boston, mariner, deceased," in the probate record of her grandmother's estate.

* In memory of Mary, the loving Consort of Capt. Phillip Goldthwait who died Sept. 27, 1760, æ. 24.

Capt. Samuel Jordan was the son of Dominicus<sup>2</sup>, and grandson of Rev. Robert<sup>1</sup> Jordan, an English clergyman, of Spurwink (Cape Elizabeth), Me., 1640, who probably held the first regular service of the English Church in that place. The baptismal font which he brought from England is now in possession of the Maine Historical Society at Brunswick. He was afterwards forbidden by the ing in the ancient burying-ground near the former site of the First Church, Biddeford (now Lower Biddeford). Her youngest child, Mary, baptized about three months after her death, was born, probably, not long before it. Capt. Philip married 2d, Dec. 17, 1762, "MRS." ABIGAIL DYER of Biddeford, who was, probably, the daughter, bapt. Jan. 16, 1743, 4, of Joseph and Abigail Dyer. She died of old age Feb. 22, 1832, aged 88. (Rec. of 1st church, Biddeford.)

Capt. Philip was an officer of the Customs at Winter Harbor, and adhered to the side of the king when the Revolutionary war broke out. Sabine, in his "American Loyalists," says he was one of the two persons of Saco and Biddeford dealt with by the Whigs of that section for their loyal principles, and that as soon as the war commenced he placed himself under British protection at Boston. However that may have been, it is certain, from the will of his brother, Major Joseph, that, at its date, Feb. 11, 1778, he was living on a farm belonging

General Court at Boston to baptize according to the rites of the Church of England, and, for a time, laid aside his office, resuming it later, when the government came into the hands of the King's commissioners.

When Capt. Samuel Jordan, father of Mrs. Goldthwaite, was a boy, the Indians, in King William's war, came to Spurwink to the house of his father, Dominicus, whom they killed, carrying his wife and five children captive to Canada. The family all returned from captivity except the youngest daughter, who married a French gentleman and settled in Canada. The knowledge of the Indian language and character, then obtained, was of great service to Capt. Jordan in after life, enabling him to act as interpreter in the making of treaties, and to cope successfully with the wily savages during the years of Indian warfare in which much of his life was passed. His home was the ancient garrison house, built, probably, by him, at Biddeford Pool (then Winter Harbor), where the descendants of his daughter, Mary Goldthwaite, now live. It was standing as early as 1717, and was surrounded by a high palisade of timber and stone, with lookouts commanding a view each way at the corners. Here Capt. Jordan kept a store and had a large trade in general merchandise with the neighboring settlers, the location being most accessible by boat from all points. He was a man of great courage, filled many important positions in the settlement, and died there Dec. 20, 1742, aged 58. His widow married, as second wife, Rev. Thomas Smith, first settled minister of Falmouth, now Portland. (Information given by John S. Locke, Esq., of Saco, Me.)

to the latter, at Woolwich, Me., near the mouth of the Kennebec. An earlier record in regard to him says: "Captain Philip Goldthwait was brought before the New Hampshire Committee of Safety at Portsmouth Nov. 23, 1775, on suspicion of being unfriendly to the liberties of America. Upon examination, nothing appearing against him, ordered that he be dismissed." (Force's Am. Archives, v. iv, p. 5.)

There can be no doubt, however, as to Capt. Philip's real sentiments on the great question then dividing Whigs and Tories. The atmosphere in which he was living must soon have become unendurable to one holding his opinions, and we soon find him in England, where he appears as early as October, 1780,* at that date taking out in London administration of his brother's estate. His niece, Miss Gowen, says of him that he went to England and bought an annuity in the king's household, and became one of the Gentlemen of the bedchamber, and, she adds, "When my father was in London he attended a christening of one of the royal babies with my uncle." Dr. Gowen, her father, is known to have been in England in the summer and autumn of 1783. How much longer Capt. Philip remained there is not now known, but that he died, perhaps at sea before Oct., 1786, appears from probate records at Boston, where Edward Dawes of Boston, trader, is appointed, Oct. 10, 1786, administrator on the estate of Philip Goldthwait, late of Boston, mariner. His inventory contained clothes, a quadrant, book, and chest, and amounted to £7 10s. James Graham, trader, and Samuel Beals, tailor, of Boston, were bondsmen. The title of captain, usually applied to Philip, would seem to have come from his command of vessels. The calling of a mariner was a natural one for him to follow, since it was that of his mother's father and brother, and of his own elder brother, and it is interesting to note that in every generation of his descendants to the present day there have been more or less who have chosen the same

Samuel was early established as a merchant in Newport, where he remained till 1780. A letter in the New London Gazette, dated Newport, Dec. 19, 1774, has this reference to Samuel Goldthwaite and his business there:

"Last Friday arrived the brig Catharine, Capt. Congdon, but lately commanded by Capt. Joseph Rodman of this town, who died of the small pox in England. This vessel sailed from Liverpool the 3d of Sept. Mr. Goldthwait,

* It is said that one of Capt. Philip's daughters, perhaps Hannah, married Mr. Dame of Saco, and that two of their sons were Goldthwaite Dame and Ivory Dame, the latter of whom had Fred, Daniel, Olive (Lincoln), and others.

† "In Memory of Amey Goldthwait, consort of Samuel Goldthwait of this city, merchant, and daughter of the late Charles Bordin, Esq., of Newport, Rhode Island, who departed this life July 23, 1797, aged 60 years." (Tombstone in St. Paul's Cemetery, Baltimore.)

the owner, has agreed to deliver up her cargo to the committee of this town, to be sold agreeable to the orders of the Continental Congress."*

It is evident that he early came under suspicion as having loyalist sentiments. After the death of his brother, Major Joseph, in New York, October, 1779, he applied to the Council of War of Rhode Island for leave to go to that city, and permission was at first given, but was withdrawn in the month of December. The succeeding February he petitioned the Rhode Island General Assembly, representing that his brother had lately died in New York, leaving a large estate, then in the hands of persons who were wasting it; also, that he had been authorized to settle it if he could obtain permission to go to New York, asking to be allowed to do so, and to return with the effects when obtained, which petition the Council, after consideration, granted.

He did not, however, return, which seems, indeed, to have been impossible, for his father also died about one month after the last-mentioned date, and for four years after he was busily employed in the settlement of the two estates. This did not excuse him in the eyes of the Rhode Island authorities, and when, in July, 1780, an act was passed proscribing certain persons as having left the State and joined the enemy, ordering that, if they returned, they should be apprehended and imprisoned or transported, "Samuel Goldthwait, merchant, late of Newport," was included in the list. Orders were also given, under the same date, that such furniture and other personal estate as he had left in Newport should be inventoried and taken into possession of the Sheriff. About this time Samuel must have gone to England on business connected with the settlement of his father's and brother's estates, for, in November of the same year, he was granted administration on them in London. One year later, in October, 1781, he had returned, his wife, Amy, at that time preferring a petition to the Rhode Island

* The First General Congress of the colonies, which met at Philadelphia, Sept. 4, 1774, had resolved that no goods should be carried to Great Britain, nor any received from that country.

Assembly, stating that her husband was then in New York and had requested her, with her family, to come to him, and praying the Assembly to permit her, with her family, furniture, and effects, to go to him there by the first opportunity. The petition was "so far granted, that the said Amy Goldthwait, with her household furniture, be permitted to go to New York in a cartel vessel under the direction of William Taggart, Esq." Complications arose later regarding the settlement of the estate, requiring other visits to England, and the business was not ended for some years, as is shown by a long account brought down to the end of 1783, amounting to £116 4s. 8d., presented by Samuel, as administrator, for extra services, including "prosecuting several voyages to Great Britain, from New York to Boston, Nantucket, etc., and attending lawsuits in New York, Great Britain, etc., four years."

From the Rhode Island census of 1774, it appears that Samuel Goldthwaite's family then consisted of twelve persons, two of them blacks. Of the others, there were two males and two females over sixteen, and five males and one female under sixteen. The family settled in Baltimore after the Revolution. None of the children married except Joseph and Ann. A fine miniature of Samuel, with one of his son Joseph, was in possession of the daughter of the latter, Mrs. Owings. Children (first seven as found in Newport records):

Mr. Goldthwaite was a merchant, having a "Ladies first class shop" on Cornhill, where he resided. He had a country home also in Sudbury. He died quite suddenly at the age of 45, in March, 1782, and his widow in Feb., 1787, five years later, at the age of 51. His will, made March 6, 1782, mentions each of his seven children then living, and his wife. His inventory amounted to £1,402, 3s. During the siege of Boston the family were in Newton, where one of the children was born. The experience of the mother in leaving the town has been told in the account of Maj. Joseph Goldthwaite. The children were mostly baptized in the New Brick Church; their births, as here given, were from a record made by their father in a volume of Dr. Watt's Sermons; children :

the last century, and engaged in the drug business. It is said of him, "his business proved unsuccessful, and, Jan. 2, 1798, the partnership of Goldthwait and Moore was dissolved. Their store was on the corner of 2d and Walnut Streets." This Mr. Goldthwait, partner of Maj. Moore, was the writer of the above letter, his name, Winkles B.[orden?], being that, probably, of a brother of his mother, spelt Winchels in the (printed) record of his birth at Newport.

In tracing the descendants of Samuel Goldthwaite, I have had valuable help from Miss Ella C. Campbell of Washington, whose acquaintance with Baltimore enabled her to find for me Mrs. Owings, whom she visited not long before her death; she has since found and copied the Goldthwaite tombstone inscriptions in the Baltimore cemetery here used.

III. Dr. Michael Burrell<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Joseph<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Boston, born there Jan. 5 (bapt. Jan. 11), 1740, 41, was so named from an uncle of his mother's, who probably died in early life. His first marriage is found in the records of the 1st and 2d Presbyterian Church, New York; "Michael Burrell Goldthwait to SARAH FORMON, March 8, 1759." He married 2d, in the summer of 1774, at Portsmouth, N. H., ABIGAIL LANGDON, daughter of Captain John Langdon of that place (New London Gazette, Aug. 5, 1774). Abigail's mother was Mary Hall of Exeter, a descendant both of Gov. John Winthrop and Gov. Thomas Dudley; John Langdon, her brother, was a distinguished patriot, Governor of New Hampshire, 1805 to 1811, and U. S. Senator. Miss Gowen, his niece, says of Burrell Goldthwait, as he seems to have been called, that he "was an eminent surgeon, and attended the army at the taking of Louisburg. He married a lady of note in that part of the world, became a widower, and at the close of the war returned home, married again a Miss Langdon of Portsmouth, N. H., and settled in Boston till the war of 1776 called him again to the army, where he died; his wife and little daughter returned to Portsmouth; he left her handsomely provided for." Like most physicians of that day he kept an apothecary shop, which was in 1774 on Hanover St. Nothing has been found to corroborate the statement that he was in the Revolutionary army; he sympathized in the beginning with the loyalists, and his name is found in the lists of addressers, both of Hutchinson and Gage. A relic of Dr. Goldthwaite, his powder horn, is in possession of the Maine His. Soc., to which it was presented by a grandson of his brother Philip. He had one daughter,

- 305 FRANCES MARY ANN<sup>6</sup>,* bapt. Trinity Church, Boston, Jan. 25, 1776. This was during the siege, and the father seems to have been absent, since the child was presented by the mother. She married at Portsmouth in 1802, Mr. Samuel Davis of Bath, Me. (Salem Gazette, Dec. 28, 1802.)

113. Thomas<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Joseph<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Boston and Portsmouth, N. H., was born in Boston July 19 (bapt. July 24) 1743. The family account says of him, "a sailor, went to sea — 14 years thought dead." The facts, so far as found, show that he was by occupation a sailmaker (the business of his gr. gr. father Burrell), and that he was living in Portsmouth in 1765, in which year, Nov. 19th, his name is one of those on a petition to the General Assembly against the monopolies of shopkeepers who buy of those bringing in country produce, and sell at advanced prices, from which it might be inferred that he was then a householder there. No further record of him appears till the Revolution, during which the name of Thomas Goldthwait, sailmaker, is found in a list of American prisoners (without date) sent from New York to Portsmouth to be exchanged for British. His service may have been at sea, and not on record, or he may be the "Thomas Goldthrite" on the muster roll of Capt. Wm. Ballard's Co., Col. Asa Whitcomb's (Essex Co.) reg't in camp at Ticonderoga — enlisted Dec. 5, 1775, discharged Nov. 1, 1776. (Vol. 47, p. 192, Mass. Arch.) He died before Aug. 9, 1779, at which date Benj. Goldthwait of Boston, merchant, and Joseph Gowen of Sudbury were granted administration on the estate of Thomas Goldthwait, late of Boston, sailmaker ; Richard Gardner, trader, and Caleb Swan, goldsmith, bondsmen. Amount of inventory £789, 10s. One item is, "Cash received at Newberry," £400.

114. Martha<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Joseph<sup>1</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in Boston, July 20 (bapt. July 22), 1744, married in 1774, DR. JOSEPH GOWEN, who, according to the account of his daughter, studied medicine with Dr. Burrell Goldthwaite, his wife's brother, in Boston. Martha, before her marriage, had kept house for this brother, at that time a widower. Dr. Gowen was for a time an apothecary in Roxbury, and also in Sudbury, but most of his children's births are recorded in Boston. He went twice to England, once in 1783, apparently to assist in business regarding Maj. Joseph Goldthwaite's estate, and again, later, to accompany his wife's cousin, Mrs. Dr. Sylvester Gardiner, then a widow, on a visit to her father, Col. Thomas Goldthwaite. The farm in Weston, on which his parents lived, was left by Maj. Joseph, after their death, to Mrs. Gowen and her family, and there she spent her last years, as did her last surviving child, Miss Hannah, from whose information some important points in our knowledge of the Boston branch of the family are derived. Mrs. Gowen died in 1809, aged 65 ; her grave is at Weston. Children, none of whom but Mrs. Ricketson and, perhaps, Hammond W., seem to have left heirs :

- 306    HANNAH GOLDTHWAIT<sup>6</sup>, b. Sept. 29, 1774 ; d. "May 23, 1870, aet. 95 years, 8 mos." (gr. st., Weston). When past her 87th birthday, at the request of Mrs. Charles Hayward, dau. of her cousin, Mrs. Esther Dorr, she wrote out her valuable recollections of the Goldthwaite family, to which reference has been here many times made. She took great interest and great pride in these relatives.

         Samuel Goldthwaite.
- 314     POLLY BOURN, b. Mch. 4, 1785.
- 315     CATHERINE BARTON.

121. Elizabeth<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Ezekiel<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in Boston, Aug. 29, 1735, married, July 12, 1763, REV. ALEXANDER CUMMINGS, minister of the Old South Church, Boston. He died after a pastorate of two years. Mr. Cummings was a graduate of the College of New Jersey, afterwards Princeton, and had studied under the celebrated William Tennant. The history of the church says of him that he "was a man of a remarkably clear and discriminating mind, a close student, and an instructive and excellent preacher." After his death Mrs. Cummings married, Nov. 11, 1771, REV. JOHN BACON, her husband's successor in the pastorate of the Old South, where he was installed in 1771 and remained about four and a half years. He was of honorable ancestry, a descendant of Nathaniel Bacon of Barnstable, and was born in Canterbury, Conn., in 1737. He graduated at the College of New Jersey in 1765, and preached for some time in Somerset Co., Md., where he married for his first wife Gertrude Rousby of Maryland, by whom he had a daughter Mary, born on her mother's plantation on the Pocomoke River, who married, at Stockbridge, May 5, 1796, David Sherman Farrand, son of Rev. Daniel and Jerusha (Boardman) Farrand of Canaan, Conn., and removed to New York State, where she died in Newark Valley, Feb. 25, 1844, aged 74.* Rev. John Bacon, or Judge Bacon, as he was afterwards called, left Boston in 1775, and settled in Stockbridge, Mass., where, though occasionally preaching, he was afterwards almost constantly engaged in some civil office. He was several times a member of both branches of the legislature, was president of the senate in the year 1803-4, a member of Congress from 1801 to 1803, and a judge of the county court of Berkshire for more than twenty years. He was a man of strong powers of mind, and of liberal views far in advance of those prevailing in his time.* He died at Stockbridge in 1820, in the 84th year of his age. Mrs. Bacon died in 1821, in the 88th year of her age. Her portrait by Copley is in possession of her descendants. Judge Ezekiel Bacon, her son, in an autobiographical sketch, speaks of her as a woman of strong character and affections. Children, all by Judge Bacon :

317 ELIZABETH, d. in infancy.

318 EZEKIEL, (Hon.), b. Sept. 1, 1776, in Boston; d. Oct. 18, 1870, aged 94, in Utica, N. Y. He entered Yale College at the age of 14, graduated in 1794, read law at the Litchfield Law School, and practiced several years in Berkshire Co. He was a member of the Mass. legislature in 1806 and 1807, representative in Congress from 1807 to 1813, and was then appointed chief justice of the Circuit Court of Common Pleas for the Western district of Massachusetts, holding the office till appointed by Pres. Madison comptroller of the treasury of the United States. Ill health soon obliged him to resign this office, and he removed to New York, settling in Utica in 1816. Here he represented Oneida County one year in the legislature, was two years judge of the Common Pleas, and was a member of the constitutional convention of 1821. He was at the time of his death the oldest living graduate of Yale, and the oldest surviving member of Congress. While studying law at Litchfield he became acquainted with his wife, Miss Abigail Smith, daughter of the Rev. Reuben Smith, D.D., of that town. They were married Oct. 6, 1799, and lived together 63 years, when she died at the age of 83. "He was a man of great liberality and an enthusiastic worker in many branches of humane and Christian labor." His children were :

1 John. Henry, b. 1801; d. 1834; m. Sarah Paine, who d. 1895. Their children were: (1) Ellen Smith; m. Mr. Gris-

There is good reason for believing that he was the son James (born June 20, 1741) of Rev. James Bridgham of Brimfield, who married, 2d, Mary Goldthwaite, Martha's aunt. Mrs. Bridgham survived her husband many years. Children :

1772, JOHN WILLIAMS, son of John and Elizabeth Williams. John Williams, his father, was inspector-general of customs under the Crown. His mansion stood at the corner of Winter and Tremont streets, the land extending back to Hamilton Place. This was one of the houses mobbed in 1768, when resistance was being made to the new duties imposed by Parliament. It was afterwards the residence of Earl Percy, while commander of the British forces in Boston. Mrs. Katharine Williams was left a widow at nineteen, with one infant son. She lived to the age of 88, dying in 1842. Child:

Mrs. Williams was early left a widow, her only child being born after the death of her husband. This daughter was of very lovely character and quite accomplished for her time. Grief for her loss so overwhelmed her mother that she survived her only six weeks, dying in Apr., 1805.

322 ELIZA<sup>6</sup>, b. 1781; d. 1805, at the age of 24.

ment; was brigade-major in Rhode Island, Sept. to Dec., 1778, and was appointed, by Congress, Judge-Advocate-General of the army, Sept. 28, 1781. After the Revolution he resumed practice in Boston. He was a member of the Mass. Order of the Cincinnati, delivered the oration before it, July 4, 1792, and was its secretary from 1786 to his death, a period of twenty years. He was a useful citizen and a man of sterling integrity. His home in Boston was near that of Mr Ezekiel Goldthwaite, his father-in-law, on Middle (now Hanover) street, then the court end of the town. Mrs. Edwards died May 18, 1796, and Judge Edwards married, 2d, in 1801, Mrs. Mary Jewett, by whom he had two sons, now dead, John and William Eustice Edwards, who were, at one time, editors of the Portland Advertiser. An interesting portrait of Judge Edwards is found in the Memorials of the Mass. Order of the Cincinnati. He died in Boston Aug. 4, 1806. Children :

145. Catharine<sup>5</sup> Goldthwaite (Thomas<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in Boston Jan. 5, 1744, married at Pool, England, Oct. 26, 1784, DR. SYLVESTER GARDNER of Boston, who was born in 1707, in South Kingston, R. I. Dr. Gardner had been before twice married: first, to Anne, daughter of Dr. John Gibbons of Boston, and second, to Abigail Eppes of Virginia, who died in London. He had six children by his former marriage, one of whom was Dr. Gardner, long rector of Trinity church, Boston. Dr. Sylvester Gardner was a noted physician and surgeon, and had fitted for the practice of medicine in England and France. He was a man of broad and liberal views, great zeal, energy, and public spirit, and much respected in Boston. He acquired great wealth, and became proprietor of a large domain in Maine, where he founded the town of Gardiner, named after him. At the outbreak of the Revolution he cast in his lot with the loyalists, went to Halifax and afterwards to England, where, after the death of his wife, he married Catharine Goldthwaite, who was then living in Bristol with her step-mother's brother, Henry Barnes, by whom she had been adopted and with whom she had resided many years at his home in Marlboro, Mass. The year after their marriage, in 1785, Dr. Gardner and his wife returned to the United States, settling at Newport, R. I., where he died the following year, Aug. 8, 1786, in his 80th year. In the spring of 1789 Mrs. Gardner married MR. WILLIAM POWELL, a merchant of Boston, whose former wife, Mary, daughter of Edward Bromfield, had died in the same year as Dr. Gardner. By her, Mr. Powell had two daughters, one of whom married Jonathan Mason of Boston, and the other, Thomas Perkins. Mr. Powell died about 1805. Mrs. Catharine Goldthwaite Powell had no children of her own, but adopted her niece, Catharine Archibald, daughter of her sister Mary, later adopting also Catharine's two older daughters. After the death of Dr. Gardner she went on a visit to her father in England, under the escort of her cousin, Dr. Gowen. Her home during the latter part of her life was the house still standing on the south corner of Beacon and Walnut streets. Here she died early in 1830, at the age of 86.

* I am indebted for information concerning the Dolliver family to Mr. William H. Dolliver of Gloucester, a grandson of William, son of Capt. Peter Dolliver by his first wife, Abigail Ingersol. He has made a thorough study of the whole family, and before my coming into communication with him in 1895, had, after long search, succeeded in tracing the descendants of Capt. Peter's second wife, Esther Goldthwaite, as here given. He finds the name originally Dalbyr, and that the American family comes from Robert Dalbyr, who died, 1633, at Stoke Abbot, Dorset. The Dollivers of Gloucester sprang from his son, Samuel<sup>1</sup>, of Marblehead and Gloucester (m. Mary Elwell). Samuel's son, William<sup>2</sup>, married Ann, dau. of Rev. John Higginson of Salem, and their son, Peter<sup>3</sup>, father of Capt. Peter<sup>4</sup>, Esther's husband, married Abigail, dau. of Capt. Thomas Sanders, ancestor of the Sanders family of Gloucester, between whom and both the Dolliver and Sargent families (the latter that of Esther's mother) there were numerous intermarriages.

wife, Abigail Ingersoll, had died about 1767, leaving sons, Peter (m. Harriet, dau. of Hon. Thos. Sanders), William (m. Elizabeth, dau. Col. Joseph Foster), and Joseph. Capt. Peter Dolliver was a mariner, and was in command of ships both before and after the Revolution. He died in 1805. The time of Esther's death is unknown, but it probably took place a number of years before that of her husband, when her children were young. Her sons, Thomas and Henry Dolliver, are mentioned in the will of their aunt, Mrs. Powell. They are omitted as children of Esther in an account of Col. Thos. Goldthwaite in Maine Hist. Soc. Proceedings. Children (by Capt. Rogers):

- 331 TIMOTHY<sup>6</sup>, b. 1766, the year his father died. In the summer of 1791, when 25 years of age, he was visiting his grandfather, Col. Thomas Goldthwait, and his family in England, being then in command of a ship, probably in the merchant service. He afterwards entered the British navy, and died at Lisbon in 1797, "a gallant and highly esteemed officer of the fleet of Earl St. Vincent." (Hist. of Gloucester.) His portrait is said to be in the possession of one of the sons of his half-brother, Thomas Dolliver.

(By Capt. Dolliver):

- 332 THOMAS GOLDTHWAIT, bapt. 1st Ch., Gloucester, Mch. 8, 1772; was a sailmaker in Boston, where he m., Oct. 20, 1796, Sally Cooledge, after whose death he m., Feb. 9, 1816, Mary B. Emerson. He is said to have been the father of twenty-one children, some of whom died in infancy; those who lived to maturity were, by 1st wife: Charlotte<sup>7</sup>, Thomas, Esther, Catherine, Sarah, Abigail, Joseph, Julia, Harriet. By 2d wife: Peter, Mary, Amelia, Elizabeth, Charles, James, Timothy, John Sargent, Fannie.
- 333 HENRY,* bapt. 1st Ch., Gloucester, June 6, 1774; m. in New York

* An interesting account of Henry and of his own discovery and identification of his descendants, is given by my correspondent, Mr. W. H. Dolliver of Gloucester. When a very small boy (probably not long after his mother's death), Henry left home, went to New York and became a sailor, following the sea till he at length became master and owner of a ship. It happened during the War of 1812 that my informant's father, William Henry Dolliver, and his brother, Joseph Foster Dolliver, were taken prisoners and confined in Dartmoor Prison, England, where they found a man of their own name, a ship captain, who, upon comparing notes, proved to be the boys' uncle, the long-lost Henry Dolliver.

148. Thomas<sup>5</sup> Goldthwaite (Thomas<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Fort Pownal, Me., Walthamstow, England, and Boston, Mass., was born, probably, in Chelsea, Mass., June 4, 1750, and baptized in Trinity Church, Boston, June 17th of the same year, one of his sponsors being Josiah Quincy. During part of the time when his father was commander of Fort Pownal, Thomas was Lieutenant of the garrison there, and he had also during that period a trading house near the mouth of the Kenduskeag. At the opening of the Revolution, he took sides with the king, and went to England, where, as appears from Gov. Hutchinson's diary, he arrived in the latter part of the year 1779, a few months before his father. He married, July 24, 1780, MRS. SARAH (WOOD)

Joseph, having some talent as an artist, painted, during their confinement, a picture of the prison, and also one of his uncle, copies of which seem to have been kept by the latter. When, a few years since, Mr. W. H. Dolliver became interested in the history of his family, he came into correspondence with Rev. James Jones Dolliver of Fort Dodge, Iowa, who, in answering inquiries, gave the name of his father as Henry, and mentioned the Dartmoor Prison incident of his father's meeting there the two lads, and of the painting of the pictures which were still in a branch of his family. A search in the attic of the old homestead in Gloucester, still inhabited by Dollivers, and where some of each generation, since the first Peter, have been born, brought to light the duplicates of these pictures, till then almost forgotten. Rev. James Jones Dolliver, who is a Presbyterian minister, is the father of Miss Margaret Gay Dolliver of Fort Dodge, and of the Hon. Jonathan Prentiss Dolliver, Member of Congress from Iowa, now serving his fourth term at Washington as representative of the tenth Congressional District of that State. He married, in 1895, Miss Louisa Pearsons, only daughter of Hon. Geo. B. Pearsons, a leading citizen of Fort Dodge, and a niece of Hon. D. K. Pearsons, the noted philanthropist of Chicago.

PRIMATT, and took up his residence in Walthamstow, Essex, a few miles north of London, where he devoted himself to farming pursuits; the house in which he lived at that time is still standing. There were no children of this marriage. He married 2d, in 1791, ANNE WILSON, born in 1774, daughter of Rev. Mr. Wilson of Woodbridge, Suffolk, England, a Baptist minister. When their oldest child was six weeks old, in 1792, they sailed for America, landed at Portsmouth, Va., lived for some years at Hudson, N. Y., then at Dalton, N. H., and later removed to Boston, where their children were educated. Mr. Goldthwaite returned to England on business about 1810, and died while away. His widow continued to live in Boston till about 1828, when, with her younger children, she went South to Montgomery, Ala., where her sons, John and Henry, were then settled. She lived to her 90th year, and died in Baltimore, where she lies buried, June 6, 1863. She is said to have been very handsome, and was a woman of remarkable character and great intellect. She is said to have had wonderful powers of narration. Many of her characteristics were inherited in large degree by her children and grandchildren, many of whom have become prominent in their various callings in the South and elsewhere.

riage, and his wife, losing her reason, as is supposed, in consequence, never recovered from the shock. They had two children :

- 340 THOMAS GOLDTHWAITE<sup>6</sup>; he is spoken of in the will of his aunt, Mrs. Bright, made Sept. 24, 1825, as "now or late of Boston, in the United States." He is said to have gone to England, and never to have been heard from afterwards.

Nathaniel died of old age, Apr. 2, 1842, aged 88 (?). Their home was the old homestead of Nathaniel's father, still standing in Peabody not far from the town square, and made over to him, the only surviving son, by deeds, in 1779 and 1780. Nathaniel and his brother Ebenezer, then 23 and 21 years old, were two of the four Goldthwaites who marched from Danvers in the Lexington Alarm. In that battle he saw his brother shot down at his side, an experience which remained deeply fixed in his mind through all his long after-life. He often rehearsed the story of his brother's death, telling how Ebenezer, after he was shot, called to him to take him up and carry him away, and how, as he was about to do so, a British soldier, coming up, thrust his bayonet into his brother, and he fell back dead. As Nathaniel grew old, he dwelt more and more on this subject, often speaking of the last look his brother gave him as something that would never pass out of his memory. He served afterwards at different times during the Revolution. His name is on a roll, approved January 28, 1777, of Capt. James Prentiss' company, Col. Samuel Brewer's regiment, who were discharged at Saratoga and sent to their homes after the surrender of Burgoyne, the mileage allowed him being 237 miles. He afterward served on the brig Lexington, commanded by David Smith, Jr., where he is enrolled as a sailor, Oct. 2, 1780, and described as 24 years old (should have been 28), of Danvers, 5 ft. 8 in. high, and of dark complexion. 162. Rebecca<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Nathaniel<sup>4</sup>, Nathaniel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in 1763 in South Danvers, where she was baptized Apr. 24, 1763, married, Sept. 29, 1782, WILLIAM ROBERTS, born in Martha's Vineyard in 1759. Mr. Roberts was a mariner. Two letters, written by him to Rebecca, are in the possession of their descendants. In the first, dated Apr. 23, 1782, at Brigtown, in the Barbadoes, he speaks of himself as having then been a prisoner there ten weeks. Having been set at liberty, he returned home and was married, but one year after, according to a second letter, dated Apr. 8, 1783, at Carlisle Bay, Barbadoes, he was then again in prison. Returning home in 1784, as mate of a vessel, with

Capt. Jacob Wilds, he was lost at sea. Rebecca afterwards married JOHN OSBORN of South Danvers, who died Nov. 16, 1819, aged 56. Rebecca died July 30, 1824, aged 61 (gravestones in Peabody). She had one child only, by her first husband :

- 359 WILLIAM<sup>6</sup>, b. Sept. 3, 1783; m. June 23, 1805, Sally Sanderson, dau. of Elijah Sanderson* of Salem. William died Mch. 30, 1872, in his 89th year. His descendants are living in Salem.

* Mr. Sanderson was a deacon of the Old North church, Salem, and with his brother Jacob carried on an extensive business as a cabinet-maker there, shipping his goods to foreign ports. At the outbreak of the Revolution he lived in Lexington, and was a member of Capt. Parker's famous company in the battle of April 19th. He was also one of three young men who, on the evening previous, volunteered to follow a party of British officers who passed through the town, it was feared for the purpose of seizing Hancock and Adams and carrying them to Boston, the intention being to ascertain their object and return with information. During this pursuit they fell in with Paul Revere and one or two other patriots, out on similar errands, and with them were intercepted and kept for several hours under guard by a party of the British whom they met. Mr. Sanderson's deposition regarding the events of that night and the day following, as they came under his observation, dated Dec. 17, 1824, is printed in Elias Phinney's History of the Battle of Lexington.

170. Thomas<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Thomas<sup>5</sup>, Thomas<sup>4</sup>, Samuel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Champion, Jefferson Co., N. Y., was born in Springfield, Mass., Feb. 23, 1764. His mother died when he was an infant, and his father, having married again, lost his second wife when Thomas was about eleven years old, the family afterwards becoming separated, while the father joined the Revolutionary army. Thomas was probably brought up in some family in Western Massachusetts or Connecticut, where his father had placed him previous to his enlistment. After coming of age, he emigrated (family tradition says from Connecticut) to Whitestown, Oneida Co., N. Y., living in or near that part which became the town of Paris. He removed later to Champion, Jefferson Co. He married, probably in Whitestown, PHOEBE BROOKS, said to have been born in Salem, Mass., and to have had brothers, Jabez, Abner, and Russell Harvey Brooks (b. 1783). About 1837 Mr. Goldthwaite removed to Ohio with the family of his daughter Lucy, and died there in 1845. He wrote his name Gouldthrite, and his descendants still keep to a similar spelling. It has been one of the results of these researches that the history and family of Thomas have become known to his brothers' descendants, whose only previous record of him was in the words, "at the West."

Jan. 27, 1789), RACHEL SNOW. His mother dying when he was nine years old, Elijah was brought up among her relatives in Granby. He was a farmer, working for fifty-nine years on the same farm, for fifty summers in succession without a day of sickness. He and his wife were respected inhabitants of the town. They were both fine singers, and their house, which is remembered as the perfection of neatness, was a favorite gathering-place where the young people came to sing. * The Conant Genealogy gives: Lovina, b. Sept. 28, 1832, dau. of John and Ruth (Goldthwait) Kenney, m. in Gouverneur, N. Y., Feb. 2, 1850, Rodney T. Conant.

Ashley of Westfield, innholder. Becoming of age, August, 1789, John joined himself, probably the next year, to General Rufus Putnam, who had taken the lead of that company, famous in the history of Ohio as making the first settlement in that State, having already conducted thither its first detachment, which had landed where Marietta now stands Apr. 7, 1788. Gen. Putnam did not remove his family till 1790, and it was probably then that John Goldthwaite went, though still of Westfield at the beginning of the year. In 1798 he removed from Marietta and settled in Fairfield county, at a place five miles east of New Baltimore on the Ohio canal. He early engaged in the nursery business, at first with Gen. Putnam, and continued it on his own account during most of his life, introducing the raising of fine fruits in his section. In his earlier years at the West he combined with this occupation school teaching during the winter, teaching the first school of the place where he settled. He married MARY CRAWFORD from near Lancaster, Fairfield county, born in the Shenandoah Valley in Loudon Co., Virginia. Her parents were of old Presbyterian stock from the north of Ireland, and had come early to Virginia, removing thence to Northwestern Pennsylvania, and finally to Central Ohio. Both Mr. Goldthwaite and his wife, as well as most of their children, were earnest members of the Methodist church, several of them lay-preachers. He died March 18, 1829, in his sixty-first year, respected in his community as an upright, honorable man. In 1837 his widow, with all their children except the two oldest, removed to Marion, Indiana, where they were among the first settlers of that city, then but a small village. Many of their descendants now live there and are among the best citizens of the town. Mrs. Goldthwaite died in September, 1847, aged 62. She is described as a tall, slender, good-looking woman with blue eyes. She had a brother who died in Blackford Co., Ind. John Goldthwaite and his sons wrote their name Goldthait. Children :

173. Lieut. Erastus<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Thomas<sup>5</sup>, Thomas<sup>4</sup>, Samuel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Longmeadow, Mass., was born in Springfield June 6, 1772. After the death of his mother when he was three and a half years old, and the enlistment of his father in the Revolutionary army, he was brought up in the family of Col. Jonathan Hale* of Longmeadow. He married, Apr. 26, 1798, RHODA BURT of Longmeadow, born May 3, 1776, the sixth of fourteen children of Elijah and Deborah (Colton) Burt. On her father's side she was a descendant, in the sixth generation, from Henry Burt of Springfield, the first of the name there, and on her mother's, from Quartermaster George Colton (m. Deborah Gardner), a first settler of that part of Springfield called Longmeadow. Capt. Thomas Colton, son of Quartermaster George, was her great-grandfather. Of him it is said, in the old Longmeadow record, that the Rev. Dr. Williams, pastor of the church, preached a sermon after his death, "in which he gave Capt. Colton a very extraordinary character, as having been a man eminently useful in his day, especially in the Indian wars, and as a man of eminent piety." Among Mrs. Goldthwaite's other New England ancestors were William Markham, Thomas Hale, Luke Hitchcock, Thomas Bliss, William Chandler, George Abbott. She was a woman of gentle character and modest piety, as is evidenced by her letters still preserved. She died in early married life, Apr. 24, 1804, in her 28th year, leaving three children, the eldest not yet five and the youngest an infant of one month. Of these, the second died in less than a month after the mother, and the third less than a year later, leaving the father with one little son, Flavel. The depth of his bereavement is shown by his own words in a letter to this son many years after, when, in giving an account of the death, in 1819, of his beloved pastor, Rev. Richard Salter Storrs, with whom he had spent the last night of his life, he says :

* The Hale family was an influential one in Longmeadow; some of them were merchants there. Col. Jonathan Hale, b. Jan. 24, 1738, son of Jonathan and Lydia (Ely) Hale, married, June 13, 1765, Mary, dau. of Samuel and Mary (Colton) Keep. They had no children. Col. Hale was Lieutenant of the company that marched at the Lexington Alarm; was justice of the peace, selectman, town clerk, and treasurer. He died March 9, 1806, and his widow July 22, 1816.

"I feel constrained to drop a tear at the recollection of his kindness and tenderness to me in days that are past, when the waves of affliction were rolling over me. How did he try to assuage my grief by the consolation that the Bible affords! With what earnestness did he besiege the throne of grace in my behalf!"

After an interval of nearly four years, during which one or another of his wife's unmarried sisters cared for his family, he married, Jan. 14, 1808, HANNAH COLTON, born Feb. 7, 1782, daughter of Dea. William and Hannah (Colton) Colton. She was a cousin of his first wife, their mothers having been sisters, while her father was a great-grandson of the same Captain Thomas Colton, before spoken of. The son Flavel was not yet nine when his father married, and it was his often repeated testimony, in after years, that he was never for a moment made to realize that the new mother was not his own, while the warm affection felt for him by his brothers and sisters, as they grew up, which made any mention of him, by others, as a half-brother, very distasteful, testified further to the unity existing in the family. As the eldest grandchild, spending, from earliest recollection, a portion of every summer in my grandfather's home, the writer can warmly testify to the excellence of this grandmother. I well remember her gentleness and kindness; she was always a peacemaker, and never did I hear from her lips an impatient word — all this too, one could not doubt, was the outshining of the light of the Christian life within. She was always bright and cheerful, and beautifully blended with her piety was a large fund of native humor. One of her distinguishing traits was her great love of music, which she had an ear to hear as well in the sounds of nature as of art. Her last sickness was a long-continued one, resulting from heart disease, during which she had periods of great distress. When recovering from such an attack, nothing soothed her more than music. To hear her son Jonathan play for her on the piano, with his fine touch, some of the good old tunes she loved, seemed an inexpressible comfort and alleviation of pain. She died Aug. 19, 1847, in her 65th year.

Mr. Goldthwaite was a man of superior intelligence, and had well improved such opportunities as he had had for study, to which advantages were added those of an environment of more than usual cultivation for a country town. Longmeadow, from the attractiveness of its situation, the beauty of its town street, and its nearness to the city, has always drawn to itself a superior class of residents. The character of its people was also largely influenced by the two ministers of rare quality who, up to 1819, were pastors of the Longmeadow church, their united pastorates covering a period of exactly 100 years. The first was Dr. Stephen Williams, "of a famous family, eminent in all professions," who, during his sixty-six years' ministry, "laid the deep impress of his rare social culture and wide acquaintance on the parish." He was followed by a man of equal excellence, Rev. Richard Salter Storrs, the first of three successive generations of ministers of that name now famous in the history of the American pulpit. Of Mr. Goldthwaite's character, formed under influences like these acting upon his native qualities of mind and heart, glimpses may be obtained, through his letters to his oldest son in Hartford, such as one written on the latter's coming of age, beginning, "Has the long thought-of and wished-for day arrived! — a day which I have looked forward to, from the day of your birth, with mixed emotions of hope and fear," and filled with wise fatherly counsel appropriate to that period of his life ; or another, in reply to one in which his son, then twenty years old, had consulted him on the advisability of entering on a course of study in preparation for the ministry, showing the father's wisdom and sound sense, in such sentences as these : "It is a subject which ought to be very seriously and prayerfully attended to. . . . In my opinion, many undertake to preach who would probably be much more useful in some other employment. . . . Many seem to think, on becoming serious, they have a call to enter on this sacred employment, without considering that there are other ways in which they can promote the good of that cause which lies near their hearts," and ending, "I say not these things to dissuade you from study, if it is thought best, but for your consideration, hoping soon to have an opportunity to converse with you on this and other subjects."

He was earnest in his Christian life, and had deeply at heart a desire for the prosperity and advancement of the kingdom of God. His letters are full of this concern, now rejoicing over the encouraging signs of interest in religion, and again lamenting a prevailing indifference in regard to it. Morning and evening the Bible was read and prayer offered in his family, and at the weekly gatherings of the church his voice was often heard ; yet he was of an exceedingly modest and humble spirit, far from wishing to put himself forward. He had thought much on the doctrines of the Gospel as they were understood in his day, and had his firm beliefs in regard to them. He was a man of the warmest family affection, and, while firm in enforcing parental authority, treated his children with a loving indulgence and was never happier than in making sacrifices for their good. He was through life a farmer, in earlier days varying the occupation by keeping school during the winter months. His home and the birthplace of his children was in the part of the town street near its center, but he later purchased the old homestead of his wife's father, with the adjoining farm, land laid out to

LIEUT. ERASTUS GOLDTHWAITE.

From miniature by Fairchild.

Capt. Thomas Colton in the early settlement of the town, and situated a mile south of the church on the main road, there called Green street. Its situation was one of uncommon beauty on the brow of a hill with a grove of fine trees on the declivity next the road, and in the deep front yard behind the grove a noble elm, whose wide-reaching, drooping branches overhung the house, which was painted red in its earlier days and had its roof sloping down behind to the first story.

"Erastus Goldthwait, Gentleman," was commissioned "Lieutenant of a company in the First Regiment of Infantry, in the First Brigade, Fourth Division of the Militia of this Commonwealth," June 7, 1806, by Gov. Caleb Strong. He died May 18, 1848, at the age of 76, less than a year after the death of his wife. His health had for some time been failing, and with it the mind, too, had gradually given way. Children (by 1st wife) :

383 + FLAVEL<sup>7</sup>, b. June 12, 1799; m. Jane Boardman.

384 RHODA, b. Aug. 15, 1801; d. May 8, 1804.

385 JONATHAN HALE, b. Mar. 28, 1804; d. Feb. 21, 1805.

By 2d wife :

386 RHODA BURT, b. Jan. 23, 1809; d. unm., aged 70, Aug. 29, 1879.

She was a woman of strong character and of eminently unselfish life. After the death of her father and mother, whom she had affectionately cared for in their declining years, she devoted herself to the interests of her brother's family, occupying an important place in the large household of her brother William, and deeply attached to all her nephews and nieces, who regarded her, in return, with warm affection.

387 + JONATHAN HALE, b. May 21, 1811; m. Susan L. Joy.

388 + WILLIAM COLTON, b. May 1, 1816; m. Julia Hebard.

- 453 HOSEA<sup>1</sup>, m. Sally Studley of Leicester; a dau Maria, m. Mr. Woods and lived in Springfield, Mass.

204. Dea. Thomas<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Stephen<sup>5</sup>, Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Ezekiel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Northbridge, Mass., born there April 30, 1769, married ELIZABETH SHEPARD, who had one child, and died Nov. 8, 1796, in her 22d year, according to her gravestone. He married 2d, MARY HARDY. He was chosen deacon of the Congregational church in Northbridge,

May 28, 1803, resigned about 1832, and died April 22, 1846, aged 77 years. An account of the church in Northbridge says of him and of his brother Obed, who succeeded him as deacon, that "they were respected as consistent Christians, and as men of great integrity and uprightness." Deacon Thomas's home was a house, still standing in Northbridge, which he bought of Thomas Straight, and which, in the early years of the town, was a public house. Mary, the widow of Dea. Thomas, died July 20, 1853, aged 80 years. Children by 1st wife :

- 458    VERY<sup>7</sup>, b. Apr. 24, 1795. He became insane in early life, and when twenty-one years old, Nov. 15, 1816, his father was on that account appointed his guardian. Two years later, Nov. 25, 1818, according to the probate record, the guardianship was given up, his "inability being removed." Tradition in different branches of the Uxbridge family has preserved the fact that his cure was the result of treatment by Doctor Joseph Goldthwaite of New Salem, his father's cousin, at that time well known as a specialist in mental diseases. Very had property in his own right, inherited through his mother, and followed through life the business of a traveling merchant, carrying, it would seem, a superior class of wares. The compiler was told by a Northbridge lady that her mother bought her wedding silver of Very. His death took place in Michigan, while he was in that State on his business. He never married.

By second wife :

- 459 + THOMAS, b. Aug. 10, 1798; m. Abigail ———.

MRS. NANCY LEE, widow of Ephraim Lee of Mendon, and daughter of Jonathan and Reliance (Pain) Nichols of Holden.* She died Sept. 4, 1858, aged 65. Deacon Obed, her husband, had died Aug. 29, 1858, less than one week before, aged 81. He was a man much respected for his upright, Christian character; was chosen deacon of the Northbridge church Jan. 5, 1832, and, after serving 16 years, resigned Feb. 4, 1848. He lived on the homestead of his father and grandfather (deeded to him by the former Sept. 23, 1809), which is now the residence of his son Zadock. Children (by first wife):

1790) LUCY COLTON of Springfield, born, probably in Longmeadow, Sept. 20, 1769, daughter of Charles Colton of that town and Lucy Parsons, his wife, daughter of Moses and Hannah Parsons of Enfield, Conn. Mrs. Goldthwaite was brought up in the family of Luke Bliss in Springfield, living there till her marriage. She well remembered the events of Shay's Rebellion. She joined the church in Peru, by letter, Oct. 6, 1799, and was a woman of great excellence. Daniel Goldthwaite was a tanner by occupation, the only one in the town in his time; his home was near his father's, about half a mile east of the church, on the north side of the highway, where its cellar is still to be seen. When living in Northbridge, he enlisted, March 2, 1781, at the age of sixteen, in Captain Job Knap's company, and served seventeen days in the Rhode Island Alarm. He died of old age in 1852, aged 87 years. His wife had died in 1847, five years before, of old people's consumption. Children:

215. Dr. Joseph<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Joseph<sup>6</sup>, Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Ezekiel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of New Salem, Mass., born in Northbridge, and baptized Feb. 5, 1769, settled early in New Salem, where he is found mentioned as a physician in a record of July

10, 1795. He married, about 1791, CYNTHIA BALLARD, who was of New Salem, and is said to have been cured by Dr. Joseph, before her marriage, of a very dangerous illness, when she had been given up as past help by a council of doctors. Where he studied medicine is not known, but he seems to have been very successful in all departments of his profession, being a skillful surgeon, and especially fortunate also in his treatment of mental diseases. For the latter purpose he was often called to other towns to attend patients at their homes. His method seems to have been to first reduce their strength to a very low point, with the result that reason would then return, after which strength was again built up by judicious treatment, health, both of body and mind, being thus restored. It is said that during the first week of his treatment he never left his patient. Great importance was, in that day, attached to inducing profuse perspiration as a means of cure for many kinds of disease, and this Dr. Joseph is said to have had unfailing success in doing by means of a medicine, of whose composition he alone knew the secret, refusing to impart it to any one. The reason he gave for this refusal was that the drug was of so powerful a nature that he was afraid to trust the knowledge to others who might not have judgment in its use. He had many offers of money in payment for this secret, which he invariably refused. He would only say of it that it consisted of three very common ingredients. He was a man of good mind and remarkable memory, able, after reading a book, to give its whole contents. His practice was a very profitable one, but his negligence in collecting his bills prevented his reaping the fruits of it. In the History of Farmington, Me., in a sketch of Dr. Thomas Dawes Blake of that town, it is said of him: "He had the advantage of a thorough medical training under Dr. Joseph Goldthwaite, a celebrated physician of Petersham*, with whom he practiced for a time."

* Petersham is the adjoining town to New Salem, and hence the error; there is no evidence of Dr. Joseph's ever having lived there.

Dr. Joseph's wife, Cynthia, died in 1814, aged 46. He married, 2d, REBECCA ———, who survived him many years, and died about 1845. He died in 1822, administration on his estate being granted Oct. 8th of that year. His gravestone and that of his wife Cynthia are in New Salem. Children :

- 518 JOSEPH<sup>1</sup>, b. about 1792. He received, by deed of April 25, 1814, from Jeremiah Ballard of New Salem, gent. (probably his grandfather), all his farm, with buildings. This property, with other land, he sold May 14, 1825, to the trustees of the New Salem Academy, then calling himself "of Southbridge, county of Worcester."
- 519 CYNTHIA, unmarried; she at one time taught school in New Salem; d. about 1844.

217. Ruth<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Joseph<sup>6</sup>, Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Ezekiel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in Northbridge, Mass., and baptized May 2, 1773, went, at the age of twenty, with her father's family, to Peru, Mass., where she married (int. pub. March 16, 1796) WILLIAM FRISSELL, JR., of that town. She was received into the church there May 22, 1808, her husband being also a member, and on June 23d of that year they had baptized their five oldest children. Mr. Frissell died Apr. 21, 1811, in his 41st year, and Ruth married afterwards Mr. Street of Hinsdale, after whose death she returned to Peru, where she lived with her son William, and died about 1836. Children :

- 520 EBENEZER<sup>1</sup>, b. Feb. 26, 1798; d. Aug. 18, 1808, æ. 10 y. 5 mos.

- 525 AMANDA, bapt. May 14, 1809; m., as 2d wife, Rev. Mr. Wisner, whose 1st wife was her cousin Judith, daughter of Amasa Frissell, and who had been a home missionary in Arkansas, settling later not far from Chester, O.
- 526 WILLIAM, bapt. Oct. 21, 1810; m. Feb. 18, 1833, Chloe Ann Cooper; d. May 7, 1838. They settled, in 1836, in Woburn, Mass.

- 527 EBENEZER GARDNER<sup>7</sup>, b. Oct. 30, 1820; m. July 20, 1845, in Wakefield, Harriet Augusta, dau. of James and Elizabeth Peavere, from whom he afterwards parted. 219. Benjamin<sup>o</sup> Goldthwaite (Joseph<sup>o</sup>, Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Ezekiel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of West Winfield, Herkimer Co., New York, born in Northbridge, Mass., Mch. 10, 1776, went with his father's family to Peru, Mass., where he seems to have been living in 1805, soon after, probably, removing to the State of New York. He married, March 5, 1809, ORPHA CURTIS, born Nov. 5, 1786, in Chautauqua Co., N. Y., daughter of Benjamin and Ruth Curtis. West Winfield was on the direct road between Albany and Buffalo, at that time a plank turn-pike maintained by the State. The country about was still covered with woods in which were wolves and other wild animals, and the family experienced much of the hardship and danger incident to the new settlement. Benjamin was a pump-maker by trade, part of his business consisting in the making and laying of pump-logs, then largely used for conveying water for manufacturing and other purposes. Mrs. Goldthwaite was a woman of strong character and kind disposition, a member of the Freewill Baptist church, and an earnest worker in the Sunday-school. Benjamin died May 23, 1840, aged 64 yrs. 2 mos. 13 d., and his wife Jan. 27, 1850; gravestones at West Winfield. Children:

Montague, afterwards in the town of Wendell, Franklin Co. In 1812 he calls himself of Charlton, Worcester Co., and in 1813 of the town of Worcester. He sold out the last of his property in Franklin Co. Apr. 15, 1813, afterwards going to Michigan, where he lived some thirty-five years, then returning home for a visit. Nothing definite is known of him after he went back; he is said to have died among the Indians. He is remembered by those who saw him during his visit as an agreeable and well-educated man. He has the following children in the Peru records, all baptized Aug. 10, 1800:

- 538 NATHAN TAFT<sup>7</sup>.
 539 SENECA, b. Aug. 31, 1793(?).
 540 OSEA, b. Mch. 3, 1799.

221. Calvin<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Joseph<sup>5</sup>, Samuel<sup>4</sup>, Ezekiel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Peru and Savoy, Mass., born in what is now Northbridge, Mch. 16, 1784, married in Peru, May 30, 1811, HANNAH TURNER of that town, daughter of Elijah Turner. He joined the church there May 22, 1808. He early removed to Savoy, in the same county, where his wife's family also settled. The baptism of one child of Calvin is in Peru church records. He died and was buried in Peru, his death occurring, according to his gravestone, May 14, 1825, at the age of 41 (family record says Aug. 14th). Hannah, his widow, died Dec. 3, 1860. Children:

Mr. Goldthwaite was, by occupation, a potter, a business extensively carried on formerly in Danvers, as has been mentioned. He died Sept., 1851, at the age of 80. His widow died in 1861, at the age of 88.

It is due to the interest which John Goldthwaite took in the history of his family that we have to-day reliable information concerning it on points as to which our knowledge would otherwise now be dim or entirely lacking. Living in the original home of the Goldthwaites in New England, and at a time when definite information about the earlier generations of the family could be obtained from persons still living, he made good use of these opportunities, and left a record* of its various branches, with their places of settlement, which subsequent research, so far as it can be made, has proved correct in all important particulars. He had many ancient and valuable papers, some of which are unfortunately now lost, but some remain, such as the original deed from Edward Harnet, in 1657, of Thomas<sup>1</sup> Goldthwaite's homestead in South Danvers, a contemporary copy of Samuel<sup>2</sup> Goldthwaite's will of 1718, and other deeds and business papers of later ancestors. Children :

"Died at New York, of the yellow fever, Mr. John Goldthwait,† jun., of Danvers, mate of the Sch'r Charles of this port, aged 25."

"In the death of this valuable young man society has much to mourn. He was active, industrious, and intelligent, faithful in all the duties in which he was engaged, and universally esteemed where he was known. With his friends we most sincerely sympathize, for their loss is great. To her to whom he was so lately united in ties the most affectionate, a humble submission and confidence in that

---

* This record, the materials for which had probably long been in his possession, was written out by him in November, 1829, on the occasion of a visit made to Danvers by my grandfather, Erastus Goldthwaite of Longmeadow, who, having business at that time in Boston, had continued his journey afterwards to Salem to see, probably for the first and only time, the home of his ancestors and such relatives as were yet living. Mrs. Bond, the daughter of John Goldthwaite, with whom I conversed, well remembered his coming to her father's house, the time of which she associated with that of her wedding, for her wedding-cake was brought in while the visitor was there. She recalled her father's bringing out his old papers, and how the two talked together about their family. Her grandmother, then 85, who lived for ten years after, was there, and able to be referred to for information. There were two copies made of this paper, one of them kept by John Goldthwaite and now in possession of his granddaughter, Mrs. Pulsifer of Salem; the other was brought home by my grandfather to Longmeadow, and is now in my own possession.

† The name of John Goldthwaite is found in the alarm list, So. Danvers, in the war of 1812.

264. Lot<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Jacob<sup>5</sup>, Benjamin<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Stoughton, Mass., married June 20, 1794, SUSANNA BRIGGS of Stoughton. In Feb., 1792, Lot and his brother Jacob were in Brookline for a time. He had died before Sept. 19, 1807, when the "Widow Susanna Goldthwait of Stoughton" appears as buying land in that town, George W. Goldthwaite being a witness of the deed. This she sells Mch. 11, 1815. The family removed afterwards to New Hampshire. Children :

 646 + GEORGE WASHINGTON, b. 1798; m. Rebecca Eastman.

266. George Washington<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Jacob<sup>5</sup>, Benjamin<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Stoughton and Boston, born about 1784, married about 1805, HANNAH BILLINGS, daughter of Daniel Billings of Canton, Mass. She died in 1807, and he married, 2d, HANNAH BRYANT of Boston, born in 1783, in "Bristol, Lincoln Co., Mass.," now Maine. He married, 3d, LUCY LORING, daughter of Jacob Loring, of Halifax, Mass., and Lydia Tilson, his wife, born in Plympton, Mass. Mr. Goldthwaite died May 16, 1824, aged 40. He was a boot and shoe manufacturer, living for some years in Boston, but died in Stoughton. Children, by 1st wife :

- 648 ADAM BILLINGS<sup>1</sup>, b. July 1, 1806. He was unmarried, and died not long before May 4, 1843, when he was "of New York, trader," and his estate of above $20,000 was divided to his five brothers and sisters then living. He owned real estate in Stoughton, including three dwelling-houses and two boot and shoe manufacturing shops.

By 2d wife :

- 655 + JOSEPH<sup>1</sup>, m. Mehitabel Smith and Mary Drake.
 656 DAVID, died in youth.
 657 PHEBE, m. Mr. French of Randolph; no ch.
 658 ESTHER, m. Oct. 6, 1833, John Crane of Randolph.
 659 BETSEY, m. Sept. 7, 1837, Thomas S. Keene of Pembroke; res. Hanover, Mass.
 660 OLIVE, m. John Woodbury of Avon.

- 661 + BENJAMIN<sup>7</sup>, bapt. Mch. 9, 1818; m. Eliza Ann Carlisle.
 662 CHARLES, bapt. Nov. 1, 1820; m. Nov. 1, 1841, Clarinda Dyer of Stoughton; a dau., Clarinda, was born in 1842.
 663 ANNZOA,* bapt. July 31, 1822; m. Hazen Barnard from New Hampshire; res. Avon, Mass.; they have been some years dead.

269. John<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Benjamin<sup>5</sup>, Benjamin<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Boston, born probably in Malden about 1768, married June 22, 1791, at Boston, SALLY MORRIS, born 1770, who died July 16, 1806, aged 36 (Fam. Rec.). John, like his father, was, by occupation, a heelmaker, and in the Boston Directory of 1796 is found living in "Distil House Square." He died in Boston Sept. 8, 1840 (Fam. Rec.). He appears not to have married after the death of his wife thirty-four years before; some of his children seem to have lived with their grandparents. The death of John's aunt, Miss Sarah Boardman, at Saugus, May 7, 1839, aged 88 years, is included in the record of his family, from which it may be inferred that she was intimately connected with the care of them. The daughters, Sarah and Mary, both married at Newburyport, and are called of that town in the record. Children (order of birth unknown):

- 664 SARAH BOARDMAN<sup>7</sup>, b. Oct. 12, 1791; m. May 6, 1810, Isaac Johnson, 4th, of Newburyport; d. Mch. 25, 1868; her son William, and daus., Mrs. Emily Rundlett and Mrs. Sarah Hutchings, now live in that town.
 665 MARY M., b. —; m. July 6, 1811, Rufus Brackett of Lynn; d. early.
 666 BENJAMIN, d., aged 4.
 667 JOHN (Capt.), b. —, 1796; master mariner; d. at sea, of smallpox, on a West India voyage, Aug. 14, 1825, aged 29.

Although his father was in the king's service as an officer in the Customs, and adhered to that side at the outbreak of the Revolution, eventually taking refuge as a loyalist in England, Philip himself early enlisted in the Revolutionary army, which he joined May 3, 1775, when 18 years of age, serving throughout the war. He was in the artillery in Capt. Popkins' company, Col. Gridley's regiment, with the rank of matross.† He was in the army in the siege of Boston, as appears from his receiving one of the bounty coats given to such soldiers. He enlisted again for the war, Apr. 7, 1777, in Sheldon's Light Dragoons, and appears on the rolls of that regiment as late as January, 1781. At his enlistment in the Dragoons he is described as five feet, five inches tall, with light complexion, eyes, and hair. His occupation is given as sailor, showing that in earlier life he had followed the sea, as very many of the Biddeford family have done since his day. Not far from the beginning of the present century he was given the post of keeper of the light on Wood Island, which lies off the mouth of the Saco River, one mile from Biddeford Pool. This position he held for the rest of his life, a period of something like 40 years. He died Nov. 25, 1832, aged 76 years. His widow passed her last years in the family of her son Tristram, in the ancient Jordan's garrison-house at the Pool, and died Feb. 2, 1839, aged 76. Children :

- 679 + SAMUEL, b. 1791; m. Sarah Mathews and Lois Tarbox.
- 680 + MARY, b. Mch., 1792; m. Paul Hussey and Capt. Thomas Emery.

296. Sarah<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Benjamin<sup>5</sup>, Joseph<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), was born in Boston Aug. 7, 1761. She is said to have been a beauty, and was adopted by her uncle, Maj. Joseph Goldthwaite, who had no children. She went with him to Quebec after the evacuation of Boston and there met and married a British officer, who is called, in her uncle's will, "JOHN APPADAIL of Newcastle-on-Tyne in England." Miss Gowen writes the name Abdell, and others, Apdail. Mrs. Apdail early became a widow, and about 1790 she married DR. DANIEL ADAMS, a physician of Keene, N. H. Dr. Adams, who was son of Capt. Joseph and Mary Adams of the Adams family of Braintree, was born in 1768 in Lincoln, Mass., received a liberal education, and studied medicine in Boston, where he took his degree June 6, 1788, and soon after settled in Keene, where he passed the rest of his life, and died Aug. 22, 1830. He is well remembered for his skill in his profession, and "for his peculiar faculty, akin to intuition, of discerning, at a glance, the nature and progress of disease." He early received from Dartmouth College a diploma for a Latin dissertation on medicine, and later, in July, 1811, was elected a Fellow of the New Hampshire Medical Society. He was a prominent citizen of Keene, and a man of many estimable and lovable qualities. In his whole career he was "nobly supplemented by the ready and constant aid of his wife. Her quiet and graceful manners enhanced her personal attractions, and her interest in her husband's pursuits was untiring." While in Quebec with her uncle, she was placed by him in a convent school there, for further education, and she never forgot her knowledge of French and skill in embroidery then acquired. She died at the house of her son in Keene, Apr. 7, 1848, in her 87th year. She had one son by her second marriage :

- 700 CHARLES GOLDTHWAIT<sup>7</sup> ADAMS, b. 1793; m. Nov., 1822, Mary Ann King. He graduated with high honors at Dartmouth in 1810, attended the Law School at Litchfield, Conn., and was ready for admission to the bar, when the strong love he had always had for the medical profession caused him to change his course, and he began the study of medicine, at first under his father, and afterwards at Harvard, where he received his medical degree, and was soon after appointed demonstrator of anatomy at the school there. In after years he was offered a professorship at the medical school at Pittsfield and of that at Dartmouth, but he preferred to devote himself, in his native town, to the regular practice of his profession, in which he attained an eminence surpassed by few in that part of the state. He was a man of noble character and was possessed of the fine qualifications essential to the good physician. He died April 9, 1856, at the age of 63. Of his large family of thirteen children, eight had gone before him, among them his oldest daughter, Sarah G., who died in New Haven, Conn., while on a visit, at the age of 27, and who is described as beautiful in spirit and in person; a son, Dr. Charles G., who died at twenty-five in Paterson, N. J., where he had settled for the practice of his profession, having graduated at Yale and at Harvard Medical School; also a son, Joseph Daniel, who died at fourteen, while in Dartmouth College. Dr. Adams' surviving children are John Goldthwait Adams, graduate of Dartmouth, now a teacher (m. Anna Buist); Martha, m. Lemuel Hayward; Miss Eliza Adams of Keene; Susan, m. Richard S. Perkins; Mary Harriet, m. G. F. Hurd.

295. Hannah<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Benjamin<sup>5</sup>, Joseph<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in Boston Oct. 6, 1762, married (int.

pub. Nov. 14, 1793), RICHARD GARDNER of Boston, oldest son of Col. Thomas and Joanna (Sparhawk) Gardner. Children (see Sparhawk Gen., Vol. 25, Ess. Inst. Col.):

- 701 JOHN.
- 702 JOANNA.
- 703 MARTHA.
- 704 HANNAH, m. Dec. 10, 1807, Dr. James P. Chaplin.

- 706 SARAH.

298. Martha<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Benjamin<sup>5</sup>, Joseph<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in Boston July 7, 1764, married Sept. 29, 1795, GEORGE INGERSOLL of the U. S. Army. An interesting story of Martha's early life is given by her granddaughter, Miss Ingersoll of Keene, now deceased. The father, Benjamin Goldthwaite, had, as has been said, a "Ladies' first class shop" on Cornhill, living there also, probably in the same building. "Although he was only forty-five at the time of his death, which was very sudden, he had become quite deaf, so that he frequently had his children with him that they might aid him in hearing the voices of his customers. When his death came, his poor widow was entirely overpowered and helpless, with her family of eight children. My grandmother, Martha, the second daughter, a brave, self-reliant girl of eighteen, came to the front, made up her mind what must be done, went at once to the gentlemen with whom her father had had business relations, told them that the business must be carried on and continued for the future of her only brother, Benjamin, then a boy of twelve, and that if they would give her aid and counsel she felt that it could be done. They were delighted with her spirit, and said that they would do everything for her — and they did, and this young girl kept the home and all the family together, and had the business carried on until she put it into her brother's hands." Martha's mother died five years after her father, leaving her family entirely in Martha's hands; she was then but twenty-three, and from that time till her marriage, at the age of thirty-one, she was the head of the family. Her granddaughter says of her further: "My grandmother Ingersoll was a great aristocrat—proud of her Goldthwait blood—dainty and fastidious, with all her energy and capacity. I am now reading over her letters to destroy them, and they are really very remarkable epistles, beautifully written, and showing a wonderfully well-educated mind for her time." She died in 1839, at the age of 74, at the house of her son, Rev. Dr. George G. Ingersoll, in Burlington, Vt., but her home had always been in Boston or Cambridge.

Major Ingersoll began his military career as soldier in the Revolution, first as private and then sergeant in Gridley's regiment, Mass. Artillery, and in Knox's regiment, Continental Artillery, in 1775 and 1776; afterwards he was second and first lieutenant in the 3d Continental Artillery, serving thus through the entire war till June, 1783. Later, he joined the regular army and was connected with the artillery as lieutenant, captain, and finally as major. He was a member of the Massachusetts Order of the Cincinnati. He died in Keene July 11, 1805, aged 51. Children:

- 707 GEORGE GOLDTHWAIT<sup>1</sup> INGERSOLL (Rev. Dr.), b. July 4, 1796; m. Oct. 14, 1822, Harriet, daughter of Dr. Phineas Parkhurst of Lebanon, N. H. He d. at Keene, N. H., Sept. 16, 1863. He was a graduate of Harvard, 1815, pastor of the Unitarian church, Burlington, Vt., 1822 to 1844, and of the Unitarian Society, East Cambridge, 1847 to 1849; received degree of D.D. at Harvard, 1845. Children:

- 1 Allan Parkhurst<sup>2</sup>, b. Nov. 10, 1823; graduate of Vermont University, 1843; d. Sept. 3, 1859.
- 2 Harriet Goldthwaite, d. y.
- 3 Caroline Haskell, d. 1893, at Keene; a noble and accomplished woman, the last surviving descendant of Mrs. Martha (Goldthwaite) Ingersoll. She bequeathed many valuable relics of her ancestry in different lines to the city of Keene.
- 4 George Parkhurst, d. y.

- 708 MARY LANMAN, b. 1798; m. Charles Adams; d. 1832.

301. Benjamin<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Benjamin<sup>5</sup>, Joseph<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Boston, born there May 10, 1770, married Oct. 8, 1793, HANNAH DAWES, born Feb. 12, 1769, daughter of William and Mehitabel (May) Dawes. He died Dec. 11, 1796, in his 27th year, leaving no children. His widow married, in 1800, Hon. Daniel Newcomb of Keene, N. H., Judge of the Superior Court of N. H., State Senator, etc. By him she had five children (see May Gen.), and died Sept. 2, 1851. A beautiful portrait of Benjamin Goldthwaite, by Gullager,* a German artist of reputation of the time of Copley, was in possession of Miss Ingersoll of Keene, his grandniece, and was left by her, with other valuable relics, to that city; it is reproduced in the "Dawes Memorial." Benjamin was a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery, 1793. The history of that company confuses him with his great-uncle, Major Benjamin. A eulogy of him, with an account of his funeral under the escort of the Independent Corps of Cadets, is printed in the Columbian Sentinel of Dec. 14, 1796, and quoted in the Hist. of Artillery Co.

youngest of twelve children of Samuel Walker, of Scotch descent, and Sarah Wilson, his wife, of English descent. Mr. Walker's children were most of them born at Ballymena, where he was the owner of linen bleacheries. His family had been prominent in the troublous times of Scotland and Ireland, and his father was a political prisoner at the time of the execution of Robert Emmett. After the death of her father, Mrs. Goldthwaite came, in 1814, with a married sister, to the United States, where she lived in Columbia, S. C., most of the time until her marriage. Mr. Goldthwaite left his home in Boston when quite a young man, and with his brother, Henry Barnes, settled first at Richmond, Va., where he was living at the time of the burning of the Richmond Theatre, in 1811, which made so strong an impression on his mind that he never in after-life forgot to mention it to his children on the night after Christmas, the time when it occurred. After this time he studied law and practiced for a while in Lexington, S. C., where he was married, and soon after went to Spartanburgh, S. C., where his four older children were born. In 1832, induced by the glowing accounts of the new country sent by his family, who were then in Montgomery, he abandoned his profession of the law and removed thither, buying a wild tract of land about 25 miles distant from the town. After clearing and reducing it to cultivation, he occupied himself on this plantation, which he called "Oakfield," in raising cotton and other crops, until his death ten years later, Mch. 5, 1842. His widow died in Montgomery about eleven years after him, Oct. 23, 1853. Mr. Robert Henry Goldthwaite was a man of refined and cultivated mind and manners, and inherited from his mother a great love of literature. His death was the first that occurred in her family of six. Children :

337. Judge Henry Barnes<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Thomas<sup>5</sup>, Thomas<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Mobile, Ala., born Apr. 10, 1802, in Concord, N. H., married in Greensboro, Ala., Apr. 10, 1839 (by Thos. S. Witherspoon), ELIZA I. WITHERSPOON, daughter of John Ramsey Witherspoon and Sophia Graham, his wife, daughter of Major-General Joseph Graham of Mecklenburg County, N. C.

Judge Goldthwaite left his home in Boston when quite young, going first with his older brother, Robert Henry, to Richmond, Va., and afterwards settling in Montgomery, Ala., where his oldest brother, John, had been for several years in business. He studied law, and became the partner of Gov. Benjamin Fitzgerald. He also edited a paper, and served several times in the State legislature. Later, he removed to Mobile, where he was a successful lawyer. In 1839 he was made judge of the Supreme Court of Alabama, holding the position till his death in Mobile in 1847. Judge Goldthwaite is said to have strongly resembled in features the portraits of Henry VIII of England. Children :

- 746 + JOHN WITHERSPOON<sup>7</sup>, b. Feb. 3, 1840; m. Mary Purvis.
- 747 THOMAS, b. Jan. 11, 1841; died of consumption during the Civil War.
- 748 + HENRY (Dr.), b. Apr. 13, 1842; m. Grace Tarleton.

- 749 MARY WITHERSPOON, b. Dec. 5, 1843; m. John Freeland of Richmond, Va.; she died, leaving one son, Dr. John Freeland, a physician in New York city.
- 750 + JOSEPH GRAHAM, b. Feb. 6, 1845; m. Ella Willis.
- 751 + GEORGE, b. June 20, 1846; m. Willie Faulkner.
- 752 ALFRED, b. Nov. 19, 1847; he was one of the most eminent members of the Southern bar; studied and practiced law for 12 years with his uncle, John A. Campbell, Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court. He had afterwards a large practice in New Orleans, and was engaged on many important cases, among them the famous Mrs. Gaines' will case. He represented the litigants for ten years, and finally won for them a decision in the U. S. Supreme Court. He resided in New Orleans; died unm. in New York Feb. 27, 1892.

338. Anne Esther<sup>o</sup> Goldthwaite (Thomas<sup>o</sup>, Thomas<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in 1806, in Dalton, N. H., where her parents were then living, removed with them, not long after, to Boston, where her young womanhood was passed. When about twenty-two years old, with those of her family still remaining at the North, she went to Montgomery, Ala., where her older brothers had become established. Here she met and married JOHN ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL, then practicing law in that city. They subsequently made their home in Mobile, and later in Baltimore, where Mrs. Campbell died Feb. 13, 1883, and Judge Campbell in 1889, in his 78th year; both are buried in Greenmount Cemetery, Baltimore. Mrs. Campbell inherited, in large degree, the mind and character of her mother; it was said of her that had she been a man, she would have distinguished herself as some of her brothers did. Judge Campbell was born near Washington, Wilkes County, Georgia, the son of Col. Duncan G. Campbell from North Carolina. He graduated from the University of Georgia at the age of 15, with high honors, and afterwards went to West Point. While living at Mobile, he settled almost all the land titles, which were complicated at that time by reason of the obscurity of Spanish grants. In 1836 he was elected to the State legislature. In 1853, when 42 years of age, he was made Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. His knowledge of law and of the Constitution was profound, and his legal arguments have been of permanent value, giving him an almost national reputation among lawyers. "To his great learning and ability he added the weight of an irreproachable character and virtuous life." At the beginning of the Civil War in the spring of 1861, he resigned his position on the bench of the Supreme Court, and became Assistant Secretary of War of the Confederacy. He had been opposed to secession, but, finding it inevitable, had cast in his lot with his people, and gave them his best service throughout the war. Children :

- 753 HENRIETTA<sup>7</sup>, b. Feb. 22, 1832; m. Col. George W. Lay of the U. S. army, who died in 1866. Mrs. Lay lives in her father's house in Baltimore; no children.

339. Hon. George<sup>6</sup> Goldthwaite (Thomas<sup>5</sup>, Thomas<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Mobile, Ala., born in Boston Dec. 10, 1810, married in Washington, D. C., Nov. 30, 1835, OLIVIA PRICE WALLACH, born in Boston Feb. 10, 1810, youngest child of Moses and Mary (Robbins) Wallach. She died in Montgomery, Ala., July 13, 1878.

George Goldthwaite's early life was passed in Boston, where he became a member of the Latin School in 1818.

When fourteen years old he was appointed to a cadetship at West Point. After remaining there till his third year, he went South to Montgomery, Ala., where he studied law in the office of his brother Henry, and was admitted to the bar at the age of 18. After practicing about fifteen years at Monticello, Pike Co., he was placed, in Dec., 1843, on the Circuit Court bench, and eight years later, Jan., 1852, was elected a Justice of the Supreme Court. In Jan., 1856, he became Chief-Justice, but almost immediately after resigned his position and resumed practice. When the Civil War began, he was appointed, by Gov. Moore, Adjutant-General of the State of Alabama, and held for about three years that important office. After the war he was elected Judge of the Circuit Court in 1866, but lost the place by the act of Congress passed in 1868, which disqualified him from office. In 1870 he was chosen U. S. Senator from Alabama, served, while in Congress, on the committee on claims and Revolutionary claims, and in 1877 retired to private life. He died at Tuscaloosa March 18, 1879. The following quotations are taken from some of the many tributes paid to him after his death. "An old High School Boy," writing in 1879 to the Boston Gazette, says :

"When I have heard this still surviving scion (Robert C. Winthrop) of a time-honored Boston family deliver his polished and instructive lectures and orations, I felt a comic desire to ask him if he remembered the days when, as a Latin School boy, he used to lend his boots, when fatigued with foot-ball kicking on Boston Common, to George Goldthwaite to kick with, George wearing pumps. . . . The George Goldthwaite mentioned has just died. He became afterwards a Senator from Alabama. When at the Latin School he was famous for his pluck and strength, but retiring and quiet in demeanor; yet once, when repeatedly taunted by a noted bully, he accepted the challenge, and in a severe fight overcame the ruffian on the old Latin School playground.*

* The following, from a letter written in 1889 by my correspondent, Miss C. H. Ingersoll, is interesting both for its tribute to George Goldthwaite and for its revelation of a family likeness between two somewhat remotely connected descendants. She says :

"About three years ago I was calling on a lady in Mt. Vernon street, when an old gentlemen came in whom they called Uncle Powell, and, on looking at

Gen. J. T. Holtzclaw, in his remarks to the City Court of Montgomery, said :

"I never knew and have rarely read of a man that had a higher sense of duty, a more unswerving devotion to its performance; that duty clearly apparent, everything was subordinated to its accomplishment. Neither personal conscience, personal friendship, personal popularity, or favor, or personal safety, weighed in the balance against it. . . . I first knew Judge Goldthwaite well during the war, when he was one of the military council of Gov. Moore, and Adjutant and Inspector-General of the State. Every Alabama soldier who came in contact with him, personally or officially, as Adjutant-General, will remember him kindly and affectionately. Fitted by nature and education for the position, it is sufficient to say no man could have filled it better, no one could have better organized and mobilized the war material of the State, none could have done more to get Alabama soldiers their just rights in the Confederate service, or relieve, as far as the State could do, the hardships incident to a soldier's life. . . . These gray jackets remembered it, and almost to a man supported him for Circuit Judge in 1866. . . . Great as were Judge Goldthwaite's learning as a judge and ability as a lawyer, I think his social powers were even higher. He had decided histrionic talent, good recitative powers, sparkling wit, biting sarcasm, bubbling humor that made him the center of the social board. His anecdotes, drawn mostly from his own experience and observation in life, were told, as the occasion suited, in a style the most tender and pathetic, broadly humorous, or delicately sparkling with the coruscations of a bright wit and vivid fancy. Somewhere or time in busy life he had stored his mind with much quaint learning; he had revelled in history, poetry, romance, and legendary lore, and when he had surrounded himself with congenial spirits, and gave full vent to his great powers, he was the most entertaining and instructive man I ever knew."

Gen. E. Y. Fair, in an address delivered before the Supreme Court of Alabama, says of him :

"His house was the home of hospitality. . . . He always took deep interest in the politics of the day. He lived through two of the greatest epochs me, he said at once, 'Why, how much you look like an old schoolmate of mine at the Latin School when I was a boy—his name was George Goldthwaite.' 'Ah,' I said, 'my father's name was George Goldthwaite Ingersoll.' 'No,' said he, 'this was George Goldthwaite, a merry, happy, good-natured fellow, full of fun and jokes and stories—boiling over with them, but a good scholar, a great favorite, full of talent.' I said, 'That corresponds exactly to a correct description of my father.' 'Well,' replied he, 'this was George Goldthwaite, but you look strangely like him.' " of our political history, nullification and secession. When Congress passed what was called the black tariff, Mr. Calhoun boldly proclaimed, at Washington, that a State in her sovereign capacity had the right to declare a law of Congress unconstitutional, null and void, and had the right to resist its enforcement within her territory. This shook the Government to its center. Political excitement ran high in Alabama; the leading men of the day were divided, some for the Union cause, and some for the States' right. The Goldthwaites, Campbells, and others (mentioned) upheld the Union cause with great ability. . . . In this contest Judge Goldthwaite, although a very young man, bore himself gallantly. He spoke and wrote for the Union. . . . Several years after the settlement of nullification, secession commenced to crop out, and again Judge Goldthwaite came forward. He was strongly opposed to secession on the ground of policy. He, with several others, made an effort to get control of the Montgomery Advertiser, a leading paper in the State, with the hope of stemming the torrent, but in this they failed. They then got up the confederation with a like hope, but by this time secession had loomed so high that, like Vesuvius in one of her eruptions, every opposing obstacle was swept away. Secession was a fixed fact; Alabama severed herself from the Union. Gov. Moore, who was a man of great good and practical sense and knowledge of men, wanted a near adviser and Adjutant-General. He at once fixed on Judge Goldthwaite as the right man in the right place."

in Columbus and Chillicothe until 1859, when he removed to Topeka, Kansas, continuing there till his death, Nov. 22, 1867. He was a tall, handsome man, of erect carriage and dignified bearing, and a character of combined gentleness and strength that won the confidence and love of all who knew him. He was a licensed preacher in the Methodist Church, was broad and liberal in his views, quiet and earnest in manner, with an unusual gift of language, and his assistance was often called for in the parishes around his home in Ohio. He was especially tender in his family relations. His wife survived him many years, dying Nov. 22, 1891, at the age of eighty-four. She retained her faculties to the last, keeping up her interest in all the topics of the day, and was, in her old age, a model of gentleness and sweetness. 379. John Wesley<sup>7</sup> Goldthwaite (John<sup>6</sup>, Thomas<sup>5</sup>, Thomas<sup>4</sup>, Samuel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Salt Lake City, Utah, born in Fairfield Co., Ohio, Oct. 28, 1816, married, June 4, 1844, MARY BEDSAUL, born June 25, 1825, in Connorsville, Ind., daughter of Isaac and Katharine Bedsaul. She died Sept. 11, 1853. At the age of twenty-one Mr. Goldthwaite removed with his mother and others of his family to Marion, Ind., where he lived until 1853, when he went with his wife and children overland to California, a journey of much hardship, occupying for him six months, during which his wife died, and not long after, his infant son. After some years spent in mining and other pursuits in California, he enlisted, soon after the outbreak of the Civil War, in Company G, of the third regiment of infantry of that State, serving three years, till his discharge Oct., 1864. At the close of the war he came East as far as Salt Lake City, which he afterwards made his home. A notice in the Salt Lake Tribune says that he came there with Gen. Connor, built the first house at Fort Douglas, and located one of the first mines in Utah. He remained a widower after the death of his wife in 1853, and died Nov. 13, 1896, having just passed his eightieth birthday, and been for more than twenty years the only surviving member of his generation of his family. In his childhood in Ohio he was a playmate with Gen. Sherman. He traveled extensively in the West, and had visited Europe. Though never seeking public office, he was for a time judge of probate in Grant Co., Indiana, and always took an active part in neighborhood improvements, especially in all that related to public schools. "For eighty years he lived a blameless, honest, and earnest life." Children :

380. Mary<sup>7</sup> Goldthwaite (John<sup>6</sup>, Thomas<sup>5</sup>, Thomas<sup>4</sup>, Samuel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in Fairfield Co., Ohio, Sept. 26, 1818, married, Aug., 1839, JOHN BROWNLEE of Marion, Ind., born in Fayette Co., Ind., June 9, 1816, eldest son of James and Catherine (Erving) Brownlee. His father, James Brownlee, was a native of Pennsylvania, of Scotch-Irish descent, and was conspicuous in the early history of Indiana as a member of the first Constitutional convention and representative in the legislature for four terms thereafter, helping to frame the original Constitution and organize the State. At his death, in 1828, he was associate judge of the Fayette Co. court. His wife, of Scotch descent, born in North Carolina, removed early to Indiana with her parents.

John Brownlee, the son, was admitted to the Fayette Co. bar in 1836, removed to Marion in 1838, and in 1839 was elected prosecuting attorney for the 11th district. In 1840 he was licensed to practice before the Supreme Court of the State, and in 1854 was appointed judge of the Circuit Court. His wife, Mary Goldthwaite, died Apr. 2, 1844, having been the mother of three children. He married 2d, Oct., 1845, Mary L. Weeks of Vermont, by whom he had six children, four of them now living. Judge Brownlee died at Marion March 7, 1888, having practiced law 40 years in Grant Co. Children, by 1st wife.

When still a youth, Cimon removed with his mother and brothers from Ohio to Indiana. Here he taught school, studied law, and was admitted to the bar. He afterwards abandoned this profession for mercantile life, and engaged in the dry goods business, in which he was quite successful, and the firm of Goldthwaite & Co., now represented by his sons, became one of the strongest business houses in the city of Marion. He was a man of earnest convictions, intensely religious, and with a high sense of honor. He joined the Methodist Church in early life, and became one of its strong local preachers. He was, by nature, of a jovial disposition, fond of singing, and was, it is said, the life of a company. He died Oct. 16, 1875. His widow and children reside in Marion. Children :

The name Flavel seems to have been given him on account of his father's admiration for Rev. John Flavel, the Puritan non-Conformist minister, an edition of whose works was among the books in his possession. Remaining at home till he was eighteen years old, Flavel came, about 1818, to Hartford, where he was apprenticed to learn the cabinet-making trade with Mr. Laertes Chapin, who married his mother's cousin, and who then carried on business on North Main street, in company with his father, Aaron Chapin, long a revered deacon of the Center church. The apprenticeship was not a long one, only two years having to elapse before he became of age, but that he learned the trade well appears from newspaper mention of his receiving a premium for cabinet furniture among those awarded at a Hartford fair for "articles considered extra meritorious," as well as from the fact that he held, for a time, the place of instructor in that branch of industry at the Deaf and Dumb Asylum in Hartford. He never, however, pursued it as an independent calling. He early began to take the deep interest in music which continued through life, probably beginning its study either in singing schools at home or at Springfield, four miles off, where Col. Solomon Warriner was, at that day, a well-known choir leader, and of such reputation that he was sent for from the large towns around, Hartford included, to bring singers into training for special occasions, such as ordinations, dedications, and the like. Mr. Goldthwaite's voice was a good one, and to his knowledge of singing he added, probably in great part by self-teaching, piano and organ playing. Enthusiastic himself on the subject of music, he became successful as a teacher of singing and leader of choirs, holding such positions at the South church and the then newly-formed North church, afterwards Dr. Bushnell's. At the time of his death he had been, for some time, organist and leader of the choir at the South church. He was one of those most active in the formation of the Jubal Society of Hartford in 1822, one of the earliest organizations of its kind for the cultivation of music in the State (perhaps the earliest), was its vice-president, and for a time its director. He was prominently identified with the "Choral Society," which succeeded the Jubal Society, and which studied largely the best works of Handel, Haydn, and other great composers, giving concerts of such music at intervals, and at one time (1828) performing "The Messiah" in the North church (its first performance in Connecticut).* Still later he was an active member of the Hartford Glee Club, which included those of the best musical cultivation in the city, meeting at the houses of its members and giving also occasional concerts. For a time, from about 1823 to 1825, he kept a music store, first on State street, and then on Main street, where he sold a large variety of musical instruments, as well as engraved and printed music, to some extent engraving and publishing it himself.

He had early turned his attention to school teaching, and in 1820 had gone to Charleston, S. C., where he had charge, for a year, of a private school of about fifty pupils. After his return to Hartford and the few intervening years spent in business and as instructor at the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, he became again a teacher, taking the place of principal of the South school, whose building then stood at the lower end of Main street, on the present site of St. Peter's church. The period was one when new interest was being felt in the work of the teacher; old methods were giving way to new and more enlightened ones ; there was much discussion on the subject, and much was being written upon it ; the improved educational systems of Europe were being studied, and, to some extent, followed in this country. Mr. Goldthwaite entered upon his work with characteristic ardor ; the books in his library show that he read all that was written on it, and it is evident that he thought deeply about it, with a view of adopting what was best in the new methods. Feeling very strongly the great importance of the co-operation of parents with teachers in the education of children, with a view of impressing upon them their duties in this respect, he early instituted a course of familiar lectures to the fathers and mothers of his pupils, inviting them to meet him in the schoolroom for this purpose on appointed evenings. A number of manuscripts of such lectures are preserved, in which the various subjects treated come under such headings as these : " Inefficiency of public action without parental effort ; Remedy for defects in schools in the hands of parents ; An education the best legacy to children ; Uniform attendance pre-eminently important ; Selection of a school often the result of trifling considerations ; Child's preference an unsafe criterion ; Evils of changing schools and teachers ; Parents should take an interest in the progress of their children ; should manifest it by questioning them about their studies ; by intercourse with the teacher ; by frequently visiting the school." Some obstacles in the way of the teacher's success at that day are hinted at by such topics as, " Cessation of study in summer ; Evils of interruption from want of books ; Importance of full and prompt supply." All these and other points are enlarged upon by a full and friendly statement of facts, with apt illustrations drawn from sources appealing to the common experience of his hearers, and enforced by cogent reasoning, thus setting forth truths the need of recognizing which is by no means outgrown for parents of the present day.

In December, 1818, he joined, by profession, the Center church, of which Dr. Joel Hawes had then lately become pastor, was dismissed from it in September, 1824, with those who then formed the North church, and in 1828, having taken charge of the music at the South church, removed his connection there, where he continued till his death in 1836. He was a man of refined tastes and of good judgment, and was always awake to opportunities for improving himself and his condition in the truest sense. He was fond of reading and early began the collection of a library; was interested in natural science, and in experimenting in it—an air pump of his own construction was among his possessions. For a time before his early death he had been reading law with a view of making that, in time, a profession. During the last year of his life he prepared an almanac, advertised in the Hartford Courant, Dec., 1835, as “Goldthwaite’s Counting House Almanac for 1836, with improved facilities for computing time and interest. A very convenient appendage to the Shop or Counting Room. Just published by D. Burgess & Co.” One of his great pleasures was in horticulture; he was skillful in grafting, and planted his garden with a well-selected variety of trees and vines that for years continued to yield fruit of the best sorts then known, in convenient succession. On his first coming to Hartford in 1818, he joined the Governor’s Foot Guard, a military organization of high standing, which has lately (1896) celebrated its 125th anniversary. He held in it the rank of orderly sergeant in 1827, was afterwards second lieutenant, and in 1830 was commissioned first lieutenant, with rank of Captain. He is spoken of by those who remembered him as a man of fine appearance; he was tall and well-developed in figure, with bright complexion, thick, dark hair of fine quality, and handsome eyes, whose slight near-sightedness made wearing glasses necessary. He had every appearance of the best health, with the prospect of long life, when he was suddenly prostrated by an attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which, after a brief illness, struck to the heart and ended his life at the comparatively early age of not quite 37 years, his death occurring March 3, 1836. This bereavement, an overwhelm ing one to his family, was felt also by a wide circle of friends. The church* of which he was a member passed resolutions expressing esteem for his character and sorrow for his loss, and his pastor, Rev. Mr. Vanarsdalen, wrote for the "Connecticut Observer" of March 12, 1836, an obituary, extracts from which best show the estimation in which Mr. Goldthwaite was held by his contemporaries :

"Flavel Goldthwait, whose death was mentioned last week, is a loss, not only to his family and friends, but to the community at large. We know that nothing is more common than the extravagant praise bestowed upon the dead. . . . But we are equally sure that all who knew Mr. Goldthwait will fully admit that in the following remarks we say nothing but what truth sustains and justice demands.

"The first great excellence of his character was his uniform, moderate, and consistent piety. . . . It was steady and undeviating, thereby giving one of the clearest evidences that it was from above. To all who closely observed him it was manifest that religion with him was a governing principle, not only influencing his feelings, but enlightening his understanding, and as an abiding and inward habit, regulating all the affections and desires of his heart.

"He was a man of sterling principles. This was seen in all his intercourse with men. A high sense of honor, of unwavering integrity, characterized all his conduct. He never stooped to anything little or hidden, but in all things he acted ingenuously and honorably. . . . He was, consequently, to an unusual degree, free from everything like a spirit of detraction or evil speaking. And the same strict honesty was also seen in all his pecuniary dealings. In these respects there was a completeness and harmony in his Christian character.

"He was a man of generous and benevolent feelings. He had a heart to sympathize with the afflicted, and, as far as he had the power, to relieve the distressed. And this he did, not for the praise of men, not that he might have whereof to boast before others, but from the genuine kindness of his feelings.

"He was a useful member of society. Both by his example and his uniform efforts he always exerted a happy influence in the promotion of good order and strict morality. In the church to which he was attached his worth will be long remembered and his loss deeply lamented. He was indeed universally respected and esteemed by those of all classes and of all Christian denominations; but in his own church, where he was best known, he was most highly valued. Possessing a strong and discriminating mind, and having investigated for himself the momentous truths of revelation, he knew what he believed, and could exhibit to others the grounds of his belief. Being also humble and consistent in his piety, kind and pleasing in his manners, and seeking the peace and prosperity of the Church, he occupied a high place in the affections of his fellow Christians and in those of his pastor, who ever reposed in him unreserved confidence, and by whom he was truly beloved. He was a sincere and unchanging friend. He was a dutiful son, an attached brother, and an affectionate husband and father. In these relations, over which true piety always sheds its holiest influence, the excellence of his heart and the reality of his Christian profession were most clearly exhibited."

Mrs. Goldthwaite survived her husband less than ten years, and died of consumption Nov. 9, 1845, in her 45th year. She was a woman of lovely temperament and earnest Christian character, possessing, in an unusual degree, the affection of those who knew her. She united with the South church in 1821, and was associated with her husband there as one of the members of his choir. She met death with the resignation of a Christian, chiefly desiring to live for the sake of her three fatherless children, the youngest of whom was born a month after her husband's death. But they were never allowed to miss her care, continuing in the same home and in the kind charge of their grandmother, and especially of their aunt, Mary Amna Boardman, who gave them a mother's love and devoted her best energies to their training and education. A sketch of this good woman, who died March 4, 1889, in her 91st year, has been given elsewhere,* but it may be said of her here that seldom is there found a life of greater unselfishness than hers, or one more devoted to active, voluntary charity. Of her it was truly said that "for many years her thought, time, and strength were mainly devoted to the cause of alleviating the sorrows of the poor amongst us. Like her Divine Master, she 'went about doing good.'"

The youngest of Mr. and Mrs. Goldthwaite's three daughters, Mary, died at the early age of twenty-one, a girl of unusually lovely character and of superior intellect. She graduated from the classical department of the Hartford High School, of which William B. Capron, afterwards missionary of the American Board in India, had then been for some years principal. Earnest and thorough in every branch of study, she was especially enthusiastic in that of languages, excelling in Latin and Greek, which it was her pleasure to pursue after her school days were ended. Her daily Bible reading was the Greek Testament, and while teaching for a year in a family school for boys in Cornwall, Conn., she took up and finished by herself the Odyssey. After leaving school she had made good progress also in the study of German. Mr. Capron wrote of her, "She was the best scholar I ever had." The surviving daughters, Charlotte and Jane, were graduates of the Hartford Female Seminary, a once noted school, now discontinued, founded in 1827 by Miss Catherine Beecher, and at that time (1848 to 1853) enjoying one of its periods of greatest prosperity under a much-loved and revered principal, Frances A. Strong, who died in 1853. The two sisters became teachers, the elder continuing as such for about twenty years in the seminary where she had graduated, and the younger teaching in schools in Hartford and elsewhere, for some years also having only private pupils. After the death of their aunt in 1889, they went to Europe, where they spent about three years in England and in different cities of the Continent, residing during two winters in Paris. Charlotte, who had for some time been interested in the study of genealogy, having been successful while in England (1890-91), in discovering the home there of two emigrant ancestors in her mother's family, was thus led to compile a Boardman Genealogy, published in 1895. To these English Boardman researches she everywhere added endeavors to find all that was possible regarding the Goldthwaite family, whose history had been the object of her earliest interest. Such successes as were then met with, with the results of other efforts in the same direction at home, are here recorded. Children of Flavel and Jane Goldthwaite :

387. Jonathan Hale<sup>7</sup> Goldthwaite (Erastus<sup>6</sup>, Thomas<sup>5</sup>, Thomas<sup>4</sup>, Samuel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Longmeadow, Mass., born there May 21, 1811, married, Nov., 1840, SUSAN LOUD JOY, born Feb. 2, 1813, at South Weymouth, Mass., daughter of David and Jerusha (Wild) Joy, and granddaughter of Lieut. David Joy, an officer in the Revolution. Mrs. Goldthwaite was a pupil in the Ipswich Academy while it was in charge of Miss Grant and Mary Lyon; she afterwards taught in the academy at Amherst, and later had a private school in Springfield, where she first met her husband. She died at Longmeadow March 27, 1897, at the age of 84, retaining, in a marked degree, the energy and vivacity which had been characteristic of her younger days.

Jonathan Hale Goldthwaite, so named for Col. Hale, in whose family his father had passed his early life, spent his youth in his father's home in Longmeadow, where he enjoyed such advantages of education as that town of somewhat superior culture afforded. He early chose the business of an engraver, which he went to Boston to learn when he was seventeen years old. In it he attained great skill, and his work became in large demand. Much of his time in after-life was devoted to the designing, engraving, and publishing of maps, and, in the opinion of those fitted to judge, his work in some departments of this profession has never been excelled. For some time in earlier life he had his business in Springfield, and in after years was obliged to do much of his work in New York city, but he was never fond of city life, loving best retirement, the country, and all the works of nature. He therefore made his real home, to which he retired whenever business permitted, in his native town of Longmeadow. His was the taste to appreciate the beauty of a site near the Springfield border, which, with part of the adjoining valley of Pecowsic Brook below it, he early secured for his homestead. No finer prospect than it commanded could be seen in all that region. It lay on a small plateau half-way up Pecowsic Hill, on the road from Springfield to Longmeadow. Before and below it, on the north, was one of the beautiful curves of the Connecticut River, with Springfield on its hill in full view on the right, while west of the river lay the meadows of Agawam and West Springfield, the whole backed by a horizon line of mountains, chief among them the Mt. Tom and Holyoke ranges. Towards the east, almost as far as the eye could reach, stretched a different view, that of the valley of the beautiful Pecowsic Brook, part of whose lower course, near its outlet into the Connecticut, lay through his own land. All this property is now part of the Forest Park of Springfield.

Jonathan Goldthwaite was an artist in temperament, possessing a very nice, intuitive sense of the beautiful and of the incongruous, and his fine taste and excellent judgment in such matters were much sought and valued. He was an enthusiastic lover of good music, excelling in the performance of church music of which he was especially fond, and he had made some essays in composition. For many years he presided at the organ of one or another of the Springfield churches, principally those of the First and Unitarian churches, and his talent, fine taste, and attractive personality, with the possession of an uncommonly good bass voice, made him always a leading spirit in musical circles. His touch on the organ or piano was notably individual and peculiar. He read much and had a natural taste for good literature, and especially for the best poetry. A vein of wit ran through his naturally serious disposition, and he relished a stroke of humor with a heartiness such as few experience. He was a man of peculiar delicacy and sensitiveness of organization, naturally reserved, self-contained, and sparing of speech, nervous and impulsive to an unusual degree, and often unconventional in matters of minor importance. United to his native refinement and fine-grained delicacy was a remarkable honesty and truthfulness of character. He spoke just what he thought and felt, and could not play the hypocrite. The sincerity and warmth of his affection, with his other lovable qualities, drew to him many friends, and they were always the choicest spirits in whatever society he found himself. Especially was this true in Springfield, where his earliest and most enduring friendships were formed. Many of these were in the circle of the then recently established Unitarian church, with whose first minister, the beloved Rev. William B. O. Peabody, twenty-seven years its pastor, he was on terms of intimacy, and with whom he was often in consultation regarding the laying out of the beautiful Peabody cemetery, now that minister's Springfield memorial. Though thus at home in circles of the highest refinement and culture, he always discerned and admired what was best in the humblest and poorest, with whom he could be an equally good comrade. Worldly distinctions of birth, wealth, or station were, with him, of no account. He took great interest in gardening and fruit-culture ; they were his chief recreation in his rural home, which, from the sandy tract he had found it, became, through his intelligent cultivation, a fertile garden. He died Jan. 26, 1870, of softening of the brain, having five years previously suffered a stroke of paralysis, from which he never fully recovered. He was buried in the Peabody cemetery in Springfield, in a beautiful spot early selected by himself, because from it he could "see the mountains." A friend of Mr. Goldthwaite's, of so long ago that he could not be identified by the family, wrote the following from Boston to the Springfield Republican, on hearing of his death :

THE LATE JONATHAN H. GOLDTHWAITE.

More than thirty years have passed since the writer of these lines had intimate intercourse with his friend. A few remain who will understand the feeling which leads me, at this distance of time and from afar off, to lift my feeble voice among his mourners. The characteristic simplicity and purity of his life and thought attracted to him, in those past days, a large circle of admirers. Among the most youthful of these was the writer, often in his walks and his worship of nature a participant.

"To him who, in the love of nature, holds
Communion with her visible forms, she speaks
A various language."

The hill whence we looked upon the grand sunsets of summer and autumn, which were a sight to make the heart leap up in adoration—the hill remains

. . . but the rail fence whereon we sat contented has given place to other things. An enthusiast in music, I remember him, with a soul filled with true harmonies. So, too, do I recall his room, with a jumble of piano, books, music, graving tools, and generally unfinished work; the pipe (not musical) was perhaps unintentionally laid upon the piano, and he was essaying some new chant as I looked in. Meerschauum was unknown to us, and we loved the native clay in ignorance of sea foam. Well remembered is the fully-developed bump of order which the first phrenologist found upon our friend's head, as also the audible smile when it was announced. We who knew him had only to look at his artistic work in his vocation for the order. As I write, my eye rests upon a map of New England, made in 1849; perhaps no better has succeeded it. A small card map of Massachusetts have I, which came from his hand to mine. Faithful work indeed it is. These tracings of early years I saw him make; and the talk interspersed and not forwarded for publication still lives in my memory. Many and most of his works were, of course, absorbed by and credited only to his publisher. We, who in the good providence which runs, like a spinal cord, through all law, have lived so long as our friend, have seen many changes, and now, at this point, thank God for all we have enjoyed and all the dear sweets of friendship we have known. Like the loves of David and Jonathan were his, of whom I write, for his friends. My last visit to him upon the hill whence the admirable view was familiar before his habitation existed, was years ago. . . . How well remembered is that day when, trying my hand at the sports of my boyhood, the trout were brought forth from his neighboring brook. Sweet time of boyhood when, in these same vales, many happy hours were passed — sweet streams whose murmur still lingers in memory. Still to be "faithful over a few things" is all that can be attained of the vast army who have few distinguished leaders.

II.

Of Mr. and Mrs. Goldthwaite's three children, the eldest, Katharine (or Cate, as she was generally called), graduated at Mt. Holyoke Seminary, and became afterwards a teacher, first at Hartford, Conn., and later she had numerous private pupils, mostly in New York city, teaching also for a time in Santa Barbara, Cal., and in Florida. Not content with school and seminary courses, she continued a persevering student through life. Especially interested in acquiring languages, she obtained a good knowledge of French, German, Italian, and Spanish, was a wide reader of the best literature, and along with all kept up the study of music. She was enthusiastically fond of travel, and in earlier life spent a year in Europe for that purpose, as well as for perfecting her knowledge of French and German. For some years during the latter part of her life she was gradually declining in health, and it was with the hope of receiving benefit from travel that she undertook, for a second time, a journey to Europe; but the fatigue of the voyage was too much for her weak state, and she died in London Sept. 12, 1891, only two or three weeks after landing in Liverpool. Her remains were brought to America, were cremated on Long Island, at her desire, long before expressed, and her ashes buried in the family lot in Springfield.

The youngest daughter, Mary, was, like her sister, a graduate of Mt. Holyoke Seminary, and for a time also a teacher. She was attacked by consumption in her promising young womanhood, and, after an illness of some months, died at Springfield.

William, the only surviving member of the family, served an apprenticeship at the United States armory at Springfield, and was afterwards connected with the Hampden Watch Company as one of its superintendents, both at Springfield and after its removal to Canton, O. He has been a designer of watches, and has made and patented one or more improvements now used in watch manufacturing. Of rather delicate health from childhood, he was, at one time, in serious danger of becoming a victim of consumption, but regained health by a prolonged period of persevering open-air life in Colorado. His home is now in Longmeadow, where he devotes part of the year to his favorite pursuits of flower and fruit cultivation, while some months in the late summer and autumn have for a long time been spent by him in the woods of Maine, for health and the recreation of hunting and fishing. 388. William Colton<sup>7</sup> Goldthwaite (Erastus<sup>6</sup>, Thomas<sup>5</sup>, Thomas<sup>4</sup>, Samuel<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of Longmeadow, Mass., born there May 1, 1816, married, Aug. 14, 1850, JULIA HEBARD, daughter of Hon. Learned Hebard* of Lebanon, Conn., and Persis Strong, his wife, daughter of Daniel and Jerusha (Bushnell) Strong of Lebanon.

Mr. Goldthwaite entered Amherst College in 1835, at the age of 19. Among his classmates were Rev. Dr. Huntington, now Bishop of Central New York, and Rev. Richard Salter Storrs, D.D., of Brooklyn, late president of the American Board, the last-named being also of Longmeadow ancestry and his particular friend and roommate. It had been Mr. Goldthwaite's intention to prepare himself for the ministry, but weakness of the eyes compelled him, after two or three years, to leave his college course unfinished, and he eventually turned his attention to teaching, in which he became eminently successful, winning a wide reputation as an educator in his native State. After having taught for awhile at Richmond, Va., and Elizabeth, N. J., he became associated with Rev. Hubbard Beebe in the charge of Westfield Academy, a school of high reputation at that day, afterwards becoming sole principal for a number of years. He then returned to the old homestead at Longmeadow, which he somewhat remodeled and enlarged, and there established a family school for boys. During the fourteen years of its existence a large number of pupils came under his care, and he there did some of his most successful work. His health having begun to give way, he retired from teaching, in 1868, and, after a gradual failure of some years, during which he was more and more confined to his home, he died Nov. 18, 1882. He was through life a man of marked piety, and, after his return to Longmeadow, had been chosen one of the deacons of the church there. The following extract from a published notice, written at the time of his death, shows the estimation in which he was held in the community :

“ He was a thoroughly original character, of marked peculiarities, both in person and address, an alert and stimulating teacher ; as a writer and speaker bright, witty, quaint, and striking, both in thought and expression, a lover of nature and poetry, greatly fond of good books and good people, extending his research beyond his vocation into various sciences, and particularly that of agriculture. Before his family school confined him at home, he was in much demand for educational and agricultural addresses. He wielded a prolific and useful pen as an educational writer, being, for a considerable period, editor of the Massachusetts Teacher. The degree of A.M. was conferred upon him by Williams College. Of a fine mental fiber, warm and true in his affections, and with the native instincts of a gentleman, he won many hearty friends and was widely and highly respected by a large community. Beyond all other qualities he was marked, and especially in his later and ripening years, by a devout and tender piety, embodying in all his daily walks and conversation the hymn of Dwight,

'I Love Thy Church, O God.'"

BROWN of Uxbridge. They had no children. Mrs. Goldthwaite died in 1875. Mr. Zadock Goldthwaite, now (1896) in his 92d year, is living on the old homestead at Northbridge, in the house built by his great-grandfather, Samuel Goldthwaite, where the writer had the pleasure of visiting him in 1895. He is remarkably well preserved, both mentally and physically, and still able to do light work on his farm. His memory, which is still excellent, enabled him to furnish valuable facts relating to the Uxbridge family of Goldthwaites. In early life he lived some years in Uxbridge, where he married. He was for some time an honored officer in a Rhode Island insane asylum, as well as in the one at Worcester, where his wife was formerly a matron, both making themselves an excellent reputation in this line.

She died Aug. 26, 1870, aged 64. Mr. Goldthwaite lived to be nearly 92, dying Oct. 3, 1895. He retained health and the possession of all his faculties till very near the close of his life, and his memory of early events was clear. The writer had the pleasure of visiting him at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Geer, less than three weeks before his death, when he entertained her for an entire evening with reminiscences of his early days, dwelling particularly on the time when, at the age of 15, he lived for eight months in Salem with "Uncle Eben," who then had charge of Col. Pickman's large farm there, and telling also his recollections of "Uncle Joe" (Dr. Joseph Goldthwait of New Salem), with numerous stories showing his skill as a physician and surgeon. Mr. Elias Goldthwaite was a millwright by occupation, and a man of much ingenuity in his business, which called him from town to town for the purpose of setting up the machinery which he constructed. His father had died very much in debt, through misfortunes in business, and Elias, of his own accord, assumed all his liabilities, paying the creditors to the last cent, much to their surprise in many cases where the debts had long been outlawed. Children :

* An incident of Daniel Goldthwaite's residence in Biddeford, as told by his children, illustrates the likeness occasionally found between distantly related members of our family. In Biddeford has long lived a numerous branch, descendants of Capt. Philip Goldthwaite of the Boston family, one of these being Mr. Tristram Goldthwaite, now dead, who lived in the ancient house of his ancestor, Capt. Samuel Jordan, at Biddeford Pool. One day Mr. Daniel Goldthwaite was cordially greeted on Biddeford streets by a gentleman, unknown to him, who began speaking as to an old acquaintance. It soon becoming evident to each that there was some mistake, explanations followed. "Are you not," said the stranger, in surprise, "Tristram Goldthwaite?"

when she lost her mother, and she was brought up by her grandparents. Her own grandmother, Lois (Boardman), died before she was eight, and she afterwards became the charge of her grandfather's second wife, Betsey Barrett, who brought her up, and for whom she had a strong affection, as did all her children, by whom she is described as "a delightful old lady." They remember her as often visiting at their mother's, and as being "very small and quite old." Mrs. Dunbar died in 1891, aged 86 years 9 months. She was a woman of beautiful character and saintly life. Of her nine children, seven lived to grow up :

Mr. Goldthwaite and his wife were members of the First Congregational church in Biddeford (now outside the present city), where all their children were baptized. I was told by their daughter, Mrs. Gates, that it was the habit of the family to attend church by rowing the distance of some miles up the Saco River, not far from which the church was situated. Mrs. Gates also told me, during a visit I paid her, that the old pronunciation of our name, Goolthwrit, prevailed in Biddeford, as elsewhere in New England, during her childhood. Mr. George Goldthwaite died Nov. 20, 1871; his widow died Oct. 29, 1874. Children :

- 1313 EDWARD MCBRIDE<sup>8</sup>, b. Nov. 24, 1821; unm.; died at sea, Feb. 4, 1843.

When Mr. Goldthwaite was eight years old his father moved to Montgomery County, Ala. Here he received a liberal education, and, upon attaining his majority, entered on the study of the law, reading with his uncle, Judge John A. Campbell, then of Mobile. He was admitted to the bar in 1844, and in 1845 located in Troy. After a short period there he was called away, by the death of his father, to take charge of his estate in Montgomery County. In January, 1850, he again returned to Troy, then engaging in teaching, in which he especially distinguished himself. This he was obliged to abandon after about three years, the confinement and arduous labors of the schoolroom having impaired his health, and he then removed to the city of Montgomery, where he went into mercantile business. This proved, however, not congenial to his tastes, and he soon returned to Troy, where he was elected clerk of the circuit court, a position which he held by re-election for several terms and until the close of the Civil War. He then resumed his favorite profession of teaching, but was soon called, by a flattering vote of his fellow-citizens, to represent them in the State legislature. He was made a Mason in Troy Lodge in 1850, and there filled in succession nearly every office, becoming a Knight Templar, and was widely known and much beloved by the fraternity throughout the State. It is said of him : "He was not only a man of a natural high order of intellect, but his mind was cultivated and was truly a storehouse of a large fund of general and useful knowledge. In his actions he was honorable ; he was in his nature refined, in his instincts, pure ; in his friendship he was sincere and faithful ; in his habits he was temperate, industrious, systematic, and painstaking. As a citizen he was exemplary, public-spirited, and useful, and he was closely identified with every measure or enterprise for the good of the city and county. . . . In his intercourse with his fellowmen, he was social, genial, and refined, which, with his most superior conversational powers, not only made him a welcome guest, but caused him to be sought after by the lovers of true worth and intellect." He died at Troy Feb. 20, 1887. He was buried with Masonic honors, and his funeral was attended by a large crowd, although the weather was very unfavorable. The following is quoted from his published obituary :

"He taught the Troy school during 1850, '51, and '52, and won an enviable reputation as a skillful educator. Some of Troy's best business men to-day were his pupils. He served three terms in the State legislature, where he distinguished himself as a man of great ability as a legislator. In Pike County he held the office of circuit clerk for many years, and was known far and wide as the best clerk in the State. He established a system of keeping the clerk's books that is still followed in this county, and which is unusually admired by judges and lawyers as the simplest and best ever known. In his private life Mr. Goldthwaite was a kind, indulgent, and affectionate husband and father, a conscientious and painstaking church member."

748. Dr. Henry<sup>7</sup> Goldthwaite (Henry<sup>6</sup>, Thomas<sup>5</sup>, Thomas<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), of New York city, born in Mobile, Ala., Apr. 13, 1842, married, Feb. 3, 1864, in Mobile, GRACE TARLETON, daughter of George Washington Tarleton of that city, whose father was Colonel William Tarleton of New Hampshire, an officer in the Revolution and sheriff of Grafton Co., N. H. Dr. Goldthwaite was a graduate of Princeton College in 1860, and, the Civil War soon after breaking out, he entered the Confederate army, first as a private, and after being again and again promoted, retired, at the close of the war, with the rank of major. He then became, in 1865, connected with the firm of Brown Brothers, cotton merchants of Mobile. Later he studied medicine and graduated from Bellevue Hospital Medical College in 1876, afterwards becoming an instructor in the college. In 1878 he became resident physician of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, where he died very suddenly, Jan. 3, 1895. He was a fine-looking man, of genial manners, and he had many friends. He was a member of the University Club, the New York Athletic Club, the County Medical Society, and the New York County Medical Association. He was also a visiting physician to the City Hospital. He was buried at his old home in Mobile. Mrs. Goldthwaite died in 1871, and he married 2d, Jan. 22, 1889, Mrs. Cornelia C. Munson of Utica, N. Y. She now resides in that city. Children :

"I can now name no member of our profession, be he upon the bench or the bar, who possessed such an extensive, scholarly knowledge of the masterpieces of the great orators of antiquity. He made himself master of their speeches, with a view of modelling his own addresses to the court and jury upon them. He was without a peer as a prosecutor in those far western points. He was present there at the periods of flush times that bring with them hordes of law-breakers and desperadoes, and to his great credit be it said, he never flinched from prosecuting a criminal, regardless of the intimidation of their class."

Mrs. Goldthwaite said of him that he was, at one time, offered the Supreme judgeship of the State and $30,000, if he would agree to render a certain decision in an important mining suit. He said, "Gentlemen, if I am elected, I shall decide the case as my conscience compels me to decide it; and to be judge of the Supreme Court and obtain $30,000 could never tempt me to an unjust decision."

Judge Goldthwaite's widow continues to reside in Leadville. She is a lady of literary and artistic tastes, and a proficient in music. Numerous sketches from her pen, as well as many songs, have received public approval.

760. Anne<sup>7</sup> Goldthwaite (George<sup>6</sup>, Thomas<sup>6</sup>, Thomas<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Samuel<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), born in Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 21, 1837, married, Feb. 4, 1868, COL. EMMET SEIBELS, born in Columbia, South Carolina, Oct. 3, 1821, son of John Temple and Ann Bonner (Smith) Seibels, the latter of a highly respectable Virginia family. Col. Seibels graduated at South Carolina College in 1844, studied law, and had secured a lucrative practice when the Civil War broke out. He took an active part in raising the 7th regiment, S. C. Vols., of which he was elected major. At Yorktown, in 1862, upon the resignation of the colonel and lieutenant-colonel, he rose to full command. He took active part in the battles at Manassas, Yorktown, Trevillians, Cold Harbor, Gaines Mills, and others. After the war he went to Montgomery, where he met and married his wife, and has since resided. Col. Seibels's great-grandfather was a wealthy manufacturer of Elberfeldt, Germany, whose son, John Jacob Seibels, came to America soon after the Revolution, and married, at Columbia, S. C., Sarah Temple, daughter of William Temple, of a family distinguished in English history.* She was a cousin of Robert Emmet, the Irish patriot, and of Thomas Addis Emmet, the great lawyer of New York.

Richard Wallach Goldthwaite was educated at Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Columbia, S. C., graduating at Columbia in 1860. As soon as the Civil War broke out he entered the Confederate army as a volunteer, and when, in 1862, Semple's battery was organized, he was made senior second lieutenant, and afterwards, for a long time prior to the close of the war, commanded, as captain, that well-known company of brave * Col. Seibels has a letter written to his grandmother, Sarah Temple, by her uncle, Sir John Temple, who was the first ambassador to the United States in the reign of George III, and bearing date Jan. 5, 1793. In this letter he mentions her father, William Temple, who was his youngest brother, and had died previously. He wrote her that he had taken her young brother, Robert Temple, and was educating him. This Robert Temple was father of Lady Charlotte Temple Rose, wife of Sir John Rose, of Col. Thomas Emmet Temple, and Admiral William Grenville Temple. Sir John Temple was the grandfather of Hon. Robert C. Winthrop.

Southern soldiers. "Surviving the war, and escaping the dangers of many a hard-fought and bloody field, he married, and began the practice of law in Montgomery, where he gave good evidence that success would crown his efforts. But desire for change induced him to move to the growing little city of Dallas, where he soon gave signs of stepping to the front rank in his profession. Ere he had reached the goal of his hopes, he was struck down, to the great sorrow of friends and relatives."* An obituary in the Dallas Daily Times says of him :

"As a soldier, lawyer, citizen, husband, and father, he had proved himself a worthy son of a distinguished sire. In the short time he spent in Dallas (1873-81) he won a substantial reputation and distinction in his profession, and ingratiated himself in the esteem and affection of the people among whom he had come as a stranger. If purity of life and spotless record be passports to the better land beyond the grave, Richard Goldthwaite is supremely blest."

ADDITIONS AND CORRECTIONS.

Page 61. Note on family of John Goldthwaite : Bristow and Patience, servants to John Goldthwaite, married Aug. 3, 1733 (Boston Marriages).

Page 75, No. 33. The Quaker marriage certificate (Note, p. 71) of "Eunice Goldthoit" and Isaac Buffum, a copy of which I now have through the kindness of Mr. Charles Buffum, shows that Eunice was daughter of "Exekiel Goldthoit" (No. 33), there said to be of Mendon, which is in the immediate vicinity of Sutton. Isaac Buffum was son of Joseph Buffum, and a blacksmith. Mr. Caleb Buffum of Salem, genealogist of his family, says that Isaac Buffum lived on Boston street, Salem, dying about 1825. He left sons, Isaac and Ezekiel, and a daughter (Sarah) who continued to live together in the homestead, and were all unmarried. The sister survived her brothers, and left, by will, part of their property to the Friends' Society in Salem. Ezekiel Goldthwaite probably died not far from the time (1766) of this marriage, and it was his widow who married, in 1768, Thomas Legg. Legg is one of the prominent names of Mendon. The Old Record does not locate (at Sutton) Ezekiel Goldthwaite, as stated, p. 75, simply saying he "left no male heirs."

Page 83. Addition to Note : Among officers of the 50th regiment on half-pay, in 1758, was Joseph Goldthwaite, lieutenant. This was the regiment of Maj.-Gen. Shirley, and was broken up by its surrender to the French at Oswego, Aug. 14, 1756. (Vol. X, p. 282, Col. Hist. of N. Y.) This date thus probably ends Capt. Joseph's service in the French and Indian War. He was again in Boston, Dec. 14th of the same year (probably earlier, also), as appears from the Selectmen's Records of that date (Vol. 19, p. 50), where he is called Capt. Joseph Goldthwaite, his title (by brevet) since the first Louisburg expedition. He is erroneously called Colonel, his service being confused with that of his son, Joseph, in Maine Hist. Soc. Coll., Oct., 1898.

Page 89, Note. Henry Barnes and Christian Arbuthnott had their marriage intention published Sept. 26, 1746.

* Added by Erastus Goldthwaite of Longmeadow.

Letter of Miss Hannah Goldthwaite Gowen of Weston (No. 306), born 1774, died 1870. It is dated Weston, Oct., 1861, when she was past 87* :

DEAR ELLEN :

As I promised to give you a little sketch of your mother's ancestors that you were not acquainted with, you promised not to criticise the spelling and remember that the writer is past 80 years old. I will begin with Uncle Thomas Goldthwait, my grandfather's youngest brother and brother to your great-grandfather, who, in the time of the Revolution in 1776, commanded Fort Pownal on the Penobscot River, which I visited in 1800, and saw the entry that a large bear ran through when the family were at dinner. He had four daughters, viz.: Betsey, Esther, Katey, and Mary. Katey married Mr. Sylvester Gardner, father of Dr. Gardner of Trinity church, and grandfather to the present Mrs. Cushing; at his death, she married Mr. William Powell, father to Mrs. Jonathan Mason and Mrs. short Thomas Perkins—he was called short to distinguish him from Thomas Handiside (Perkins). After Mr. Powell's death, she went to England to visit her father, and my father took her home to England, as England was then called. Her other sisters never married. Your mother was called after her sister, Esther Goldthwait. After awhile Mrs. Powell returned to America, where she died in her house in Beacon street, leaving a handsome fortune.

Philip Goldthwait, a brother to my mother, went to England in 1774 and bought an annuity in the King's household, and became one of the Gentlemen of the bedchamber, and when my father was in London he attended a christening of one of the royal babies with my uncle.

* This letter, with one or two slight and unimportant omissions, is given entire, as in the copy furnished by Miss Ingersoll. As may be seen by reference to the foregoing records, several members of families are left out, and some of the statements are inaccurate. It is, however, correct in the main, and is interesting as the account of one who was contemporary with many of the persons mentioned.

Burrel Goldthwait, another brother, was an eminent surgeon, and attended the army in 1771 at the taking of Louisburg. He married a lady of note in that part of the world, became a widower, and, at the close of the war, returned home, married again a Miss Langdon of Portsmouth, N. H., and settled in Boston till the war of 1776 called him again to the army, where he died; his wife and little daughter returned to Portsmouth; he left her handsomely provided for; the daughter married Mr. Gardner of Bath, Me.

John Goldthwait, another brother, commanded a man-of-war in the American war of 1776, and was kept a prisoner in England until peace was declared, when he returned home to die.

Joseph Goldthwait, another brother, whose letters you read, married a Miss Hannah Bridgham of Barre, for whom I was named, in the time of the Seage. He bought the house where Dr. White now lives, and there she died; of the house I mean the old house.

Samuel Goldthwait, another brother, you know as Mrs. Phillips' father, married a Miss Burdine of Rhode Island. They lived in Newport, where I visited them in 1779, with my mother, and then made a visit to Mrs. Silvester Gardner. Mrs. Goldthwait died there. He then went to Baltimore, where my brother John died at his house.

Benjamin Goldthwait, another brother, never left Boston, but married a Miss Sally Dawes. He had children, Sally, Hannah, Martha, Susanna, Polly, Mary, and your dear mother, Esther, and two sons, Ezekiel and Benjamin. Ezekiel was burned on an Election Day, playing with squibs on the Common. He was eight or ten years old. Benjamin married Miss Hannah Dawes; at his death, she married Judge Newcomb of Keene, as you know. Martha married George Ingersoll of the army. Susanna married James Lanman, Deacon of Brattle Street church; many years after his death she became the second wife of Mr. John Dorr. Sally married an English officer, Mr. Abdell, and at his death married Dr. Charles Adams of Keene. Polly died very young.

Mary died, unmarried. Esther married Mr. John Dorr — was his first wife.

Sally Goldthwait, my mother's eldest sister, married a gentleman by the name of Williams, a merchant of London, where she lived; she had no children. She came to America in 1779 to visit mother. I never saw her again. She died in England.

Martha Goldthwait, my mother, the youngest daughter, married Dr. Joseph Gowen, who studied medicine with her brother, Dr. Burrel Goldthwait, in Boston, in 1774. They had eleven children. I am the only one left.

This finishes your mother's immediate family. I will now try and give you a sketch of Uncle Ezekiel Goldthwait's family, my great-uncle. Mr. Ezekiel Goldthwait was brother to my grandfather; married a Miss Betsey Lewis, sister to my grandmother, who was Martha Lewis, young ladies of note in those days; four children; Betsey, the eldest, married Rev. Mr. Commings, minister of the Old South church in Boston; at the death of Mr. Commings, she married the Rev. Mr. Bacon, who took her first husband's place in the church, where he preached till the war broke out, when he removed to Stockbridge. They had but one son, Ezekiel G. Bacon, who studied law in Portland while I was there; he afterwards became a member of Congress. Catharine Goldthwait, their second daughter, married Mr. Jonathan Williams; had one son, Jack Williams, who has the pictures. . . . Peggy Goldthwait married a Mr. Williams, brother to Jonathan; they had one daughter, Betsey. When they married they lived in great style, kept their carriage, and owned the house at the head of Winter street, afterwards owned by Mr. Samuel Brick, where the stone houses now stand.

Sally Goldthwait, the youngest daughter, married a Mr. Edwards, a lawyer of note. He lived near her father's below the Mill Bridge. Their father owned half the north end of Boston, which was then the court end. Mr. Elliot, I believe, lives there now. Their garden extended from Middle street to Front street. They had no son. So much for Uncle Ezekiel — your mother's brother was named for him.

They* had two sisters; one married a Dr. Sherban and lived on Back street, and a great landholder. He was grandfather to the Miss Sherbans that visit Mary in Dorchester; she will tell you; they were cousins to my mother, and people of wealth and consequence.

H. GOLDTHWAIT GOWEN.

NOTE. — As appears from Schenectady, N. Y., records, Dr. Michael Burrell Goldthwaite (No. 111), had had as 2d wife, Margarita Farley, whom he married Feb. 3, 1761, perhaps the daughter, Margarietje, bapt. Oct. 9, 1737, of Johannes Fairly of that town. His two marriages, at New York, 1759, and at Schenectady, 1761, tend to confirm Miss Gowen's statement of his being at that period with the Colonial army, which probably brought him to those parts. Note also her allusion to his marriage "in that part of the world." The family account, also, of his younger brother, Thomas, (No. 113,) as to his being a sailor, etc., finds confirmation in the Life of Esek Hopkins, commander of the Continental Navy, 1775 to 1778, where (page 138) Thomas Goldthwaite is found among signers, in 1776, to a petition of sailors and marines in service on the Brig Cabot of that navy. These vessels made extended cruises, and saw hard fighting, in some of which, probably, Thomas, as already found, was taken prisoner (see p. 135).

* Meaning Joseph<sup>4</sup>, Ezekiel<sup>4</sup>, Thomas<sup>4</sup>. As these, with other brothers not here mentioned, had several sisters, it would be interesting to know which of them was the second of the two whose memory alone survived in Miss Gowen's tradition.
